Nathan Straus, a Good Man.

Another Fatality.

Mrs. Patterson Gathers News.

A Farmer's Charter.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

THE DEATH OF NATHAN STRAUS on Sunday in New York, three weeks before the completion of his eighty-third year, is a great loss to this country.

Mr. Straus set an example of wise philanthropy, devoting more than a quarter of a century of his active working years and a substantial fortune to his fight for pure milk throughout the United States. As an example to others he distributed pasteurized milk, including milk properly modified for young infants, in the poor districts of New York.

His influence is felt in foreign countries as well as here. Because of his work pasteurization of milk and careful handling and bottling are now enforced by law, and, thanks to Mr. Straus, the death rate among infants in New York has been cut down 50 per cent.

MR. STRAUS was one of three brothers, all distinguished for good citizenship and public spirit.

His brother, Isador, whose heroic death on the Titanic will be long remembered, represented his state in Congress, and was one of the three greatest merchants produced by the United States thus far. A monument in New York City was erected in his honor. Oscar Straus, the younger brother, represented this country as ambassador to Turkey at Constantinople, and was in the cabinet of Theodore Roosevelt.

Nathan Straus, who died on Sunday morning, literally saved the lives of millions of children. His memory will be enshrined in the hearts of mothers all over the world.

IT IS FEARED that Mrs. Beryl Hart and Lieut. William S. MacLaren have been lost on their flight to Europe via the Azores. Ships yesterday reported rough seas, high winds, no possibility of surviving a landing for more than a few minutes.

The practical certainty that two more fliers have gone into eternity makes you wonder how things are arranged in the next world. Are the inhabitants segregated in groups for the conversations of the last thousands of billions of years, the great conquerors here with three always in front, Alexander, Caesar and Napoleon; the great writers there, Homer, Dante, Shakespeare dominating; the great philosophers yonder, Socrates, Plato, Aristotle and perhaps Bacon, with groups around Archimedes, Michael Angelo, and Darwin, men without peers; or are they all scattered, Dante perhaps next to a Baptist from New Jersey, and Darwin beside a fundamentalist from Tennessee, all eternity in which to convert him?

HOW MANY of us feel that we deserve but lack the world's appreciation? Mr. A. Capone, known to his friends as "Scarface," because of an unfortunate early incident, has that feeling.

Mrs. Eleanor Patterson, granddaughter of the late Joseph Medill, an editor of the Washington Herald, tells you about it.

BEING IN MIAMI, where Mr. Capone maintains a winter residence, and knowing that editors should seek information at the sources, she called on the distinguished Chicago citizen, who, says Mrs. Patterson, "stood by his gate, with six athletic, energetic looking young men, walking about not far from him." The fact that many have threatened to kill Capone, although not to his face, makes him interesting.

When Mrs. Patterson said: "I am Joe Patterson's sister," Mr. Capone said: "Come right in and sit down."

To tell a Chicagoan that you are Joe Patterson's sister is like telling a Parisian that you are the sister of the Eiffel Tower.

MR. CAPONE led the way to his beautiful residence, the six athletic young men keeping, unobtrusively, close by.

Even ladies have been known to shoot, although the distinguished young editor of the Washington Herald had no shooting thoughts. She was interested in studying a man of power.

And, says Mrs. Patterson:

"Capone has great power. His hands are extraordinarily powerful. The muscles stand out under his tightly fitting clothes. He is only 32 years of age. His neck seems strong enough to hold the weight of ten men and" (pointing to a photograph of the marvelous equestrian statue of Colleoni, the great Venetian condottiere) "he has a face as powerful as that. I should not wonder if he were Colleoni come back again, transferred by fate from Northern Italy to the shores of Lake Michigan.

"His eyes are two narrow slits, pale gray, and when he complains of harsh treatment undeserved, there is a look in them that might change the minds of those who talk about putting Capone on the spot. I should not like to be near the spot at the psychological moment."

MRS. PATTERSON should write at length of her interesting visit to the most powerful man in a great new industry.

It would be as interesting as an authentic description of a talk with the minotaur. Capone was born in New York, by the way. When Mrs. Patterson said, pointing to an airplane high up: "Are you not afraid they

Fishermen Report Object Resembling Plane Was Seen Plunging Into Ocean

International News Service.

HORTA, Island of Fayal, Azores, Jan. 13.—An object, said to resemble an airplane, seen to fall into the sea about 20 miles off the island of San Miguel, the Azores, today spurred to renewed activity search for traces of the seaplane Tradewind, in which Mrs. Beryl Hart and Lieut. William S. MacLaren were lost between Bermuda and Azores on the way to Paris.

According to information received here by radio the "object" was sighted by fishermen on the Island of San Miguel. On the basis of this information, the radio station on the island immediately broadcast word to all ships in the vicinity to search near the spot where the "object" was reported seen.

A British warship is said to be in the vicinity. No word has been received of any sighting.

The Island of San Miguel is nearer to the Portuguese coast than any of the other large islands forming the Azores group. It is about 800 miles from Portugal and about 150 miles east of the Island of Fayal, the planned destination of the Tradewind.

If the airplane came down in the sea near St. Michael's it would indicate its pilots overshot their goal.

The lone hope remaining today for the safety of the two fliers was that the plane, hampered in keeping to its course by bad visibility, and buffeted by a northeast gale, had come down on one of the other nine isolated islands which form the Azores archipelago.

HUNGER MARCH TO DEFY POLICE

As Communistic leaders today prepared for four separate "hunger parades" for the unemployed to converge at City-County Building tomorrow, Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh ordered inspectors to hold all police in readiness to halt the processions and arrest responsible parties.

While the Trade Union Unity League withheld information where the four lines of marchers will meet, Robert Woods, secretary, asserted a delegation of 15 members representing the 15 district councils of Pittsburgh will demand a hearing before City Council for immediate relief measures. These delegates will be selected tonight at the William Z. Foster demonstration in the North Side Carnegie Music Hall.

Woods, who admitted he is a Communist, though claiming the organization was not Communistic, announced the lines of march will start at 1 p. m. from Twenty-fifth and Carson street, South Side; at the "Jungle," Banksville road, and Butler and Thirty-fourth streets, Lawrenceville. He refused to divulge where the Hill district marchers would form, though he said the parade would reach Wylie and Webster avenues.

A final application for a parade permit would be made today, Woods said.

Pershing Scores Army Staff for Unpreparedness

By JOHN J. PERSHING,

Commander-in-chief, American Expeditionary Forces.

The second chapter of "My Experiences in the World War," by Gen. Pershing, is presented herewith. Succeeding chapters appear daily, and Sunday, exclusively in the Sun-Telegraph.

CHAPTER II.

I arrived in Washington May 9, and the next morning called at the office of the Chief of Staff, Maj. Gen. Hugh L. Scott. He spoke of my assignment, which, as had been my impression from his message of May 2, was to command a division, and told me that it had been made upon his recommendation.

He referred me to the other general officers who were then senior to me, and gave reasons why each one had been passed over. I greatly appreciated the opinion and action of the Chief of Staff, whom I had always held in high esteem.

Gen. Pershing.

Gen. Scott outlined the general plans in so far as anything definite had been determined. Beginning with February 3, the War College Division of the General Staff presented a number of recommendations for action in the event of war with the Central Powers. One was for the enactment of a draft law, and others referred to the size of the army to be organized and the necessity for the procurement of equipment and supplies.

March 15, acting under instructions of the Chief of Staff, the War College Division submitted a more detailed scheme for raising an army of 500,000 men.

But these were all eleventh-hour suggestions and no definite action was taken on any of them until May 18, when Congress passed the law authorizing the increase of military establishment through the application of the draft.

I was really more chagrined than astonished to realize that so little had been done when there were so many things that might have been done long before. It had been apparent to everybody for months that we were likely to be forced into the war, and a state of war had actually existed for several weeks, yet scarcely a start had been made to prepare for it. The War Department seemed to be suffering from a kind of inertia for which it was probably not altogether responsible.

The General Staff was established just after the Spanish-American War, when Mr. Elihu Root was Secretary of War, and upon his recommendation. One of the purposes for which it was organized was to make studies of possible theaters of operations and to work out plans of action. Specifically, this duty fell to the General Staff at Washington, which was charged with making plans for the organization, supply, mobilization and transportation of the necessary forces to meet all possible contingencies.

General Staff Lacked Foresight

Few of Its Officers Had Experience Enough to Understand Its Functions.

But until a few weeks before the declaration of war neither the General Staff nor the War College had received any hint or direction to be ready with recommendations, except as indicated above. The General Staff had apparently done little more, even after war was declared, than to consider the immediate question of organizing and sending abroad one combat division and 50,000 special troops requested by the Allies.

In view of the serious possibility of war that had confronted the nation since the sinking of the Lusitania, there was not the slightest reason why well-nigh complete plans should not have been prepared without waiting for direct instructions from the administration. To find such a lack of foresight on the part of the General Staff was not calculated to inspire confidence in its ability to do its part in the emergency that confronted us.

But the truth is that the General Staff at Washington had never been organized along modern lines, its membership had been recently reduced by Congress, and but few of its officers had the experience necessary fully to understand its functions.

In this fact we no doubt find the basis of many of the difficulties that arose later in connection with the preparation of our army at home and its shipment and supply abroad.

My next call was upon the Secretary of War, Mr. Newton D. Baker. It was a much younger and considerably smaller man who greeted me than I had expected. He actually looked diminutive as he sat behind his desk, doubled up in a rather large office chair, but when he spoke my impression changed immediately. We talked of my recent experience in Mexico and of conditions on the border, which, fortunately, were quieter than they had been for several years.

Mr. Baker referred to my appointment and said that he had given the subject very careful thought and had made the choice solely upon my record. I expressed my deep appreciation

SMITH ASKS APOLOGY BY G. O. P.

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—Apology and reparation from the Republican National Committee was demanded by Alfred E. Smith, former governor of New York, for dissemination by Robert H. Lucas of the notorious bar room campaign cartoon in a letter put in the record of the Nye senatorial campaign committee today.

The cartoon bore the caption "Al Smith-Raskob Ideas of Happiness," and 800,000 copies were distributed secretly by Lucas, executive director of the Republican National Committee, against Senator George W. Norris in Nebraska and in other states where there was a liquor issue.

DENIES QUOTATION

Denying a quotation accompanying the cartoon on which it was based, Smith wrote to Senator Wagner (Dem.), of New York, and asked that his protest be made part of the committee record.

The disclosure regarding Lucas' use of the cartoon was made during the committee's investigation of the anti-Norris Nebraska campaign.

In his letter, Smith said:

"Since on the face of the testimony, this cartoon was distributed in these various states to the extent of 800,000 copies I think that an apology and reparation is due me from the Republican National Committee which permitted its director to do this and that I am entitled

ANTI-BLUE LAW BILL DRAWN

Repeal of the blue law of 1794 and a state-wide referendum at the general election in November to determine local sentiment on legalizing Sunday sports and amusements are provided in a bill which Representative Michael A. Musmanno, of McKees Rocks, will present in the Legislature next Monday.

By the referendum each city, borough and township would decide whether it wanted Sunday sports and amusements and whether admissions might be charged or collections taken. Five questions would be voted upon. Where the local vote favored liberalizing Sunday, the council or supervisors would be required to enact legislation making the choice effective.

The Musmanno measure is a substitute for the so-called "local option" bill which he introduced last session and proposed to reintroduce. It has been drawn after careful study and there is believed to be no doubt of its constitutionality.

25 Planes Hunting Lost Army Fliers

GALVESTON, Tex., Jan. 13.—(AP.)—A wide search was continued today for Lieut. Jonathan Grasty, 25, pilot, and his passenger, Corp. Phillip Schuchman, of Elizabeth, Pa., attached to the Third Army Attack group, missing since Sunday night. They were last seen between Galveston and Matagorda Bay, on the Gulf Coast, following their departure from hunting grounds at Matagorda for Fort Crockett.

Twenty-five Army planes and a Coast Guard cutter participated in the search.

PinchotPicks Armstrong, Beamish

HARRISBURG, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—Selection of Charles F. Armstrong, of Leechburg, as insurance commissioner, and Richard J. Beamish, of Philadelphia, as secretary of the commonwealth, in the incoming administration, was announced today by Gov.-elect Gifford Pinchot.

Armstrong, as the candidate for lieutenant governor, was the running mate of Gov.-elect Pinchot in the recent primary election. He has served as postmaster of Leechburg for the last three years and was a member of the House of Representatives in the State Legislature for five terms from 1919 to 1928. In 1923 he served as a member of the Law and Order Commission. He was born in Harmarville, Allegheny County, on October 21, 1865.

Beamish is employed as a political writer on the Philadelphia Record. He was appointed a member of the Public Service Commission in 1926 during Pinchot's previous administration, but the Senate in 1927 failed to confirm his appointment.

There's One Man With Whom Borah Has No Quarrel

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

Carillon of 102,000 dinner pails clanked yesterday as that many Ford workmen ankled back to work.

Chimes of prosperity are sounding big and wide. You know things are normal when Borah took a wallop at Henry Fletcher.

"I have no quarrel with Mr. Fletcher," said Mr. Borah in an explanation that only deepened the mystery of why there is a man with whom Senator Borah has no quarrel.

Mr. Borah claims that Mr. Fletcher admits he knows nothing of the tariff. Which is our

MOTHER SAVES BABY IN FIRE

Snatched from the flames of a burning bed by his mother, Walter King, Jr., 3, was nursing burns of the left knee today. Mrs. Emily King, 29, the mother, was overcome by smoke after she spread the alarm to neighbors.

The home at No. 2 McClelland street, Dravosburg, was slightly damaged. The child had been playing with matches in the bed. Margaret King, 8, his sister, smelled smoke and warned the mother.

As she picked the child from the flames, he said:

After carrying the boy from the room, the mother returned to fight the blaze. It was virtually under control when firemen arrived. Fire Chief Arthur Richards gave first aid to Mrs. King.

Cold Weather, More Snow Due Today

Colder weather and more snow is forecast for the Pittsburgh district today and tomorrow by Observer William S. Brotzman. The temperature tonight will drop to 10 degrees and will hover between 10 and 15 degrees during the early hours tomorrow.

DUQUESNE GARDEN SITE UP

Commissioner Urges Oakland Location, but Gains No Support for His Motion

The Duquesne Garden site for a Town Hall was urged by Chairman Joseph G. Armstrong at a meeting of the County Commissioners today, but his proposal failed.

Armstrong moved that the county law department be instructed to institute condemnation proceedings to acquire the Duquesne Garden site and the Jennings property adjoining, containing in all 189,125 square feet.

"NO DODGER"

Armstrong said:

"I have been accused of dodging this town hall proposition. I have lived a long life without dodging anything."

He waited for a second to his motion, but none was forthcoming, then added:

"There being no second there is nothing before the board."

Commissioner C. C. McGovern asked for light on the probable cost.

$1,500,000 PRICE

Attorney J. F. Callahan, representing the Duquesne Garden site owners, said the property could be purchased for less than $8 a square foot, making the price around $1,500,000. The people voted $6,000,000 in the bond issue of 1929 for a Town Hall.

Failure of his colleagues to back Armstrong's choice apparently leaves selection of a location farther away than ever.

Recently Commissioner E. V. Babcock moved that the Nicola site in Schenley Farms be acquired. His motion likewise failed of a second.

McGovern has gone on record as against the hall as a general proposition, but if one is built he favors a downtown site.

Dog Stranded on Ice Balks Its Rescuers

Stranded on floating ice of the city reservoir in Shaler Township, a dog having German shepherd characteristics gradually was weakening this afternoon as Animal Rescue League workers sought through lassoes, ladders and coaxing to get him through the icy waters to firm ground. As a last resort, the workers planned to shoot the animal.

Mrs. Sheffelin, Wed Here, Given Divorce

RENO, Nev., Jan. 13.—(INS.)—Charges of mental cruelty today had won a divorce for Eleanor Beggs Sheffelin, New York, from John Jay Sheffelin. They were married at Pittsburgh in 1923.

Wife Dies, Shawkey Dash by Air Futile

Grief Makes Rich Woman Hermit for 20 Years

The story of an aged woman of wealth who lived a recluse for more than 20 years in a neighborhood of mansions was disclosed today as the body of Miss Tillie Pachter, 80, was claimed at the morgue.

Police yesterday broke into her two-story frame dwelling at 5517 Fifth avenue, where she lived alone, after neighbors had said she had not been seen since December 20. They found her body on the floor beside a small gas stove, which was burning. She is believed to have died from carbon monoxide several weeks ago.

Today at the morgue, B. Callomon, superintendent of Rodef Shalom congregation, claimed her body. He said she had lived the life of a hermit since 1909, when her sister, Esther, her only relative, with whom she was touring Europe, died in Italy. She could not be consoled.

The late Dr. J. Leonard Levy, rabbi of Rodef Shalom, had tried to interest her in church activities, but failed.

She owned a row of houses in the Shadyside district, and was reported to be worth $200,000, according to Callomon.

A violin, made in 1675 by Jacobus Stainer, and many other antiques were found by deputy coroners in the house today.

The ... showed:

Dry agents spent $31,940 from July 1 to October 31 in purchase of liquor to obtain evidence, or at a rate of about $120,000 a year.

NO OPINION ON MERITS

Attorney General Mitchell declined to express an opinion on the merits of prohibition, but said he would enforce, not "scuttle," the law.

Mitchell said the government is confining itself to prosecuting commercial violators and Woodcock said the government will not disturb "private" violators.

Prosecution of persons for making home-brew is not impossible, but difficult, according to Woodcock.

Woodcock aroused Tinkham's ire in hearings by approving the tapping of telephone and telegraph wires to obtain evidence.

Denying he was dictated to by the Anti-Saloon League or other dry organizations, Woodcock said:

"I have not had the slightest communication on any subject with any of those bodies or anyone representing those bodies."

Woodcock defended the prohibition arrests ... admitted 17 were dismissed from July 1 to November 30, 1930, for various causes, including collusion, ... attempted extortion ... and insulting words addressed in the office.

FARMERS OF Saskatchewan have formulated a "charter of liberty." They threaten "a co-operative commonwealth within the British Empire." That has a Russian sound.

They demand a basic price for wheat to cover the cost of production, retroactive to the first of last August. That sounds like Uncle Sam.

They would abolish grain exchanges and all speculation in farm products. And they would have the government crop insurance, "guaranteeing all farmers' production against all natural risks." That sounds like heaven.

Also the farmers ask an arrangement that would regulate the cost of things bought by farmers to fit the selling price of commodities that he produces.

YESTERDAY DETROIT, after a period of hibernation, showed signs of life at full speed. Tens of thousands of additional men went to work. Seventy-five thousand started at the Ford River Rouge plant.

SOMEBODY REACHED "the spot" yesterday. James Belcastro, known in Chicago as "the Pineapple King," will manufacture no more explosive bombs. As he stepped from his automobile five bullets entered his head and body. The hospital says he may live. Such men have great vitality.

DR. WILLIAMS, editor of Mental Hygiene, says very truly that those that practice or contemplate trial marriage "lack sincerity and faith in each other."

The girl in the partnership may be sure of one thing, namely, that the man thinks little of her.

If his opinion of her were what it should be, he would want to marry and forever, with no trial, no doubts and no misgivings.

THE ASSOCIATION Against the Prohibition Amendment declares, through Mr. Curran, its president, that 24 states now favor the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and 12 more will be ready for repeal within two years.

That prediction is a mirage worthy to stand beside the Saskatchewan liberty charter. Thirty-six states will not in the lifetime of anyone living vote to repeal the prohibition amendment.

ONLY A REVOLUTION which we shall not have, would take that out of the Constitution. But ingenious words and ingenious lawyers could remove the mainspring from the Volstead Act, and then the Eighteenth Amendment would become as "harmless" as the one guaranteeing political rights regardless of color.

Coolidge Gives Advice To Young Legislators

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Jan. 13.

To the Editor of the Sun-Telegraph:

Many young men are just starting a political career of indeterminate length in state legislatures. A number of them will be future governors and senators. One or two may become president.

If they wish to be useful and influential in the public service they will put their reliance in courage and serious hard work. Knowing a little more about a subject under discussion than anyone else on the floor will be the surest way to success. When that is done it will not be necessary to seek publicity. The press will come to them.

Calvin Coolidge

They will find artificial newspaper notoriety very dangerous. Even when it becomes very wide it has no depth. That kind of a reputation can be destroyed as easily as it was created by an equally artificial counterblast from the opposition. Legislators ought to pay much more attention to history. There are very few problems that are new. If they examine what has been done in the past they will save themselves from many errors in the present. In the political life of tomorrow not only the greatest satisfaction but the greatest power will go to the men who are right today.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

2 POLICE HELD IN THREAT CASE

Following a long hearing, punctuated by frequent clashes of the principals, Justice of the Peace John T. Small, of East McKeesport, last night held for court Wilmerding Police Capt. Richard Butler and a patrolman, Moody Champ, on assault and battery charges.

Guarded by a detail of county detectives, Tony Zatik, of Middle street, Wilmerding, his wife, Mary, and two of his nine children, who had signed informations against the officers, made their way through the crowded courtrooms to testify.

From Zatik, who testified through an interpreter, Squire Small drew testimony to implicate the Wilmerding political dictator, James Volpe. After several unsuccessful efforts, Small succeeded in eliciting testimony to the effect that Volpe had attempted to force Zatik, through threat of imprisonment, to drop the charges against the officers.

Zatik admitted Capt. Butler did not strike him when Butler and Champ entered his home in answer to a letter sent to police by Mrs. Zatik, complaining about noisy children in the neighborhood. He said Champ struck him several times and injured him so severely that he required treatment by a physician.

Mrs. Zatik testified that Capt. Butler pushed her as she was leaving her home. At this point Squire Small drew up another information, issued a warrant, and ordered his constable to rearrest the police captain.

to have 800,000 copies of a statement showing that I was falsely quoted distributed just as widely as the original cartoon was and to the same organizations."

FOLLOWED TESTIMONY

Smith said he had been following the testimony before the Nye committee and that the testimony regarding the cartoon had been given him.

F. H. Creelch, Nye committee auditor, testified before the committee today that some special editions of the Ku Klux Klan paper, "Fellowship Forum," had been sent into Montana, Kentucky, Alabama and West Virginia. Some of these editions carried the cartoon.

He investigated the records of the Independent Publishing Company which prints the Forum, and found over $3,000 worth of the special editions of the paper had been ordered by former Senator Robsion (Rep.) of Kentucky. Creelch said Robsion informed the company that friends of his were to pay the bill.

The editions, he added, dealt with religion and prohibition.

He said Senator Heflin, who ran as an independent in Alabama in the last election, ordered all but one of the editions sent to Alabama and paid for them himself.

Raskob Denies Charge He 'Purchased' Party

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—A direct defense against criticism of his chairmanship of the Democratic National Committee was made last night by John J. Raskob.

He made public a letter addressed to Frank R. Kent, columnist for the Baltimore Sun, terming untrue statements Kent had written concerning him in a recent article. The chairman summed up Kent's assertions as a charge "that I have bought and paid for the party."

The statement said:

"The million dollar reduction in the party debt was made not by me but by close friends and associates of Gov. Smith, who felt great responsibility for a large part of our deficit and met it. I am loaning money to the national committee which will be repaid.

"When your article infers that I was a Republican and changed to the Democratic party because of my religion and because Alfred E. Smith is a Roman Catholic, you are merely joining that strong group in the Republican National Committee that have been fomenting religious and class hatreds during the past two years and prostituting the Republican party to gain ballots from a misinformed, abused and misguided public."

KAY FRANCIS . . SHE ARRIVED AT BUREAU IN AN AMBULANCE

Miss Francis, 25, film star who arrived at Los Angeles marriage bureau in an ambulance, filed notice of intention to marry Kenneth McKenna, 31, actor, announced they'd do it before the week is over.

DODGE SURGEON DIES, CALL 2D

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—A surgical operation intended to reshape the nose of Mrs. Horace E. Dodge, Jr., wife of the motor manufacturer, was concluded yesterday by another plastic surgeon, the New York Evening World said today, when Dr. Luis P. Berne died of a heart attack in the operating room.

Mrs. Dodge remained on the operating table under an anaesthetic, the Evening World said, and Dr. Joseph Safian, of the plastic surgery department of Beth Israel Hospital, was called hastily to complete the operation.

Mrs. Dodge, the former Muriel Dorothy Sisman, of Detroit, was married to Dodge after his divorce from Mrs. Lois Knowlton Dodge.

Dr. Berne died as he was performing the operation at the Park West Hospital.

Civil War Veteran Dies at Harrisburg

DROUGHT BILL ACCORD FOUND

Democratic efforts to open the question of food loans to farmers to general discussion and a vote in the House were defeated by 215 to 143. This issue has delayed the $60,000,000 measure for more than a week.

The next step was committing the bill to conference on the Senate's amendment, which would provide $15,000,000 with which farmers of the drought area would be authorized to purchase food for themselves and their families. Both Republicans and Democrats joined finally on a vote to disagree to that amendment. Differences between the Senate and House measures now will be reconciled.

President, Wife Guests of Stimsons

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—The President and Mrs. Hoover will be entertained at dinner tonight by Secretary and Mrs. Stimson for the third time. The guests will be old friends of the secretary's. The list has been submitted to the President and received his approval, as is customary. Guest lists where the President is the guest of honor are not made public until after the dinner.

Loses Fight for Oil Man's Estate

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—Mrs. Minnie Pfeifer's claim to a half share of the estate of Cal Wright, millionaire Oklahoma oil man, will not be reviewed by the Supreme Court. She contended she was Wright's daughter, that he recognized her as his child, and that she was his heir. Wright died in Creek County, Oklahoma, in 1928, willing his fortune to his widow, Rosa B. Wright.

Salisburg, Pa., Man Dies at Age of 100

SALISBURY, Pa., Jan. 13.—Abraham A. Maust, 100 years old, died yesterday at his home here. Maust was able to take a walk each day until three months ago, when he became ill.

HOOVER ASKS GIFTS FOR NEEDY

President Calls on People To Raise $10,000,000 for Relief of Sufferers

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—President Hoover today called on the people to contribute a minimum of $10,000,000 for the relief of drought sufferers.

In a formal proclamation, he said:

"I am sure that the American people will respond to the Red Cross appeal both promptly and generously."

The demands on the disaster funds of the Red Cross, Mr. Hoover said, have been far greater in the last four weeks than during the previous four months. This brought about the necessity for a material increase in resources.

In some parts of the stricken areas, the Chief Executive said, small communities have been affected both by the drought and general business depression. The Red Cross has been called upon to take care of sufferers in these communities as well as in purely rural sections.

The additional $10,000,000 asked combined with what is left of the $5,000,000 set aside by the Red Cross some time ago appears to President Hoover to be sufficient to meet the demands.

Unless the $10,000,000 is raised, Mr. Hoover said, many persons in the country will lack necessities of life.

RESEARCH CLUB AIDS JOBLESS

Believing that it is better to provide work for the unemployed than to offer them charity, the Westinghouse Research Club has undertaken to pay laborers who will improve unpaved streets of Forest Hills Borough. The club is composed of about 200 scientists and engineers of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company. The borough authorities have agreed to furnish cinders, trucks and tools.

Seven men, under the direction of John J. Kennedy, borough manager, started to work yesterday. It is estimated that the crew will lay cinders for a tenth of a mile per day, and that the work will last at least for several months.

Weather Conditions.

The disturbance that caused the rain over the eastern portion of the country yesterday is now centered in the far Northeast, there is still a slight depression in the form of a high extending southwestward over the central valleys. The precipitation was light except along the immediate Atlantic Coast, where moderately heavy rains fell. Light snow is still falling over the Great Lakes and the adjacent states, while over the West and South the skies are clearing.

OHIO'S NEW GOVERNOR IN HIS DEBUT

GEORGE WHITE SPEAKING AT COLUMBUS AFTER HIS INAUGURATION AS GOVERNOR

Cotton Field Folks Rush 'Alfalfa's' Inaugural

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—The folks from the cotton fields took Gov. William H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray at his word when he asked them to his inaugural ball.

Thousands who swept the "Sage of Tishomingo" into office with Oklahoma's greatest gubernatorial majority last fall attended the new executive's opening social event last night, created a crush that even National Guardsmen couldn't straighten out and defeated plans for a grand march.

Overalls brushed swallow-tails; workshoes trod on silver slippers. The grand march lined up, started, but was immediately sidetracked.

With governors, new and old, vainly attempting to apply the brakes the official assembly literally was shoved into a capitol private office. There it stayed, while the great inaugural throng that had stayed over to "see the Governor do his dance" tapped their feet—when someone was not walking on them.

Proposed square dances on two floors of the state house gave up quickly. The strains of "Turkey in the Straw" succumbed as musicians bent their efforts to save fiddles from destruction in the rush.

HOUSEWIFE HANGED FOR POISONING HUSBAND AND SON

FIRST TO DIE IN SLAYING OF 40

Two Others Await Execution On Gallows in Hungary; Prayers for Reprieve Fail

SZOLNOK, Hungary, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—Marie Kardos, convicted of the murder of her husband in the group poisoning trials which were held here last summer, was hanged shortly after 8 a. m. today. She was 46 years old. As the trap was sprung she cried:

"God help me."

It was in the semi-darkness of an early winter morning before perhaps 50 witnesses that Frau Kardos went to her death. She was a picture of helpless resignation as she walked to the gallows, preceded by a Protestant clergyman.

She looked furtively from right to left, twisted a handkerchief in her hand and often applied it to her eyes. She was awakened early by a guard after a restless night. She dressed without demurring in her Sunday clothes and then sipped a small quantity of coffee.

PRAYS FOR REPRIEVE

The execution ended a terror-stricken 24 hours for the hausfrau, who also was convicted of poisoning her 22-year-old son. She spent most of last night on her knees with women friends in her cell, praying and hoping that the Regent Horthy might reconsider his denial of clemency and grant her a reprieve.

The executioner went to her cell to estimate her weight so as to determine the drop from the scaffold. She looked up and jumped back, screaming. Her companions pacified her by telling her that the man was only a doctor who came to see if she needed him.

Frau Kardos is the first of three women convicted and doomed in the group trials to be executed. Others of the 40 women who were tried on charges of poisoning their husbands, sweethearts, children or other relatives received varying prison terms or were acquitted.

INCITED MURDERS

The group trials marked one of the most startling chapters of Hungarian criminal history. The authorities, suspicious of so many deaths in one neighborhood, investigated and found that in most of the cases a midwife known as "Aunt Susie" Szordas had been present in the sick room.

It developed that she was inciting the murders, most of which were for pecuniary gain, and then, for a fee, administering the poison. She was convicted of murder and sentenced to death but committed suicide in her cell.

Besides Frau Kardos, Frau Szabori, who was convicted of murdering her father, and, in an earlier trial at Oyula, Frau Kati Olavos, who poisoned her husband, were sentenced to death.

With one exception all of the women pleaded innocence. The exception was Frau Louise Osei, who admitted that she had killed her father-in-law to obtain possession of his estate and her two children. She was sentenced to life imprisonment.

"Aunt Susie" was said to have made a small fortune from fees for the murders she conceived and carried out.

Huge Contract for Pittsburgh District May Result From Glass-Pottery Exposition

Orders and contracts estimated at $15,000,000, of which 85 per cent will be placed in Pittsburgh, and within a 100-mile radius, are expected to be developed at the Associated Glass and Pottery Manufacturers' exposition being conducted at the Fort Pitt and William Penn hotels.

Marking the fifty-first annual display which is held yearly in Pittsburgh, and the only exhibitions of the kind conducted in the country, 135 manufacturers are occupying 250 display rooms in the two hotels. The exposition, which opened Monday and continues through January 24 is exclusively for buyers, and is not open to the public. Four hundred salesmen are in attendance.

Latest creations in glassware and pottery are being shown. Among newest developments in glassware is a sand-blown design in vases, while silver inlaid effect is seen in the latest designs of console and decanter sets of black glass.

Pottery brings a new development in coloring. Scenes built of colored clay applied in the manner of oil paint and finished with a glazing is the latest fashion. The same manufacturers are introducing virtually a menagerie in pottery animal designs. Lawn sprinklers with bases of ducks and frogs are found along with doorstops of chickens, dogs, rabbits and other designs.

WILL INDUCT OFFICERS

The Associated Glass and Pottery Manufacturers will induct new officers at a banquet meeting in the Fort Pitt Hotel January 22. Charles H. West of Pittsburgh, will become president while other officers will be Vice president, D. H. Cushwa Bellaire, O.; treasurer, G. S. Brush, Zanesville, and secretary, C. L. Sebring of Sebring, O. J. M. Hammer of Pittsburgh, will continue as assistant secretary and exposition director.

Members of the Western Glass and Pottery Association will meet next Tuesday. W. D. Kinnan, of East Liverpool, will become president and F. A. H. Lang, of Cambridge Springs, secretary-treasurer. New directors will be J. M. Hammond and R. G. West, both of Pittsburgh, and Ruben Haley, Beaver.

PREDICTS ORDERS HERE

The Pittsburgh district share of the tremendous orders was predicted by Hammer, who said:

"Pittsburgh is the leading glassware center of the country. Within the 100-mile radius of Pittsburgh will be found 85 per cent of the glassware and pottery industry. Sales are placed in carload lots by buyers representing the largest wholesale and retail establishments. The effects of this business will reach into Ohio, particularly in the Steubenville, Zanesville and Sebring districts."

MOOR ACCEPTS TRINITY POST

The new dean of Trinity Protestant Episcopal Cathedral will be the Rev. Nathaniel R. High Moor, rector of St. Luke's Episcopal Church of Atlanta, Ga.

This was the message which reached Pittsburgh today from Atlanta. Dr. Moor will take his new post on May 1.

Mrs. Moor will succeed Dr. Percy G. Kammerer, who resigned to become provost of Avon Old Farms, a boys' preparatory school at Avon, Conn.

The new dean was in Pittsburgh last week conferring with the wardens of Trinity. At that time he said he would welcome an opportunity to return. North Before coming to Atlanta he was attached to the Grace Episcopal Church of Sandusky, O.

The Trinity chapter will meet this afternoon to act on Mr. Moor's acceptance. It is understood his salary will be more than $10,000.

The new dean was born in Toledo, O., in 1892. He was educated at Kenyon College and Theological Seminary, Gambier, O. He is married and the father of three sons.

1,000 AUTOISTS GET TAGS

With more than 1,000 summonses already served upon motorists who are alleged to have been driving with but one light, members of the police traffic squad today were busy notifying other violators that they must appear for hearings in Traffic Court.

Lieut. Edward Goodman and a squad spent the week-end serving summonses upon violators, notifying a total of 1,041 motorists to appear for hearings this week in Traffic Court. The drive started last week and a special squad of 16 motorcycle officers is busy rounding up violators.

Ninety-two summonses were issued for hearings today, but only 32 persons appeared. Magistrate William J. Soost discharged 24, fined eight $10 a piece because they had been "discourteous to arresting officers." Warrants will be served on the 60 who failed to show up for hearing.

Master Painters Meet in Reading

READING, Pa., Jan. 13.—(INS.)—More than 500 master painters and decorators of the Keystone State registered here today for the annual three-day convention of the Pennsylvania State Association of Master Painters.

P. A. Fretwell of Pittsburgh, the state president, presided at the opening session this morning, while Mayor J. Henry Stump welcomed the visitors.

Boo Boo' Hoff Drops Suit Against Tunney

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—(INS.)—The action brought against Gene Tunney, retired heavyweight champion, by Max (Boo Boo) Hoff for $350,000, representing 20 per cent of Gene's alleged earnings while champion, was discontinued today at Hoff's request, Tunney's lawyers announced.

The case was to have come up today for trial when Hoff made the request for dismissal.

Will Stipulates Dog Be Cared For

CHICAGO, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—There was only one proviso in the will of Dr. Garrett Van Zandt in which he bequeathed an estate worth between $60,000 and $100,000 to Miss Marie Aichhelzer. It was that:

"My dog Rex be cared for and petted as I do."

Sale of Magazines By Jobless Asked

Public Safety Director James M. Clark has agreed to a conference the latter part of this week with Louis Titlebaum, of New York, president of the League for Industrial Democracy. Titlebaum will request that the director permit unemployed men to sell the organization's magazine, "Unemployed." Blanchard Wright, of 1400 Federal street, arrested last week for selling the magazine without a license, will receive a hearing Thursday. He was released on $15 bail.

Dr. Berne, Beautifier Of Stars, Falls Dead

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—The hand that beautified the face of Hollywood is stilled in death. Dr. Luis P. Berne, 47, plastic surgeon, died of a heart attack yesterday as he was operating on a patient at the Park West Hospital.

Dr. Berne remodeled the features of such celebrities as Jack Dempsey, Bert Lytell, the late "Wild Bill" Brennan, Fannie Brice and members of the family of Benito Mussolini. He studied extensively in Paris and Vienna.

Mencken Drops Sarcasm To Laud Aged Poetess

BALTIMORE, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—H. L. Mencken, usually caustic in his criticisms of life and letters, changed his role last night in paying tribute to Lizette Woodworth Reese, the poet, who has just reached the age of 75. He said:

"She is one of the imperishable glories of American letters, and she is the most distinguished woman who has ever lived in this town."

His praise was voiced at a meeting of the Poetry Society of Maryland, at which Miss Reese was guest of honor. Four of Miss Reese's sonnets, which have been set to music, were sung, and the poet herself read from "A Victorian Village" and "White April."

In a few remarks prefacing her reading she said that she and Mencken had one thing in common:

"We are both Victorians."

Miss Reese, for 45 years a teacher in the public schools, retired in 1921. Her verse is widely known and she has been eulogized by critics other than Mencken as "the foremost figure in American lyric poetry." One of her best known works is the sonnet "Tears," but this she did not read last night.

'KIDNAPED' GIRL ON LARK

DENVER, Jan. 13.—(INS.)—A childish romance today threw Denver's exclusive social set into a furore and sent more than 100 detectives and policemen on a frenzied search for Alice Lucille Humphreys, beautiful 13-year-old daughter of L. B. Humphreys, millionaire oil man, who was believed to have been kidnaped from her palatial home during the night.

The child was found shortly after 8 o'clock asleep in an automobile in the garage at the home of Thomas Lawrence, whose son Jack, also 13, was the "boy friend" of Alice Lucille, she explained.

The Lawrence home is in Montclair, a Denver suburb, more than two miles from the Humphreys home.

Bloomingburg, Ohio, Bank Closes Doors

WASHINGTON COURT HOUSE, O., Jan. 13.—(AP.)—The Peoples Bank of Bloomingburg closed today due to effects of the general business depressions. The bank had deposits of $109,000 and was capitalized at $10,000.

Shaw Unchanged, Denies He'll Visit U. S.

LONDON, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—Bernard Shaw has not changed his mind about visiting the United States and today he issued a denial of reports that he would go there in the autumn.

He said:

"For 30 years something like this has been said three times a year and contradicted."

He is only 74, however, so there is still plenty of time for him to cross the Atlantic.

LYNCHERS SEEK NEW VICTIM

MARYVILLE, Mo., Jan. 13.—(INS.)—The spirit of mob rule still held sway in Maryville today following the burning to death yesterday of Raymond Gunn, Negro and confessed attacker and murderer of Miss Velma Colter, 21-year-old school teacher.

Several hundred persons, gathered around the ruins of the Garrett school house, scene of the murder and also the death of Gunn, openly stated that if any means of obtaining Paul (Shiker) Smith, Negro implicated by Gunn in the murder and reported under arrest in Omaha, are forthcoming there will be another lynching.

Once Borah Has No Quarrel

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

idea of an innocent and happy childhood.

The best thing to do with that tariff is to ignore it until searched.

Only one thing any government official needs to know about our customs and duties—that's how to kick open a trunk.

That's the custom. And also a man's duty.

In a way Senator Borah's name is a contradiction. It starts with a razz. And end s with a cheer.

The Senate confirmed the nomination of Mr. Fletcher. Which confirms Mr. Borah's statement that the Senate and a Mississippi River poker game are about alike.

When playing poker on a Mississippi steamboat you had to expectorate on the table because it was dangerous to turn your head for a second.

We congratulate Mr. Fletcher on his appointment. It proves once again that two Borahs are an affirmative.

Two weeks of the present semester have folded up like a punctured accordion.

We have signed pledges made good resolutions and otherwise determined to be good. All of which came under the classification of new business.

Most of those premier resolutions are out in the alley with the Christmas tree.

We seem to be walking the right way. But our shoes must be on backward.

Our first determination was not to drive from the back seat. That's why they have those two windshields on cars. To make the people in back think they are up in front.

The ink is dry on that resolution. But we're still all wet. The next good wish was not to keep switching the tubes in the radio cabinet. The next time we want to get distance we'll take the train.

Well, we have the tubes so mixed up that their own uncle wouldn't send them through college. The detector tubes are scrambled with the amplifier bulbs and the static exhilirator smokes like an old lamp chimney.

Another thing we couldn't agree on was whether it was easier to back into the garage at night so you could drive out in the morning, or drive in at night and back out in the morning.

We compromised on that by parking all night under the next door neighbor's tree. This wasn't a new resolution. It was just routine bookkeeping.

We also had made up our minds not to listen in on the eight-party telephone wire. But curiosity killed the cat. And information brought it to life again.

We've become so acclimated to plain and fancy eavesdropping that we are disappointed when the telephone call is actually for us.

There are some habits that are impossible to dispense with. You cannot synchronize a loose pivot-tooth with a frozen hunk of celery. It makes an annoying clicking, but it cannot be helped.

Honking the horn in traffic jams is another luxury we cannot eliminate. It doesn't get you anywhere, but it's much neater housekeeping than biting your fingernails.

Taking it by and large, it looks much as though we'll keep on being ourselves and just change the date line on our correspondence with the new year.

N. Y. THRONGS HONOR STRAUS

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—(INS.)—The rich and the poor, the prominent and the anonymous, said goodby today to Nathan Straus, who gave away fortunes to help the common people.

The funeral services for the 81-year-old humanitarian were as simple as the mode of life he had chosen. There were some Psalms and a biographical sketch read by his friend, Prof. William Lyon Phelps, of Yale.

In compliance with the wishes of the philanthropist, the doors of Temple Emanu-el, wherein his body lay, were thrown open to the public.

Among the honorary pallbearers Benny Leonard, ex-lightweight boxing champion, walked by the side of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and former Gov. Al Smith. Others included Mayor James J. Walker, Chancellor Elmer Ellsworth Brown, of New York University; Arthur Brisbane, Julius Rosenwald, the Rev. Dr. John Haynes Holmes, Federal Judge Julian W. Mack and Felix M. Warburg.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—The Rev. Amandus Traver, Philadelphia general secretary of the Luther League of America, will become pastor of the Lutheran Church at Frederick, Md. The resignation is effective March 1.

CLARA'S CHECKS IN COURT

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 13.—(Universal.)—How Clara Bow or Daisy De Voe, her former secretary, or both of them together, succeeded in cashing checks totaling $350,000 between February 13, 1929, and October 31, 1930, will be gone into today when the trial of Miss De Voe on grand theft charges is resumed before Judge W. C. Doran.

Benjamin Odell, manager of a Hollywood bank, yesterday brought in a towering stack of checks which had been signed either by Miss Bow or Miss De Voe and drawn on either Miss Bow's private account or the joint account sent up the two. There were 1,562 checks.

According to Miss Bow, at least one of these checks represent expenditures made by Miss De Voe, but not authorized by herself.

It is charged that the former secretary bought numerous gowns, a car and other items paying for them with money diverted from her employer's account.

Belle Imitates Lot's Wife, So Dry Raiders Get Her

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—Belle Livingstone's financial commitments to the United States government were increased today to a grand total of $22,000.

The stout and gay proprietress of the East Fifty-first Street Country Club was arrested last night for the fifth time in recent months on charges of maintaining a nuisance.

She said of the United States dry agents:

"It was a very harmonious raid. I was in red silk pajamas and all the agents wore red carnations in their lapels. They had to—they'd been gathered from Chicago and Cincinnati and everywhere and didn't know each other except by the carnations."

She herself fled to the roof of her apartment and waited, she said, until she thought the agents had gone. When she descended she was arrested.

"I could have gotten away, only I turned and looked back—like Lot's wife."

She gave $5,000 bond for herself and $1,000 apiece for eight employes before a federal commissioner today. That brought to $22,000 the total she has pledged in bail on counts now pending, $8,000 for herself and the rest for persons arrested with her.

Last night's was the third raid on her Fifty-first street resort. Before that a "salon" she conducted in Park avenue was raided twice.

PERSHING IS NAMED CHIEF

GENERAL TELLS OF DEPRESSION OVER TASK

Commander of Skeleton Army Determined Not to Fail If Men Are Provided

tion of the duties mentioned the responsibilities of the position and told me that I hoped he would have no reason to regret his action.

We briefly discussed the immediate questions which my assignment involved. At that moment it was the understanding that I was to go over in command of a division, and it was urgent that it be organized as early as practicable. As directed, [illegible] nated [illegible] regime [illegible] but detailed [illegible] tion, [illegible] smaller [illegible] the [illegible] troops [illegible] had not been [illegible]

I left [illegible] with a [illegible] pression [illegible] whom, [illegible] War Department, [illegible] den of preparing for a great war to which the whole nation ready to [illegible] ted. He was courteous and pleasant and impressed me as being frank, straight business like. His conception of the problems seemed broad and comprehensive. From the start he did not hesitate to make definite decisions on the momentous questions involved. Yet, naturally, he did not then fully appreciate the enormous difficulties that confronted his department.

Still proceeding under the assumption that I was to command only a division in France, my feelings may well be imagined when, a few days later, the Secretary of War called me in to say that it had been decided by the President to send me abroad as commander-in-chief, and that I should select my staff accordingly and prepare to sail as soon as possible.

Responsibilities
Pershing Depressed by Thought of Them

In our conversation, the Secretary indicated that several divisions and other troops would be sent overseas as soon as they could be prepared. The numbers could not then be fixed, of course, as no one in the War Department had any idea how many men would be needed.

The thought of the responsibilities that this high position carried depressed me for the moment. Here in the face of a great war I had been placed in command of a theoretical army which had yet to be constituted, equipped, trained and sent abroad. Still, there was no doubt in my mind then or at any other time of my ability to do the job, provided the government would furnish men, equipment and supplies.

This new decision materially broadened the scope of my duties, and made necessary at once to discuss with the War Department the outlines of the [illegible] of our forces. [illegible] the consideration of personnel and the assembly of a [illegible] staff was the first importance, and the foundation of the [illegible] system as an integral part of the organization was to be next in order.

The [illegible] and supply departments would depend largely upon the ability and experience of their chiefs, so that the selection of capable officers for these positions was of the greatest importance. This was a difficult task because there was only a limited number available of officers who had received even theoretical training in the duties of the [illegible]

Chief of Staff
Maj. Harbord Chosen for Important Position

Obviously it was advisable to choose my chief of staff as soon as practicable, [illegible] studying the records of several officers of my acquaintance and of other who were recommended for the position, I chose Maj. James G. Harbord. His efficiency in every grade from the day of his enlistment as a private in the Army in January, 1886, was not only of record, but was well known to those with whom he had served. The first time I had ever heard of him was shortly before he was promoted to the grade of first lieutenant in the 10th Cavalry. An officer who had known him as a sergeant said that he was a most promising youngster and that the regiment would be fortunate to get him.

Apart from sheer ability, a chief of staff, to be highly efficient, should have tact, and he must have the confidence of his commander.

He would be of small value without the courage to give his own views on any question that might arise, and he must have the loyalty to abide by the decision of his chief.

Throughout the war Harbord never hesitated a moment to express his opinion with the utmost frankness, no matter how radically it might differ from my own, nor did he ever fail to carry out instructions faithfully even when they were not in accord with his views. Entirely unselfish, he labored incessantly for what he believed to be the best interests of our armies. His ability, his resourcefulness, his faculty for organization, and, above all, his loyalty, were outstanding qualities, and these together with a compelling personality made him invaluable to the nation in this important position.

After consultation with the permanent heads of staff and supply departments, and with no little insistence on my part in more than one instance, the corresponding representatives to accompany me were designated, and they in turn chose their assistants. Although the list did not include all I should have selected, as some were not available, yet all rose to important places in the final organization, except one or two who failed in health.

Personal Staff
First Party to Sail Numbered 130

The personal staff consisted of the following:

Capt. Nelson E. Margetts, U. S. A., aide-de-camp—afterward colonel, artillery.

Col. John McA. Palmer, general staff corps—later brigadier general and chief of intelligence.

Maj. Dennis E. Nolan, general staff corps—later brigadier general and chief of operations. (Attached.)

Maj. Fox Conner, assistant inspector general—later brigadier general and chief of operations. (Attached.)

Capt. Hugh A. Drum, infantry—later brigadier general and chief of staff, First Army. (Attached.)

The administrative and supply staff were made up as follows:

Col. Benjamin Alvord, adjutant general—later brigadier general and adjutant general, A. E. F. Invalided home later.

Col. Andre W. Brewster, inspector general—later major general and inspector general, A. E. F.

Col. Daniel E. McCarthy, quartermaster corps—invalided home later.

Lieut. Col. Walter A. Bethal, judge advocate—later brigadier general and judge advocate general, A. E. F.

Col. Alfred E. Bradley, medical corps—later brigadier general and chief surgeon, A. E. F. (joined in London.) Invalided home later.

Col. Harry Taylor, engineer corps—later brigadier general and chief engineers, A. E. F.

Lieut. Col. Clarence C. Williams, ordnance corps—later brigadier general and chief of ordnance, A. E. F.

Col. Edgar Russel, signal corps—later brigadier general and chief signal officer, A. E. F.

Maj. Townsend F. Dodd, aviation section—later colonel and chief of air service until September 3, 1917.

The total number in my party that sailed on the Baltic was as follows:

Regular Army officers	40
Marine Corps officers	2
ORC officers in active service	17
Enlisted men	67
Field clerks	36
Civilian clerks	20
Civilian interpreters	5
Civilians (correspondents)	3
Total on Baltic	190

The method of raising our armies by conscription was based on studies made by the War College under instructions from Gen. Scott. President Wilson recommended the plan to Congress April 7, 1917, but the draft act was not passed until May 18, 42 days after the declaration of war.

Draft Advocated
Newspapers Show Value Of Compulsory System

The question had been discussed in the press for some months, with the result that the value of compulsory system was advocated by the majority of the leading newspapers—and in doing so they rendered distinguished service to the nation by creating favorable public opinion to sustain the President and Congress in the enactment of this important law.

The draft act contained a provision authorizing the President to raise not to exceed four infantry divisions by voluntary enlistment. When Secretary Baker asked my view whether action should be taken under this provision I expressed myself against the principle except as to special or technical troops. While volunteer fighting units would naturally be composed of a fine body of men who would give a good account of themselves, there was no reason to suppose that they would be any better than men selected under the draft, similarly officered by their quota of Regular Army men.

Moreover, the volunteers, as they had done in the past, would regard themselves as belonging to a special class and

Moreover, the regular establishment would have suffered from the loss of an undue proportion of the best officers, who inevitably would have been selected for important positions in these special units at a time when their services were urgently needed in building more large...

Another important reason for disapproving Col. Roosevelt's application was that in such a war it was necessary that officers, especially those in high command, should be thoroughly trained and disciplined. Further more, Col. Roosevelt was not in the best of health and could not have withstood the hard work and exposure of training camps and trenches.

A Disappointment

Baker Decides Against Volunteer Plan

The Secretary of War, ... to the disappointment of Col. Roosevelt, wisely made an adverse decision in the case, which was confirmed by the President. It was evident that both Mr. ... and Secretary Baker were ... leaders and were determined to avoid the embarrassment ... The following letter from Col. Roosevelt, dated May 17, 1917, will ... his own fine attitude:

"My Dear Gen. Pershing:

"I very heartily congratulate you, and especially the people of the United States, upon your selection to lead the expeditionary force to the front. When I was endeavoring to persuade the Secretary of War to permit me to raise a division or two of volunteers I stated that if you or some men like you were to command the expeditionary force I could raise the division without trouble.

"I write you now to request that my two sons, Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., aged 27, and Archibald B. Roosevelt, aged 23, both of Harvard, be allowed to enlist as privates with you, to go over with the first troops. The former is a major, and the latter a captain in the Officers' Reserve Corps. They are at Plattsburg for their third summer.

Roosevelt's Regret

Not Physically Fit to Serve in Army

"My own belief is that competent men of their standing and rank can gain very little from a third summer at Plattsburg, and that they should be utilized as officers, even if only as second lieutenants. But they are keenly desirous to see service, and if they serve under you at the front, and are not killed, they will be far better able to instruct the draft army next fall, or next winter, or whenever they are sent home, than they will be after spending the summer at Plattsburg.

"The President has announced that only regular officers are to go with you; and if this is to be the invariable rule then I apply on behalf of my two sons that they may serve under you as enlisted men, to go to the front with the first troops sent over.

"Trusting to hear that this request has been granted, I am, with great respect,

"Very sincerely yours,
"THEODORE ROOSEVELT."

"P. S.—If I were physically fit, instead of old and heavy and stiff, I should myself ask to go under you in any capacity down to and including a sergeant; but at my age, and condition, I suppose that I could not do work you would consider worth while in the fighting line (my own line) in a lower grade than brigade commander."

SCOTT DEFENDS ACTS SCORED BY PERSHING

Denies Army Staff Stood Idle After Declaration Of War; Lauds Leader

No man in the United States has a greater personal interest in Gen. Pershing's conduct of the General Staff of the Army, prior to the entrance of the United States into the World War, than Maj. Gen. Hugh L. Scott. As Chief of Staff, Maj. Gen. Scott has defended the Army. The United States is now prepared for the first time in its history for the service of troops in the field. Pershing commends Scott's work in the Sun-Telegraph and other newspapers yesterday and today. Between the lines of Gen. Scott's article is read the story of the preparedness of the Army for the task in Gen. Pershing's hands.

BY HUGH L. SCOTT

Former Chief of Staff and Major General U. S. A., Retired.

PRINCETON, N. J., Jan. 13. — I have just read the opening chapters of the memoirs of Gen. Pershing. In them I find some strictures against the War Department and the General Staff, of which I was chief, prior to our actual entrance into the war.

On these strictures I wish to comment in a friendly and by no means captious or controversial spirit, not only on my own account, but on account also of my comrades in the War Department.

Gen. Scott.

I have endeavored since our first meeting, and recommended him for command both in Mexico and France, and always before that I did so.

In his conduct of the part we took during the war in France he held high his American ... against strong opposition that might have crushed a weaker man, maintained his point for an American army and brought back a wonderful victory for our army in the greatest war of all times, for which the American people owe him an eternal gratitude and admiration, in which I share.

The conduct of our army under his direction has placed us in the forefront of all the nations of the earth and has advanced greatly the cause of peace in the world, since no nation cares to embroil itself with one as powerful as we proved to be and certainly we have no wish to embroil ourselves with others.

In his first chapter Gen. Pershing says:

"Congress passed a compromise act ... but scarcely a move was made to carry it out prior to our actual entrance into war."

NO THOUGHT OF WAR

While I have no papers at hand for reference, my memory tells me that the act Gen. Pershing refers to was passed at the previous session of Congress—at a time when Congress had no thought of war and provided for a peace time force by increments from time to time and the provision of the act had been carried out as the proper time arrived.

As for sending a political army to France, there was no disposition to do this in the mind of anybody in the War Department.

All the better informed officers in the regular army, such as Gen. Pershing himself, were fully cognizant with the mistakes made in our former wars, and I was fully determined, so far as my power should go, these mistakes should not be repeated in this war.

They were not repeated because I was thoroughly supported in this by the Secretary of War and the President without whom I would have been unable to accomplish anything for a portion of Congress seemed bent upon making these mistakes again.

Gen. Pershing does not make himself clear when he says in chapter 2:

"It had been apparent for months that we were likely to be forced into the war, and a state of war had actually existed for several weeks, yet scarcely a start had been made to prepare for it.

"The War Department seemed to be suffering from a kind of inertia, for which it was not probably altogether responsible."

LACKS CLARITY

Nor does he make himself clear in the same chapter in saying:

"Until a few weeks before the war neither the general staff nor the War College had received any hint or direction to be ready with recommendations except as indicated above. The general staff had apparently done little more, even after war was declared, than to consider the immediate question of organizing and sending abroad one combat division and 50,000 special troops."

This statement differs widely from that the general made earlier in this same chapter:

"Beginning with February 3 the War College Division of the general staff presented a number of recommendations for action in the event of war with the Central Powers.

"One was for the enactment of the draft law upon which I had been engaged myself for four months, and others referred to the size of the army to be organized and the necessity for the procurement of equipment and supplies.

"March 15, acting under instructions from the chief of staff, the War College submitted a more detailed scheme for raising 500,000 men."

To be more accurate, these studies had been going on all winter with many conferences between myself and the different heads of the War College and heads of bureaus.

I had been engaged in preparing the mind of the administration and the country for compulsory service. Seven hundred ninety-two favorable editorials had been received from newspapers in all parts of the country before the counting was stopped.

CONGRESSMEN LAUGHED

I asked the Committee of Congress for a million men in 1916. This request was received with great hilarity.

I was asked:

"What do you want with a million men? The United States will never be at war with anybody. Do you want them to eat? You certainly cannot have any other use for them."

The temper of Congress was such as to discourage further effort at that time. I have since felt with Gen. Pershing that it were better so.

Had my request been granted, such a gesture would have convinced Germany of our determined purpose with the probability that she would have ceased the acts that brought us into the war with the chance of our continuing to stand on the side lines, while the civilization of France and England was being destroyed — our turn to come later, unprepared and alone.

No doubt the ideas of all of us were crude in the beginning and by no means the ideas we have now, even Gen. Pershing's. We all had to grow through experience.

I remember Gen. Pershing asking if I thought it possible for him to get a touring car for his personal use in France. I told him to go out and buy 10 for himself and staff. I would now have said 100, but I gave him 10 times as many as he asked.

It was not possible to order the recommendations of the general staff carried out at once for the reason that all of them could not be approved on account of minor imperfections or until the policy of the government was decided upon, as to the size and character of the contribution we were to make to the war.

Congress thought at one time our contribution to the war would be mainly of money.

ALLIES SURPRISED

None of our allies thought it possible for us to send more than 300,000 trained men to France.

Marshal Joffre asked that our flag be sent over at once without a small escort for the sake of the effect our representation would have in Europe even if no force were behind it.

I considered, however, that this would be an improper and undignified way to treat our flag and stood out for at least a division of regular troops until a large army could be trained. I stood out against this up to the time I left Washington, May 13, as a member of the Root Commission to Russia.

My policy of a division was the one carried out later by Gen. Bliss, my classmate, and four months younger, who succeeded me as chief of staff. It was not until some time later that the policy of the government was formed to send a large army, probably some time after the draft had proved successful.

The fact is that everything was done by the War Department that it was possible to do at that time. We had to wait upon Congress for a law by which we could raise an army.

We were all too busy to talk about what we had done, and it is possible that Gen. Pershing who was in Washington only for a short period, was not fully informed of what had been done before.

His main attention was without doubt directed toward getting his expedition ready to sail as soon as possible. He may too, have been told things that were untrue by disgruntled officers as sometimes happens.

SUPPLY CONTRACTS SIGNED

The supplies called for by the general staff were made the basis of representation before Congress by the supply department which had options on all kinds of material and supplies needed.

The telegrams had been written and were ready to close the options the moment the declaration was signed by the President thus preventing seizure of these supplies by speculators, thereby causing an immense saving for the government over what would otherwise have had to be paid.

We were all waiting in my office for notice of the President's signature, and when it was telephoned from the White House I took a project calling for the expenditure of $50,000,000 to the secretary of War, of which he was already cognizant, and he was warned again that this money had not been appropriated by Congress and its expenditure under such circumstances was a penitentiary offense. It was signed and the staff was en route to file the telegrams confirming the options within less than five minutes.

The general staff was much restricted and hampered from the time of Gen. Coplin. Some members of Congress were inimical to it almost from its inception and as Gen. Pershing remarks, Congress had lately reduced its number.

STAFF INADEQUATE

In addition Congress had enacted that no more than half of this inadequate number should be stationed in Washington at one time.

"This gave me less than 20 officers of the general staff with which to lay the basis of the great war at a time when the armies of France and England had each over 500 officers on their general staffs, and now in a time of profound peace our number of general staff officers approximates 100.

This small number of general staff officers was worked to their limit and it is surprising they accomplished as much as they did. All the chiefs of staff since Gen. Corbin had to fight continually until after the breaking out of the war and the enmity of a section of Congress was overcome.

It is a fact that the general staff never had a real chance until then. Of course after contact with the Allied staffs during actual war, much was learned that Gen. Pershing, and no one else over here, had had an opportunity to learn, and our general staff is now the peer of any.

CONSTIPATION BRINGS MANY ILLS

Did you know that constipation often brings despondency? Poisons spread through the system. You lack pep. Headaches become frequent. No wonder you have the "blues."

Yet constipation can be overcome by having sufficient roughage in your diet. A pleasant way to obtain this roughage is through eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

You will enjoy this delicious cereal. And how much better for you than taking habit-forming laxatives.

Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN, eaten daily, will relieve and prevent both temporary and recurring constipation.

ALL-BRAN also contains needed iron to build up the blood. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

APPLE SELLERS NOT IN CENSUS

Apple sellers on the streets will not be included in the census of the unemployed, James S. Routley in charge of the census in Pittsburgh said today.

His attention was called to a protest by Representative La Guardia, of New York, against barring apple sellers from the unemployed census list.

Only men definitely without work and seeking employment will be counted, Routley stated. Those who are idle but not seeking work will not be listed.

KANE NEW CHIEF IN MT. LEBANON

William J. Kane, former Pittsburgh police commissioner and candidate for sheriff two years ago, will assume his duties as police chief of Mt. Lebanon Township next Friday. He was elected at a meeting of the township commissioners last night.

Mr. Kane

Kane was a member of the Pittsburgh police force 22 years, having risen from cornerman to commissioner, holding the latter position in four consecutive administrations. After retiring on a pension, for a short time he assumed the duties as secretary of the Citizens' League following the disappearance of its first head, William L. King.

Kane was commissioner in the South Side, Central and North Side districts.

As chief of Mt. Lebanon, Kane will be given a free hand, independent of politics, township commissioners said last night. Commissioner L. C. Clark, who nominated Kane, also praised Chief Charles W. Senn, but asserted the latter had been unable to bear the strain of politics in the department. Senn was named captain and Capt. Arthur Seiffert lieutenant for the Kane administration.

GLENSHAW ASKS NEW BUS LINE

Nearly 100 residents of Glenshaw attended a hearing before Examiner C. E. Best, of the Public Service Commission, today in support of an application by the Etna Transportation Company to extend bus line service on the Butler Pike road. Clashes between attorneys enlivened the proceedings.

At the morning session 15 persons testified that poor and inadequate service was being rendered by the Harmony Short Line Motor Transportation Company operating a bus line on the upper or Butler Pike road. This road converges with the Lower or Plank road beyond Glenshaw and the Etna Transportation Company, which now operates only on the latter road, is applying for permission to include both roads in its route. The first application was denied last April. A new hearing was granted on claims of new developments and increased population in the area to be served.

Best Remedy for Cough Is Easily Mixed at Home

You'll never know how quickly a stubborn cough or chest cold can be conquered, until you try this famous recipe. It is used in millions of homes, because it gives more prompt, positive relief than anything else. It's no trouble at all to mix and costs but a trifle.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to make a full pint. This saves two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough medicine, and gives you a purer, better remedy. It never spoils, and tastes good—children like it.

You can actually feel its penetrating, soothing action on the inflamed throat membranes. It is also absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. At the same time, it promptly loosens the germ-laden phlegm. This three-fold action explains why it brings such quick relief even in severe bronchial coughs which follow cold epidemics.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

WE NOW PRESENT -:- By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor

Johnny Green, composer of "Body and Soul," plays it on the piano tonight for the WJAS audience at 10:30.

Sigmund Spaeth, dear to our hearts for his musical interpretations over KDKA in crystal set days, becomes the glorified master of ceremonies for the Happy Baker program on WCAE at 9:30. Sigmund has a clever way of going places and doing things with popular songs as his vehicle. Catch him tonight for something different.

* * *

Jack Dempsey assumes the role of a Delphic Oracle on WTIC, Hartford (1060), at 6:30 tonight. Queries to be asked the Manassa Mauler include the famous "long count" by which Jack lost the heavyweight toga to Gene Tunney in Chicago.

* * *

STUDIO BREACHES

"Since when did local announcers turn to wearing knickers?" asked a visitor at KDKA recently.

"Why they don't. They wear evening clothes," replied the hostess.

"Nevertheless," was the comeback, "Bill Farren came in the studio the other night in short pants."

Bill was almost late.

* * *

QUESTION A DAY:

We come to you for an authoritative answer on the KDKA fade the question: What's it all about?

Boys of the Mesta Machine Works.

Answer—As you know, KDKA is experimenting with its new plant at Saxonburg, Pa., near Butler. Several changes have been made in the transmitting antenna, causing some fading and an harmonic in WCAE signals some places in the city. This is only a temporary condition and will be eliminated in time. Don't overlook the fact either that previously these signals traveled less than 10 airline miles to your radio while now they traverse 28 airline miles. Be patient.

"BY THE WAY—"

Dr. Albert Einstein, originator of the theory of relativity, speaks over WABC and the Columbia network Thursday night at 11:30, from Pasadena, Cal. . . . If you want something exciting pick up "The Trial of Dolores Devine" on WJZ at 10:30 tonight. . . . Creaking of chariot wheels as Gov.-elect Pinchot is paraded to the Capitol is part of the inauguration ceremony to be broadcast from Harrisburg by CBS-WJAS on Tuesday, January 20, at noon. . . . D. B. My complains that his canary won't sing since Don Bestor left KDKA. . . . Which reminds us that Don and his boys are clicking with their stage show downtown, to the extent of many packed houses.

J. Jerome Williams, New York newspaperman doing personality sketches for NBC under the name Fred Alger, tells what he knows about Arthur Brisbane on WEAF at 6:30 tonight. . . . Malvern Marshall, former sidekick of Burt MacMurtrie at WCAE when MacMurtrie was just about the whole works, joins KQV Thursday as staff announcer. . . . Mrs. Carl W.-Ann Andrews, New York actress, took Elsie Ferguson's place in the "Camberley Triangle" Sunday night. . . . As forecast in this column many, many days ago, Bobby Jones IS NOT to appear on WCAE tomorrow night. . . . He will be on WTAM. . . . Locally, WCAE has Tampa as the main attraction. . . . Chief Lone Star and the Oklahoma Cowboys are on WJAS tomorrow afternoon at 2.

The clamor for more episodes like Death Valley Days has brought us "Conestoga Days" as a KDKA production at 8:30. Marquis Chisholm, Ed Harvey, Claude Morris and Glenn Riggs are the principals.

The Loudspeaker

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—Radio may have won a dominant place in the civilization of America, but to the magnificoes who control its destinies it appears too often to be just a great big medium for sweetness and light.

To the magnificoes there's a bogey man ever waiting to knock them over the head, but Pollyanna is in her heaven and life is neither real nor earnest. It is just a big, booful maypole for grand and lofty ballyhood. And the bigger the ballyhoo the better. Bring on the adjectives, trot out the superlatives, pour in the puff! And lest the bogey man be seen it's best to continue wearing rose-tinted glasses.

* * *

The most progressive step that could be taken by American radio this year, between you and me and the armchair, would be the concentrated removal of their rose-tinted glasses and he tremble in their boots by those in charge of broadcasting.

* * *

The broadcasters are forever calling the radio the greatest medium of communication the world has ever known. In their speeches at banquets they point grandiosely to its vast and incomparable ability to disseminate knowledge and information. But they fail to point out at the same time that in the knowledge and information disseminated no hostile head of criticism at the existing order must be raised. This is the best of all possible worlds, dear children, and you shall have some harmless little weasel-words, all glistening in their sugar-coating.

* * *

The bogey man of the broadcasters seems to be the government—not any particular representative of the government, nor law and order as typified by the gendarmes, but just the vague general term—the government. They seem to fear that if they cross the government or make faces at it the government will spank, spank the very air, if not the daylights, outs of them; take away their meccano sets, send them possibly to Atlanta.

* * *

Fearful, ever-quaking over the possibility of censorship imposed by Washington, the radio men go Washington one better. They impose their own censorship—the most stringent, rigid censorship now in force in America.

It has no definite form, this censorship. It was not set up over any conference table. Like Topsy, it just grew. And growing, it threatens to slay the spirit of America in its assault upon the ideal of free speech.

Mrs. MELVIN H. SCHOENBERGER

Lancaster, Pa.—"Before I took Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription I was troubled with functional disturbances, intense abdominal cramps and backache and was so nervous and weak that I could not drag myself around to attend to my housework. I was a misery to myself and to those around me until Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription changed my ill health into good health."—Mrs. Melvin H. Schoenberger, 635 E. Marion St. Druggists. Don't Go Around Feeling Half Sick

There's no excuse for letting yourself get run down. No reason why you shouldn't be 100 per cent fit. The man or woman who feels tired and sickly most of the time won't ever get along in business or social life.

The way to keep fit, doctors tell us, is to take cod liver oil.

But don't try to take cod liver oil the old-fashioned liquid way. Don't overload your stomach with a lot of fatty, nasty-tasting oil. Take it the modern way—in tiny tasteless tablets!

These tablets, called McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets, are made from the vitamins of purest Norwegian cod liver oil. All the healthful benefits of the oil are in these tablets. Doctors now prescribe them. The Good Housekeeping Institute has tested and approved them.

All you need to do to get the vitamins your run-down system needs is to ask your druggist for a box of McCoy's. Go to him and get your box today. 60 tablets—60 cents.

RADIO ARTISTS GIVE CONCERT

Six hundred persons, many of them unemployed men, last night attended a concert by Uncle Henry and his Radio Rascals in Chapel Hall, of the Improvement of the Poor Association, Duquesne way. The concert was under auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society of Allegheny County. John Stemple, president, presided.

The program included numbers by the Crafton band of 20 pieces, Lucile Hubner, Dora Gisler and the Radio Sisters of Station KQV. Following the program, refreshments were served by the association.

THEATER REVIEWS AND NOTES, HOLLYWOOD AND GOTHAM CHRONICLES

Rich Drinkwater Comedy Tastes Like Old Ale Served in Pitt

By GEORGE SEIBEL

TO FOLLOW within a few weeks of the original hand picked English company, and put on a performance of a richly flavored English comedy like "Bird in Hand," shows that George Sharp's Players have some of that spirit which won the battles of Crecy and Agincourt. They acquitted themselves nobly at the Pitt Theater last night, so well that even those who saw the recent presentation at the Alvin, watching the Drinkwater play last night, felt like Goldsmith's village schoolmaster made people feel. As we looked the wonder grew, that what the others did our own could do.

George Seibel

Wisely they did not attempt the broad dialect that was native to the British visitors. With the exception of a very delightful Cockney accent cultivated by Billy Link as the gentleman traveling in sardines, there was little effort to put Yorkshire pudding into the menu at the Bird in Hand public house. And aside from the roast beef make-up of John Thorn as Sir Robert Arnwood, there was no striving after John Bullish complexions. In the case of the innkeeper Thomas Greenleaf, well portrayed by Robert Fiske, this might have been noted—that part should be played for apoplexy rather than liver complaint. But on the whole the comedy was acted as lovously and convincingly as the most carping critic could ask.

M'GRATH IS RIPPING

Particularly Paul McGrath to keep to the British vernacular was ripping. It is the best thing he has done since "The Royal Family." He was Cyril Beverley, the exuberant son of Beverley's yeast, and the way he got a rise out of everybody was a capital advertisement for his father's product. He looked and acted the role as perfectly as any young blood from the precincts of Piccadilly—only one word describes him: he was ripping.

Leneta Lane played Joan with charm and spirit, a model maid of modern make. Alice Ann Baker gave a good account of herself as the mother and Hugh Banks as the lover, John Winthrop, as Godolphin K. C. might have stepped out of the Old Bailey and John Thorn as Sir Robert, out of Debrett.

But of course the main burden rests upon the two characters played by Robert Fiske and Billy Link. Fiske played with all his usual cops-and-clergy competence, and if he was more moose than irascible he made up for that by revealing the great sincerity of his affection for his daughter in the crucial scenes. Billy Link as Blanquet (spelled queer) became as close to Cheapside as it is possible on the banks of the Allegheny.

In a comedy depending largely upon the finey portrayal of character types George Sharp's company acquitted themselves like true sons and daughters of Ralph Backstraw, who in spite of all temptation, remained an Englishman.

TWO FINE SETTINGS

"Bird in Hand" also exacts boundless care in the staging as the two scenes must be in the spirit of the story and no makeshifts will do. Russell Senior and Edwin Vail deserve much credit for painstaking and thorough devotion to this side of the production. The old English inn atmosphere was well simulated, and only a few of the furnishings reeked of the instalment era.

This comedy so rich in genuine humor, so true a portrayal of English life, ought to be seen by everybody who enjoys excellent stage work. When it was here a few weeks ago at the Alvin, a combination of circumstances resulted in small audiences. Those who missed it then have an opportunity to see it now. And though the prices at the Pitt are just about one-third, I wouldn't say the performance has been discounted 10 per cent.

Comedy

Helen Dodge has a prominent role in "Mendel, Inc.," comedy featuring Smith and Dale, which comes to the Alvin next week.

'Y' COMPLETES APPEAL PLANS

Preparations for the opening of the city-wide appeal of the Y. W. C. A. of Pittsburgh for $140,000 the annual budget were completed at a meeting of the captains in the central branch, 50 Chatham street. Miss Maud Lindsay, Gillespie central campaign chairman and Miss Esther M. Hawes, metropolitan secretary, were the speakers. The campaign will be officially opened Tuesday night with a dinner meeting in the branch building.

Canadian Ban Cuts U. S. Rum Supply

OTTAWA, Jan. 13.—(AP)—The Canadian ban on the export of liquor to the United States reduced such exports from 103,945 gallons in December, 1929, to none in December, 1930, but in the same 12 months the export of liquor from Canada to the French islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon increased by 112,485 gallons.

Inter-Club Officers Assume New Duties

New officers of the Inter-Club Council of Pittsburgh assumed duties at a luncheon meeting yesterday in the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce. Thomas Fitzgerald presided as president while other new officers were A. H. Meyers, vice president, and William A. Code, secretary.

PLAIN AND MUSICAL COMEDY ARE ON WAY

When Schwab and Mandel bring the new musical comedy, "America's Sweetheart," to the Nixon for a world premiere next Monday night, Gus Shy, youthful comedian who shared in the success of "The New Moon," will have an important role.

Joe Smith and Charles Dale, formerly of the Avon Comedy Four, and Alexander Carr, of "Potash and Perlmutter" fame, are the stars of "Mendel, Inc.," coming to the Shubert Alvin next week.

But audiences have shown such a fondness for mystery plays that George Sharp's company has chosen "The Ninth Guest," by Owen Davis, for presentation next week.

North Side Tract Proposed as Dump

Purchase of a tract of land to be used as a dump in the Brighton road district, North Side, has been suggested to Council by the Department of Public Works. C. A. Pearson has offered a property near Brighton road, Twenty-seventh Ward, for $16,000, the amount to be deducted from taxes owing to the city.

MAGICIAN THURSTON CONTINUES IN ALVIN

Thurston, the man with a hand quicker than your eye, opened a second week of magic in the Alvin last night. He performs lots of mystifying feats, perhaps his best is the one in which a lady disappears in the air above the audience's head.

The performance is divided into three acts, during which cards, rabbits, ghosts, guinea pigs, human beings and various other things appear and disappear with a gesture.

Frank L. Danahey West View Manager

Officers of the West View Park Company announce the appointment of Frank L. Danahey as general manager of West View Park. Mr. Danahey, late of Erie Beach, Ontario, formerly was associated with amusement enterprises in this district. Until the opening of the regular park season Mr. Danahey will be engaged in the booking of picnics and planning new amusement devices and attractions.

'FRIVOLITIES' SHOWN ON ACADEMY STAGE

"Frivolities," starring Billy Fields, comedian, and Violet Buckley, dancer and singer, is the current attraction at the Academy. Gladys Clark, prima donna and instrumentalist, is featured. Elaborate scenes are a sketch called "Jungles" and an old fashioned Irish finale, each requiring the entire cast of principals and the ensemble. Principals of "Frivolities" include Charles Smith, Lester Mack, Bob Rodgers, Billie Holmes and Babs Day, the latter a "blues" singer.

WALTER WINCHELL On Broadway

This Town of Ours

Marion Roberts, Jack Diamond's "heart" was in the chorus of "Smiles" for the last fortnight. . . . The N. Y. Palace opening matinee box office record was smashed by H. Richman Sat'dee. . . . With one exception all legitimate theaters in 42nd St. are dark this wk. . . . The guy they are holding in Chicago for Lingle's murder was a night club doorman there. . . . Peggy Joyce's jools are in vaults because she was tipped that she will be Lita Grey Chaplined. . . . It is against the law now for anyone to use a phoney name on a hotel register. . . . The F. B. Whites of The Nyorker have named the baby Joel. . . . H. N. Swanson, the editor of College Humor, will wed Ruth Taylor, a Chi rel, on Apr. 1. . . .

J. J. Walker's choice for boro-prez is Comm. of Parks Herrick. . . . The Stuart Robeson's "Gene Moore" have legally phfftt. . . . The suit brought by Jack McKeon against Adolphe Menjou for 30 Gs has been settled for 6, with Metro splitting it with the movie star. . . . The Frederick Freeds are being blessed evented. . . . Ben Hecht's first novel in three yrs. "A Jew In Love," will contain a caustic caricature of a man who produced his play. . . . Jack and Madge Holt have wilted.

The beautiful red-haired femme you see in a green coupe with a Hawaii license is Cecile Evans. . . . Helen Cohan, George's dotter, who was refused permission by him to sign a long term contract, hasn't worked since she made "Lightnin'." . . . T. S. Eliot will be a local publisher because his poem "The Waste Land," was included in a recent prize poetry anthology.

John Sloane, the prominent architect, is having marital trouble (Betty Bradley), who is plotting to tell shysters about it. . . . The De Courcy Browns will tell it to a judge. . . . Judge David Morris' child, Goldie, will middle-aisle it with James Goldblatt, of the Wall street sector. . . . Harry Conley, the actor, was jugged last wk over a Shubert show girl. He is now out on bail. . . . The William Wilsons are blessed-eventing. . . . The flip stack from the "New Yorkers" show, which most critics applauded, viz., "Park Avenue," the street where bad women walk with good dokes," was written by Helen Broderick for the "50 Million Frenchmen" show, but it was blue-pencilled because they thought it wasn't funny enough.

Recommended to diversion seekers: The sweet and moonlight on the harbor these p. m.'s from any Staten Island ferry. . . . The grandest of the most recent platters, "Love For Sale," with "Where Have You Been" on the reverse side, by Fred Waring's crew of "The New Yorkers." . . . The hit of the week release "Cheerful Little Earful" due Jan. 16th. . . . The Press Photographers' Ball at the Hotel New Yorker Jan. 23. . . . Edna Ferber's amusing piece in the Silver Slipper. . . . Ogden Nash's amusing "Hard Lines." . . . The new and contagious German tango, "I'm a Gigolo," as Ted Lewis plays it, and every act on the current Palace bill except youknowho.

Eight nationally known financiers at a private luncheon Thursdee agreed that the depression was over but it would take at least 60 days before the public can erase it from their minds. . . . Paul Gregory of the late "Smiles" cast will shelve the Grandest Canyon for the one in Arizona to Get Away From It All. . . . Dr. Armand Hammar, who deserted America to become the Soviet's principal pencil maker three years ago is back at the St. Moritz with a French bride. . . . The Maurice Greers (Wilma Martin) have reconciled. . . . Gordon Godowsky, the famous Leopold's little boy, is peddling things at Macy's.

J. J. Shubert's costly cat was thefted Satdee. . . . George Bancroft's new flicker, "Scandal Sheet," is based on incidents in the life of Charles Chaplin. . . . For two straight years Paramount's ace money-maker has been the annual Marx Bros. extravaganzas. . . . Strangely enough, Lyda Roberti, the Polish girl reported to be creating a sensation in Lou Holtz's new show, appeared at the Paramount, N. Y., recently doing exactly the same routines, and not rating a single line from any critics.

Dannie Hutchinson, whose headache is telling it to a judge is doing the Main Stem with the girl his next bride abhors. . . . Barrie's "Peter Pan" was written expressly for Viola Tree, but you would never know it to look at her now. . . . Savings banks are worried about what to do with all the money that is coming in for deposit. Financing building construction seems to be the only large outlet. . . . Lee Shubert is ailing. . . . Mona Maris of the commotion pictures is John Gilbert's new heart-thumper.

The parting point was reached between Fannie Todd Mitchell, the playwright, and her Roxy ballet master husband last wk when he scratched her face. . . . There are 21 actresses living at the Hotel Algonquin who have been divorced. . . . When George Bernard Shaw was asked if he would lecture in America, he said:

"No, the talkie does that for me." "But suppose they want to ask questions?" "That's it," Shaw answered, "the talkie doesn't have to answer back."

AMUSEMENTS.

Woman Sues Heir To Brewer's Wealth

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—Notice of suit for $85,000 has been served against Louis Lemp, 61, described as heir to a fortune built up by the Lemp Brewery in St. Louis by his former housekeeper, her attorneys said today. Minerva Morgan, the plaintiff, claims part of the sum is due her under a verbal agreement in 1922 by which Lemp promised to pay her $300 a month for the rest of her life.

Buddy Rogers to Depict Band Leader Hero In New Talkie

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1931, by Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 13.

Come the end of the month and Buddy Rogers will begin a new Paramount picture called "Manhattan Musketeers." It is a companion piece to "Close Harmony" and will tell the story of the rise and fall of an idolized band leader.

Aiding in the festivities will be Skeets Gallagher, as his manager; Stuart Erwin, as a drummer; June Collyer, as the girl who loved him through it all, and June McCloy, ex-Broadwayite, as more feminine interest.

Buddy Rogers.

In view of the story, it seems safe to predict that there will be a few songs in the picture.

Eddie Sutherland will direct.

LATEST GOSSIP

Mickey Neilan is not definitely demoted to short-reelers, as it appears he goes to Fox from Mack Sennetts. . . . Charles Farrell calls his home, which is across the lake from a golf course, "Out of Bounds." . . . Grant Withers opens in Detroit, January 23, in a one-act play written by Al Boasberg. . . . Greta Nissen is on her way to Hollywood to make her first picture since the silent version of "Hell's Angels" three years ago. It will be Fox's "Women of All Nations." . . . Clifford McLaglen, another six-foot brother of Victor, has joined the swelling list of McLaglens in the film colony. . . . John Milian is up and around after a siege of pneumonia. . . . Maureen O'Sullivan leaves here on the twenty-fifth for Ireland, where she'll visit her home. Because of her Fox contract, she'll have no trouble re-entering the country. The government permits foreign players to remain as long as they are signed with a studio. . . . Janet Gaynor is said to have personally chosen "The Man Who Came Back" as a vehicle for her return to the screen. Fox gave her six scripts to read.

WANDERER RETURNS

Long absent from Hollywood Alla Nazimova will return here, so the story goes, to play in foreign versions. She must postpone her coming, however, until she finishes a run-of-the-play contract in "A Month in the Country," the New York Theater Guild production. Madame Nazimova's linguistic accomplishments are said to include Russian, French, Italian and Spanish.

Alla Nazimova

BREAK COMEDY TEAM

The long-discussed break-up of the comedy team of Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey will come in "Too Many Cooks," a new venture of Radio Pictures.

Wheeler will appear alone in this comedy by Frank Craven.

At the studio, the sentiment prevails that the break is only temporary. Pictures of the comedy team have been among the most successful of the company's output.

As mentioned before in these columns, Douglas McLean, one time screen favorite, will be an associate producer on "Too Many Cooks."

Swiftest Way to End Eczema

Says Alabama Man

There is not an excuse in the world for a person to suffer with fiery Eczema. Yet how many people do you see with ugly skins which spoil their whole appearance?

What you want to do is abolish every trace of eczema with Peterson's Ointment, for years nation wide famous for speedily ending Eczema.

Mr. A. W. Turner, of Birmingham, Ala., writes: "Was troubled for about 2 years with eczema and after I used Peterson's Ointment for about 4 or 5 times, my trouble entirely disappeared."

One application of Peterson's Ointment will stop the burning and itching of Eczema and one 35c box will prove it—all drug stores.

PLAN CAMERON FUNERAL RITES

Funeral services are to be held tomorrow for Dr. Mackey C. Cameron, vice president of the medical board of the West Penn Hospital and for 47 years a physician there, who died last night. Burgess Carlson announced the meeting last night. Dr. Cameron lived in the Lowell Apartments, East End.

He was a former president and member of the Allegheny County Medical Society and the Pittsburgh Academy of Medicine, a member of the University Club, Masonic fraternity and of Christ Methodist Episcopal Church.

He leaves one daughter, Mrs. Bessie Kofoed, of Cleveland; one son Dr. Mackey C. Cameron, fellow in surgery at the Mayo Brothers' Clinic, of Rochester, Minn.; one sister, Mrs. Alice Mundoff, of Pasadena, Cal., and two brothers, Frank B. of Pittsburgh and Dr. William H. Cameron, of New York City.

GETS JOB BACK

Chief Charles A. Livingston, of Etna police, was to report for duty today after charges preferred against him by Burgess C. J. Carlson, fell before members of Brackenridge Borough Council at a meeting last night. Burgess Carlson suspended Livingston last week for the good of the service, he told Council.

Livingston told Council that no charges had been preferred against him and the Burgess, who had previously excused himself from the meeting, was recalled. Carlson then accused the chief of lack of co-operation, inefficient conduct unbecoming of an officer and protection to bootleggers. The Burgess said Livingston had called him a liar and had used other abusive language.

Livingston admitted having called Carlson a liar, but denied other charges. After a discussion Council voted to reinstate Livingston as chief.

AN OBLIGING BEAUTY DOCTOR

A Beauty Specialist Gives Home-Made Recipe to Darken Gray Hair

Mrs. M. D. Gillespie, a well-known beauty specialist of Kansas City, recently said that the following mixture can be relied upon to darken gray hair, and that it is easy to prepare a mixture at home that will darken gray hair. To make it, simply get a half pint of water and 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and a piece of sponge.

These ingredients can be purchased at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice each week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and will not rub off.

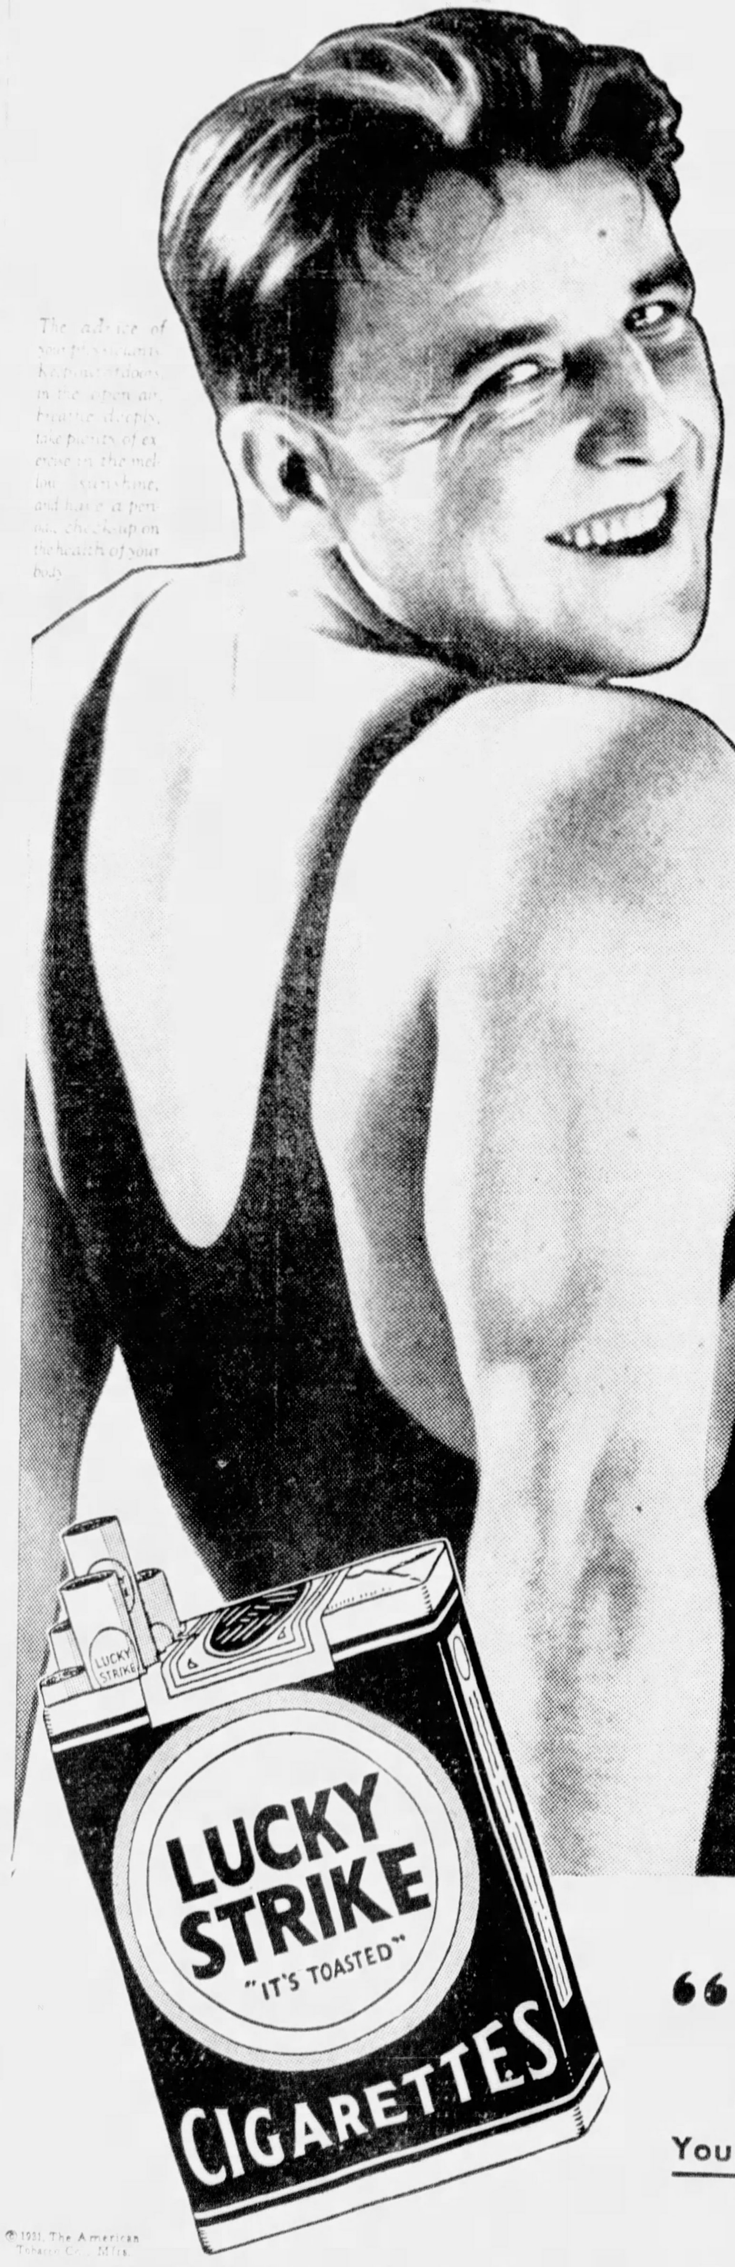
SUNSHINE MELLOWS Heat Purifies



The advice of 500 famous throat specialists. Keeping outdoors in the open air, breathing deeply, the purity of exercise in the mellow sunshine, and have a person check up on the health of your body.

LUCKIES are always kind to your throat

Everyone knows that sunshine mellows—that's why the "TOASTING" process includes the use of the Ultra Violet Rays. LUCKY STRIKE—the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—THEN—"IT'S TOASTED." Everyone knows that heat purifies and so "TOASTING"—that extra, secret process—removes harmful irritants that cause throat irritation and coughing.

for CHAPPED HANDS

.....people who know choose NOXZEMA

* * *

Read why so many use Noxzema

"IN my practice my hands get in very bad shape," writes a well-known Philadelphia doctor. "I have used all kinds of creams, but Noxzema certainly gives better and quicker results than any other."

Hundreds of other physicians and nurses write us something the same thing. They know from experience that nothing else soothes and heals roughened, irritated skin so quickly and surely as Noxzema, the medicated skin cream.

Hands reddened by housework made smooth and white

Women whose hands get painfully chapped and reddened from dishwashing and other household tasks find that Noxzema heals almost overnight—quickly restores the skin to soft, velvety smoothness and whiteness. Unknown a short time ago 8,000,000 jars of this wonderful healing cream were sold last year.

Are your hands badly chapped? Then ordinary creams and lotions are not enough. Get Noxzema. It's snow-white, vanishing, not sticky or greasy. Rub a little in. Relief is instant—and you can almost "feel it heal." Ask your druggist for a jar today. He'll cheerfully refund your money tomorrow if you are not delighted with Noxzema.

Real Estate

Money spent for construction in Pittsburgh for 1930 amounted to $20,759,002 it was revealed today in the yearly report of the Bureau of Building Inspection. Of this total $6,663,535 was for the construction of 941 dwellings capable of housing 1,300 families. Two thousand three hundred and twenty-five permits were issued for new buildings, including dwellings, to cost $16,615,590. Permits granted for alterations, additions and extensions totaled 2,778 and represented $4,143,412. In the division of home building, the Fourteenth Ward showed a lead over other wards with 116 permits for dwellings to cost $1,860,900. The Nineteenth Ward was second with 137 permits for homes to cost $786,550. According to the bureau's report of 1929, $36,174,512 was expended on Pittsburgh construction.

The weekly luncheon of the Pittsburgh Builders' Exchange will be held next Thursday in the Keystone Athletic Club. W. C. Dittmar will preside. The annual convention of the National Builders' Exchange is scheduled from February 16 to 19 in San Antonio, Tex. Following the convention the delegates will tour Mexico.

Plans for the new St. Clair Savings and Trust Company Building to be constructed at 300 Brownsville road have been filed by Robert T. McCartney, architect. Bids will be due next Thursday, according to McCartney.

A property with lot 30x101 feet in Mackinaw avenue, Nineteenth Ward, has been sold to Edward M. Welch by Bertha H. Rogers for $10,800.

Applications for building permits follow:

Fifteenth Ward—J. E. Hines, five brick and tile duplexes, 3804-22 Beechwood boulevard, $35,000.

Twenty-seventh Ward—M. J. Miller, repair fire damage, 4031 Northminister street, $4,000.

4 Councilmen Named By Bellevue Church

Four members of the church council were elected at the annual congregational meeting of Emanuel Lutheran Church, Bellevue, Sunday. They are H. G. Ruehl, Herman Fairley, Earl Stauffer and Graf Ecke. Herbert Kentzel, president of the congregation, presided. The council will meet tomorrow night for reorganization.

STOP BAD BREATH

Thousands of people afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after 20 years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound; you will know them by their olive color. Take nightly for a week and note the effect. 15c, 30c, 60c.

TELL IT TO SALLY

By SALLY MARTIN

Are You Suffering From Those In-Law Blues?

This is another In Law story. The back echo of which are a Dumb Daughter . . . a Mad Mama . . . The Girls . . . and a Fur Coat. And . . . yes, where shall the sunshine live? . . . Sounds tangled, doesn't it? It is.

It all began with Dad being lonesome. Mom is the other kids were too busy to pay much attention to him. So since Alice was working and had to hire a girl to do her housework, why shouldn't she and Jim give up their apartment and come home? That's what Alice did. And for a while all was kinky-doos. Then—but listen to it for yourself.

Year of Happiness

Dear Sally: Won't you please help me? I'm in a muddle that I can't seem to find my own way out of. I've been married now for almost two years to Jim, who is 33 and the oldest of seven children. His dad was married at 17, so you can see that Dad is still quite young. As soon as Jim was born, his dad began going to school at night and was a result he has made quite a success in life. His four sons are all in business and doing fine. The three girls who are still rather young, just stay at home. They have no occupation and just live in a world of lovely clothes and a dad who pays for them without murmuring.

Dad never really had any fun in his whole life and all the other children besides Jim are too busy to pay any attention to him, so he was very lonesome. And since I have a position, and a rather responsible one at that, and had to keep someone to take care of our apartment, he thought that Jim and I might as well give up the apartment and come to live with him and my mother-in-law and the three girls. Jim was his favorite son anyway.

Well, we did that. And we have enjoyed almost a year of the most exquisite happiness, and Dad has become a changed man. I taught him to dance and we have had parties almost every week, and he and mother-in-law and Jim and I have gone to shows and night clubs and a lot of other places.

Strained Air

Dad always seemed to be having a fine time, but just recently, whenever he and I seem to be enjoying ourselves, Jim and his mother sit looking on disapprovingly. Before this, they were all very thankful to me for brightening Dad's life and showing him how to enjoy himself. But now it seems to be different.

And here we come to the real trouble. Not long ago Dad bought new fur coats for the three girls. And he thinks that I should have one too.

Now the girls don't mind if he gets me one. But Jim and my mother-in-law seem to think that I should get it from Jim, if at all. And that is where the story gets bad. There is a decidedly strained air in the house and I don't like it.

I think that Jim and I should move again. But Dad says no. He doesn't want us to, and he won't stand for it. So we are all secretly quarreling.

And my mother-in-law has ever gone so far as to intimate that he prefers my happiness to hers and that he must be in love with me. This is distressing and ridiculous, and I'm crying as I write this . . . not because I want sympathy but because I'm so angry at being misunderstood when I only tried to brighten Dad's life up as the others should have done . . . and were too selfish to do.

Honestly, I have tried my best to do everything that I should to make both my parents-in-law and my husband happy and I feel actually bewildered at the way things have turned out.

Please tell me where I am wrong, and what I can do, won't you? Don't you agree with me that Jim and I should move?

ALICE.

Should you move? Yes, sister. And soon. Don't wait for your father-in-law to decide to let you. Cut the Gordian knot yourself and walk out and find an apartment for you and Jim and let the rest of the family fight it out among themselves.

You and Jim are the real goats in this tracic and it's going to be worse and more of it if you don't pick yourself up and get out.

Better to Move

Where were you wrong? First, you and Jim and Dad and all of you were wrong in thinking that one house, however large, could be large enough to hold two families. Especially since you brought such radical changes into the life of Jim's father. That's probably where the real difficulty arose. You started him up until Ma-in-law got a little scared. She couldn't see just where things were heading.

And because her fears were so vague she seized on the first silly excuse that came to her hand to start some fireworks . . . and talked Jim into feeling the same way she did.

Why not have a quiet, serious talk with that father-in-law of yours? Put it up to him straight that the way things are there isn't much ahead but trouble . . . and that no matter how anxious he is to have you stay it'll be better for all of you if you and Jim find a place of your own.

Surely you can make him see. If you can't, then go anyway. Go tactfully and in friendship. But go.

Actually he has no more right to plunge his family into hot water by insisting that you live with them than your mother-in-law has to plunge it into hot water with her unfounded fears and suspicions. And it's up to you to not allow Dad to do it.

World Interest in Radio, Movies Suggest Universal Language—Fay King

NEW WORLD LANGUAGE LAUNCHED
IN A FEW SECONDS I'LL HEAR AN ESKIMO MAKE A SHORT TALK I CAN UNDERSTAND WHAT A THRILL!
FAY KING

By FAY KING.

With the world-wide interest in radio and motion pictures the time for a Universal Language has arrived.

It is not a new idea, but before now the need to promote it was not great enough.

In 1887, Dr. Lazarus Ludwig Zamenof, a Russian, was the first to present this idea in a book published under the name, "Dr. Esperanto." His language was based upon words common to all European languages. He died in 1917, but had lived to see Esperanto acquire quite a following.

Just now Prof. R. E. Zachrison, of the Upsala University in Stockholm, Sweden, is launching "Anglic," based upon modern English. It is only a matter of time when some such language will be adopted. The need for it has come.

The Young Lovers Plan to Thwart Veritzen

"Of what are you thinking, Mary?" I asked quietly when Noel had told her that he did remember almost the exact wording of his father's letter and that it was written upon the special note paper which Mr. Veritzen always uses for his personal letters.

"Nothing less than forgery," Mary laughed. "It was a typed letter, wasn't it, Noel?"

Noel nodded and Mary looked over at me with bright eyes.

"On a typewriter which is the twin of the one he had sent up from the office for you, Auntie Madge."

"That is true," Noel said, and I guessed that he had difficulty in getting even the simple words out. he was so tremendously excited at what Mary was planning.

"Then," Mary said complacently, "what's the matter with Noel typing the letter as he remembers it. Anybody can imitate that scrawl that Mr. Veritzen calls his signature. He wouldn't know it himself if he met it under an electric light. Then, if necessary, Noel can nonchalantly exhibit the letter, taking care that daddy doesn't get more than a flash at it. How's that?"

"It strikes me as a very good scheme," I said, "though I do feel as though we were all engaged in something criminal. But I think Mrs. Underwood would remind us of the old adage that we must fight fire with fire, and I must admit that I haven't many scruples in dealing with your father, Noel."

"I haven't any," said Mary flippantly, but with emphasis, and Noel looked his full accord with her declaration.

"Then," I said, "I think we may say that you need not be afraid of any threats Mr. Veritzen may make to you. That letter will be a most effective counter-threat, and you can go ahead with whatever plans for work either of you may have. I warn you, however, that I will countenance no plans for marriage for some time to come. Both of you—Mary especially—are entirely too young."

There was disappointment in Noel's face and apparent mutiny in Mary's, but I wondered if the gleam in her eyes did not mean unconscious relief at my dictum.

"If I only had my inheritance, my mother's money," Noel said dreamily, "I could take care of you, Mary, in the way you deserve to be cared for. But my father can control it, as you know, until I am 35, and by that time we'll be so old."

I choked back a chuckle at this.

"You may be able to enjoy your patrimony even at that advanced age," I said dryly. "But you don't do Mary justice, Noel, if you think——"

"She wants to be taken care of in any flossy way," Mary said. "Sorry, Auntie Madge, for interrupting you, but I just had to call Noel on that. I'll subscribe meekly to what you say about marrying while I'm so young, but if anybody around here thinks I'm the type that has to feed upon strawberries, sugar and cream after I'm married, while a man works himself to death to supply them for me, he's got another think coming, that's all."

She was so lovely with her head thrown back defiantly and her eyes aflame with generous, youthful enthusiasm, that I understood the impulse which made Noel catch her hand and bring it to his lips.

"Could a man die a better death?" he asked softly, and I knew from the look upon both rapt young faces that they had forgotten me, and, what was far more important to both of them, had forgotten Philip Veritzen and his attempts to injure them.

I slipped out of my chair and moved noiselessly into the next room, knowing that they would not notice my going. I left them to themselves for fully five minutes, and then came back to the chair opposite the one in which Noel had sat.

"Your five minutes are up, children," I said.

"So soon," both protested, but there was languor in their tones, and I knew that even romance was not proof against the fatigue which was theirs because of Noel's trip and Mary's worried wakefulness.

"Yes, so soon," I said. "You may have just a minute longer while I tell the Underwoods to come home. Oh, by the way, Noel, remember you are absolutely incommunicado until the party. You are registered privately—your name does not appear on the general register—and I want you to keep out of sight of the door whenever it is opened. In that manner you'll be able to keep out of your father's way. He will leave nothing undone in his attempts to see you, remember that."

I had spoken in the low tones all of us had used, but as I went to the door there came to me the queer intuitive feeling that someone, somewhere, was trying to listen to those muffled tones.

"Go into the alcove and close the curtains while I open this door," I directed, and when Noel and Mary had scurried into hiding I cautiously opened the door and was conscious that someone was rapidly approaching our corridor—someone who was running on tiptoe.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

'Sensitivity Tests' Advisable in Asthma

No one who has never had it can really appreciate the misery and anguish that one with asthma goes through. In an attack of this dreaded disease, there is a spasm of the windpipe and of the smaller tubes that bring air to the lungs.

Dr. Copeland

There is marked difficulty in breathing. The patient can not lie down and he may assume odd positions in his attempts to breathe more freely. He complains that he is unable to "catch his breath." He suffers painfully because of the lack of air reaching his lungs.

We have a great group of cases caused by sensitiveness to certain substances. These may be animal emanations, certain foods, the pollen of plants, and in some cases, substances developed by bacteria. In many instances, the bedding, or one of the house furnishings may be the source of the irritation.

Individuals suffering from this type of asthma should be subjected to "sensitivity tests." By means of these tests the substance which causes the attacks may be determined. Then when it is removed from the diet, the clothing or the surroundings, the attacks usually disappear. The tests are simple and painless and the results are gratifying. The results of the treatment have been exceptionally successful in children.

We have another type of asthma which is commonly seen in adults beyond 40 years of age. This is commonly spoken of as "non-specific asthma," for it is not due to one of the irritating substances I have mentioned. It is the type seen in individuals who have long been sufferers from chronic bronchitis.

In this the prospect of cure is not so bright. It has not been determined exactly what is the cause of the paroxysms or spasms. These attacks vary in intensity. At times they are so severe that relief is only obtained by hypodermic medication by a physician.

A change in climate is likely to benefit persons suffering from asthma. Countries with dry, temperate climate are helpful to many.

The victim of chronic asthma should be under the constant supervision of a physician. Continued asthmatic attacks weaken the heart and lungs. These organs should be periodically examined for any signs of weakness so that proper treatment may be given.

Answers to Health Queries

"A CONSTANT READER."

Q.—What do you advise for sinus trouble?

T. B. P. Q.—What causes nose bleeds?

A.—This may be due to some growth in the nose, ulcer or high blood pressure.

MRS. D. S. Q.—Are protruding veins on the hands and arms indicative of high blood pressure? When I am in a warm room I feel hot and uncomfortable. What does this indicate?

A.—Not necessarily, but if you have any reason to think your blood pressure may be a little too high, have your doctor examine you. Avoid too much red meat in your diet, and keep the system clear.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Introducing One's Mother-in-Law

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I would like to know the correct way to introduce my mother-in-law to my friends. Should I introduce her as my mother-in-law or as my mother, when my own mother is living?

Mrs. O.

This depends on the love you have for her. If you feel toward her as "another mother," then she would, I am sure, love to have you refer to her as "mother." Many married women do this, and it does sound more charming, we must agree, than the cold "in-law" after the word "mother."

Or, if you prefer, you might use the word "mother" with her last name . . . this is often done. Sometimes, too, a married woman introduces her mother-in-law like this: "Mary, do you know John's mother?" or "Mrs. Allan, this is John's mother."

Tailored Negligees for Traveling

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Kindly tell me if it is correct for a young lady to wear a silk, rather extravagant negligee in the hotel hall on the way to the bathroom; if there is not one connected with her room?

There has been some dispute regarding this question and we thank you in advance for your answer. TWO READERS.

When we travel, it is always best to take a simple, tailored robe of some kind, a so-called Pullman robe, excellent for trains and in hotels, or a dark silk or quilted satin, dark also, or a dark, tailored bathrobe. Then we would not have to wear in the corridors of hotels, going to a bathroom, inappropriate negligees that are appropriate only in the privacy of one's room.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

The midnight "snack" should be deleted. The tummy needs a rest from dinner until breakfast time. It is a muscle and, like any other muscle tires out and needs a period of relaxation. Midnight suppers ruin complexions, which reflect the condition of the digestion.

Eyebrows have gone back to normal. Little cubes who did excessive tweezing have found out that these lambrequins of the soul windows have become weakened. If they would grow brows that are worthy of the name they should apply a tonic made of equal parts of castor oil and rubbing alcohol. Mascara, applied lightly will darken brows of nondescript color.

Muscles constitute nearly one-half the body weight. Women seldom give them a thought. Development of the muscular system in youth is not enough; exercise should continue all through life to keep tissues strong and blood streams galloping. Women who go in for physical education never spot a wrinkle until they are 70 years old, maybe not then. They have exquisite body balance, health, bright eyes, amiable dispositions.

When they first appear is the time to start the battle. Apply a heavy skin food every night, tapping it in briskly with the finger ends. That movement is safer than the usual round and round motion, which is likely to stretch the skin and make matters worse. Ironing with ice should follow the treatment.

Smile when you wield the lipstick. By stretching the lips their full distance, the crepe-like surface smooths out, the drug store lip-health goes on evenly. Don't overlook the inner surface. But don't be too generous with the donation there. It may land on the teeth which isn't a pretty sight.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Wednesday, January 14

A very lively and animated state of affairs both business and private, is presaged from the governing lunar and mutual configurations. Under a strong Martian impetus there may be a great spur to initiative and brave ambitions, but in entirely new undertakings it might be well to be on the alert against fraud, treachery or subtle tactics. Proceed with caution, safeguard the employment and be wise in the handling of funds. Personal affairs flourish.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of much initiative and bold adventure, with the faculties, energies and ambitions under high stimulus. But in the new ventures it would be well to be on guard against treachery and misrepresentation, and manage the matters with conservatism and discretion. Safeguard employment. Domestic, affectional and social affiliations may offer much happiness and diversion. Friendships serve profitably.

A child born on this day may have many sturdy and executive talents and may be resourceful, aggressive and ambitious. Its social and domestic qualities may bring much happiness.

Ondine (Dedicated to Harold Bauer) ..... Ravel

Harold Bauer played a beautiful piano recital before the Art Society in Carnegie Music Hall last night. The program was built of lesser known classics, but in spite of its many delightful features, needed a dash of brilliance to relieve the monotony of form which the pianist had chosen.

J. Fred Lissfelt

Bauer's place has long been assured among the great pianists of our day. His prodigious technique, his command of every nuance in tone, and his poetic approach to all music ingratiate him with all audiences. When he plays music of the ancients he is willing to experiment with acoustics and find the tone of their instruments; for the moderns no dynamics of our piano are beyond his understanding.

Although the Beethoven Sonata is among the last from that composer, among those works aimed for orchestral effects, and even though its form is a great departure from the true sonata form, still it remains ideally pianistic. In the group of Chopin Mazurkas Bauer did not forget that Chopin was etching Polish ladies, and though the portraits were vague at times, they were always charming. The Polonaise Fantasie remains dull in spite of Bauer.

A century between the Schubert Impromptu and the Ravel "Ondine," and yet both composers experimenting with the same technique, both succeeding, and both finding the same artist to paint the shades of tone in the depths of their music.

J. FRED LISSFELT.

X-Ray Turned To Driving Screws

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal., Jan. 13.—(AP.)—The mighty X-ray has been put to the lowly task of driving screws. And all just to prove it isn't what we thought it was.

Perley Anson Ross, physics professor at Stanford University, inventor of the X-ray screw driver, uses the machine to demonstrate that the rays have properties similar to bullets rather than waves, as is popularly believed. All he does is hook up a little machine known as an X-ray spectometer, aim it at the screw, and the job is done.

Despite the ease of operating Professor Ross' screw driver, it isn't likely to become a household article.

EASIEST WAY TO BREAK UP A COLD

Millions Say of This Proved Way

Works Fast—Makes You Feel Like a New Person Before You Know It

If you want quick relief from a cold, go back to first principles and use something you know does the business—don't start "trying" a lot of fancy ideas or remedies. Even a "little" cold is too dangerous to take chances on.

Get Hill's Cascara Quinine. A scientific formula made to do ONE THING WELL: to knock a cold in a jiffy, not to cure a hundred different things.

Take two tablets every three hours. Drink lots of water between times — that's all. Soon those mean aching pains in head and body begin to go; the cold breaks up, poisons leave your system. Almost before you know it, you feel like a new person.

If it doesn't do that, your money back. Get a box now. You'll be surprised at the speed with which it works. Costs only a few cents.

COUNCIL SPEEDS RAIL-RIVER TERMINAL

Kline Plea to U. S. for Ramp Fails

SIDEWALKS —of— PITTSBURGH

By William Pfarr

The most unusual story Joe Mackrell, the register of wills, covered when he was a young reporter 26 years ago had to do with "dead man's hand"—which any poker player will tell you is the parlance for aces and eights. Quite accidentally, he ran across the feature angle which won him slaps on the back from his bosses and envious glances from the other reporters.

William Pfarr

Mackrell was a reporter on the old Times. When a call came to police that a man had been murdered in a house in Penn avenue, between Sixteenth and Seventeenth streets, Joe accompanied Phil Demmler, then captain of detectives, to the scene.

They found a dead man slumped over a poker table, still holding his hand of five cards. There was a bullet in his throat. The killer had fled.

Joe moved over to Jack Dillon's saloon and telephoned a report of the murder to his office. Hangers-on at the bar heard him 'phoning, and his report inspired a bag-punching session on poker hands. Joe heard somebody say something of the so-called "dead-man's hand."

That was enough of a tip. Joe realized he hadn't looked at the cards the dead man held. He rushed back. And, of course, the hand held two pair—aces and eights.

The next week the New York Evening Sun sent Joe a check for $10 as a reward for having uncovered the best feature story of the week.

A new downtown luncheon club has been organized. J. M. Eckes, one of the founders, reports that it's called the Bent Fender Club. To belong, you don't have to have suffered a bent fender, but you do have to know the proper words to use when, returning to your car, you find your fender bent. One applicant for membership already has been refused. When he was asked to pronounce the proper words, he exclaimed, "Pshaw!"

Most of the families which have applied to the Welfare Fund for help ask for food, coal and clothes. But two recent requests have the welfare workers agog. One family asked for a carton of cigarets; another wanted its insurance kept up.

We are just hearing of another Molinari story. At one of the rehearsals of the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra, the temperamental little Italian had broken three batons and was still in the mood.

"Your husband," suggested Dick Rauh, a director of the symphony society, to Mrs. Molinari, "must be in a bad humor."

"No," explained Mrs. Molinari seriously, "Three batons —pleasant. Six, not so pleasant. More than six, bad."

Ask Hospital Water Bills be Rescinded

An ordinance has been introduced in City Council directing the Board of Water Assessors to issue exoneration to the Montefiore Hospital Association for a 1929 water bill of $1,118, and to satisfy liens filed against the association's former property in Center avenue totaling $9,877, all for water charges. This is under the rule of exemptions for charitable institutions.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

FORT WORTH, Tex., Jan. 13.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Will Rogers

Left Beverly yesterday morning and was here in Fort Worth last night, on regular daily passenger run. Was met here by Amon Carter. You can try to sneak into this city on a bicycle, but Amon Carter will meet you at the city limits and welcome you. No other city in America has anything approaching such a public citizen as Carter. He met me by special plane 200 miles out to prevent me going into Dallas first. He poisoned one friend just to keep him out of Dallas. I am down here to help Congressman Gardner divide up Texas into 12 Democratic senators. Yours,

WILL.

FIVE IDENTIFIED IN HOLDUPS

With the arrest and identification today of five young men police say they have solved three holdups in which nearly $10,000 was stolen at the point of revolvers. The men are being held for court without bail on charges of robbery, carrying concealed weapons and pointing firearms.

Abe Slaine, 21, of Aliquippa street, and Frank Mazza, 22, of Vickroy street, were identified this morning, police allege, as the bandits who last September held up and robbed the Brighton laundry of $5,200 and two months later held five persons at bay in the Corliss Creamery Company and escaped with cash and checks worth $2,500.

Victims of the robbery of the American Coat and Apron Company last October in which $1,800 was stolen today identified Joseph Andia, 23, of 1202 Epiphany street; James DeSantis, 22, of 571 Lenora street, and Ralph Martorella, 22, of 152 Mayflower street, as the three bandits who committed the theft, police allege.

Lang Sends Mellon Offer to Council

The gift to the city by W. L. Mellon of property at Forbes and Northumberland streets, adjoining the Murdoch entrance to Schenley Park, has been referred to City Council by Edward G. Lang, director of the Department of Public Works. It is estimated that the cost of improving the property to correspond with the park surroundings will be $40,000.

Ben Avon Building In 1930, $39,550

Building operations in Ben Avon last year totaled $39,550, according to the report of the borough council. Dwellings cost $18,500; alterations, $4,750; garages, $7,000; swimming pool and miniature golf course, $6,300.

FIVE SWINDLERS GET WOMAN'S CASH

Promised $25,000 if she would make the initial payment of $1,000 on a property to be purchased, Mrs. Emma Palmer, of 1889 Romine avenue, Port Vue, today is mourning the loss of her life savings. Meanwhile McKeesport police were seeking two foreigners who escaped after swindling the woman.

Mrs. Palmer withdrew $400 from a McKeesport bank yesterday and added $600 she had been keeping at her home. She handed the sum to the men, who in return gave her a tin box, saying the $25,000 had been deposited in it. Later a son opened the box and found a few $1 bills had been wrapped around several newspapers.

Auto Kills Woman, Driver Is Held

Mrs. Margaret Knapp, 72, a widow, of 6719 Hamilton avenue, died today in the Pittsburgh Hospital from injuries suffered Saturday night when she was struck by an automobile while crossing the street at Murtland and Hamilton avenues. E. M. Ziegler, of 2034 Eggers street, driver of the car, at liberty under $1,000 bond posted at East End Police Station, was ordered turned over to the coroner.

$50,000 Heart Balm Asked in Suit Here

Miss Zuzana Sulak, of Homestead has filed suit for breach of promise in Common Pleas Court against Michael Nemeth, asking $50,000 heart balm. She charged Nemeth asked her to marry him the day they met, last May 4, saying she accepted just as promptly. They procured a marriage license September 16, but later he refused to marry her.

TRAFFIC LAW DECLARED SOLUTION

Lowman Advises Observance Of Rules; Survey Shows Heavy Mail Transit Here

Treasury Department officials have told Mayor Charles H. Kline that all that will be required to solve the traffic problem at the new postoffice is the "observing of trafic rules."

This came in answer to a letter from Mayor Kline in which he intervened in behalf of the Better Traffic Committee, asking government officials to make provision for trucks entering the postoffice other than a left turn out of Seventh avenue. The Pittsburghers have been advocating a ramp from Grant street.

EXPECT NO DIFFICULTY

Seymour Lowman, assistant secretary of the Treasury, replied that the effect on traffic of the Seventh avenue entrance proposed by the government has already been considered by architects in conference with Pittsburgh parties interested in the matter, and that the decision was that no unusual difficulties would be presented.

Committee consideration of the Better Traffic Committee urging the Mayor and Council to lead an active drive for the Grant street ramp was expected in Council today.

Frank L. Duggan, chairman of the traffic committee, declares a survey has been completed showing the congestion which will result in Seventh avenue when many mail trucks start making left turns in Seventh avenue during the peak traffic hours.

HUNDREDS OF TRUCKS

Traffic counts at the Ferry and Smithfield street postoffice buildings show 763 vehicles drawing up at the two offices in a ten-hour period. All will enter the new postoffice, and most of them will be forced to cut across the path of 5,243 vehicles moving north on Seventh avenue. In the hour between 5 and 6 p. m., 131 trucks use the postoffices. The counts were made by City Traffic Engineer Lewis W. McIntyre.

A special committee has been appointed to confer with Mayor Kline and Council an the next move in the traffic tangle. The committee includes Duggan, McIntyre, Walter Rosenbaum, Edward Snodgrass, Jr., and Edward B. Lee.

Reports of all departments of the church and Sunday School will be presented and officers elected at the annual congregational meeting tomorrow night of the Bellevue Christian Church.

Tarentum Employes Assured of Work

All borough employes of Tarentum, from Police Chief William Kelly down, were assured their positions today; council having re-elected them at its meeting last night. President A. B. Davidson presided.

Pittsburgh Ad Club To Hear Lecturer

Edmund Vance Cook, author and lecturer, was to address the Pittsburgh Advertising Club today at the weekly luncheon in the William Penn Hotel. President J. M. McKibben, Jr., will be in charge.

Charges Wife Hid First Marriage; Files Suit

Claiming he had been tricked and deceived by his wife, Russell W. Mack, 7756 Baxter street, has filed suit in Common Pleas Court asking for annulment of his marriage to Florence Finley Mack, now of Falls Creek, Clearfield County.

Mack declared they were married May 7 and lived together until January 3, when he learned she was already the wife of Cuthberg P. Finlay, of 1302 Hunter street, Wilkinsburg, from whom she had never been divorced.

AUTOIST HELD ON RUM CHARGE

Joseph Owens, 47, of 1216 Wylie avenue, was arrested last night at Webster avenue and Kirkpatrick street, while transporting 18 pints of whisky in an automobile, according to prohibition agents. The car and liquor were seized. Owens was lodged in the Central Police Station in default of bond.

Carnegie Hunters Hold Annual Feast

Chief C. H. Keisling, of Carnegie police, who while not engaged in capturing lawbreakers, is known as one of the deadliest foes to bears in Pennsylvania, gave a vivid description of big game hunting at the second annual banquet of the Burch Hunting and Fishing Club held in the Dante Alighieri Hall, Carnegie, last night. Chief Keisling has two notches on his rifle for bears he bagged in the last two seasons.

INQUIRY BEGUN IN $500 FIRE

Five buckets containing a mixture of kerosene, engine oil, and ether reported found in the burning Harry Harris Building, Fourth avenue and Tenth street, New Kensington, were being held by New Kensington police today while an investigation to ascertain the cause of the blaze was begun. The loss was estimated by Fire Chief E. J. Clawson at $500.

The building, a three-story frame structure in the heart of the business district is occupied on the first floor by the Central Drug store, Dorothy Beauty Shop, Pulambo Tailoring establishment, and a barber shop. The upper floors are untenanted.

Firemen were forced to don gas masks while extinguishing the fire, which started, Chief Clawson said, in the stairway leading to the second floor. The buckets were found on the second floor, according to firemen. The blaze was discovered by William Carnahan, a fireman, as he was leaving a nearby restaurant.

Illness After Fall Fatal to Woman, 77

Pneumonia developing from injuries suffered December 31, when she fell in her home while hurrying to answer the doorbell, caused the death last night, in the Allegheny General Hospital, of Miss Alice Taylor, 77, of 411 North St. Clair street, according to the coroner's report.

Armstrong Club Plans Charity Dance

The Joseph G. Armstrong Cotillion Club will stage a charity dance January 27 in the Carrick Eagles ballroom, Brownsville road. The proceeds will be turned over to the Carrick police for their unemployed fund. Miss Violet Ackerman is chairman of the committee in charge.

HASTE URGED IN LEGAL DETAILS

Private Projects Declared Going Ahead of City as Leases Are Negotiated

City Council has asked the legal department to hasten action on the city's river and rail terminals in the Manchester and Hays districts. The matter of leases now rests between city solocitors and the owners of the properties.

Director of Public Works Edward G. Lang explained to Council what steps have been taken. Councilman Harry A. Little put the motion to speed the projects, saying a number of private enterprises have been making better time than the city in developing river-rail facilities.

Improvement of the Noblestown road from a point near Obey avenue to Baldwin road was approved. The road will be made a four-lane highway. At the suggestion of the Planning Commission it will be built so that additional width may be added if traffic demands it.

A resolution favoring a bill now before Congress reducing the work week of postal employes from 48 to 44 hours was passed by Council on motion of W. Y. English. A large delegation of postal employes was present. It is declared the bill will be a step toward reducing unemployment.

The City Planning Commission, through L. W. Monteverde, chairman, has informed Council that the widening of Collins avenue from Penn avenue to Burpee street, East Liberty, does not fit in with the existing major street plan. The commission suggests the use of Prince street and Burpee street.

U. S. PRISONERS LEAVE FOR PEN

A special car with 15 Federal prisoners leaves Pittsburgh today, for the Federal penitentiary at Atlanta. The men, in custody of the U. S. marshal and deputies, have been sentenced to terms ranging from a year and a day to two years and six months.

Harry Lowelthal, of Tilbury street, convicted of using counterfeit strip stamps on whisky bottles, was given the longest term, two and a half years. John W. Wesley will start a two-year term for using the mails to defraud one of the three or more women he has married.

Safety Body Names Fireworks Group

The Western Pennsylvania Safety Council has informed City Council that a committee has been appointed to consider safety measures in regard to the sale and use of fireworks. Council has been asked to grant a hearing to this committee which consists of R. M. Sherrard, assistant superintendent of schools, A. P. Huckestein and F. L. Duggan.

Acquitted in Theft Ring, Pair Plan Honeymoon

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Wolf, of 7614 Bennett street, were ready to begin their honeymoon today after having been cleared of charges of conspiracy and receiving stolen goods in Criminal Court late yesterday.

They were arrested with Wolf's brother, Morris Wolf, after Mrs. Wolf, then Miss Margaret Casey, had purchased an automobile from Morris Wolfe, who had a garage in Center avenue.

Police claimed the automobile was stolen, but were unable to identify the car in court during the trial. Defense Counsel Al Martin petitioned the court to instruct the jury to return a verdict of not guilty, and the petition was granted.

With the arrest of the trio, police announced the discovery of a ring of automobile thieves, and the men and woman were indicted. Lieut. Jack Lavery, Patrolman Martin Lappe and Louis Swartz, a city employe, were arrested in a later investigation, but were discharged at a hearing before a police magistrate.

6 BANDITS LOOT GAS STATION SAFE, KIDNAP ATTENDANT

MAN RELEASED ON ROAD AFTER AUTO RIDE

Policeman Seizes Suspect In Chase After Holdup Of Downtown Shop Fails

Four bandits who looted the safe in the Gulf service station at Kelly street and Lang avenue of $25 early today took Robert C. Wasson, of 1324 Chelson street, Wilkinsburg, the attendant, for an automobile ride to keep him from spreading an alarm. Wasson was driven to the Clarkstown road, Penn Township, and released. He walked a mile and a half to the Wilkinsburg police station to report the robbery.

Wasson had just closed the station when the four thugs drove up. One threatened him with a gun. Wasson was compelled to open the safe from which the bandits took the money.

BANDIT SUSPECT HELD

An alleged holdup man caught after an unsuccessful attempt last night to rob the tailor shop of Joseph Mestelman, 13 Smithfield street, was being held in Central Police Station today.

The suspect, who gave his name as John White, 19, of 3527 Mendo street, St. Louis, was captured at Smithfield street and the Boulevard of the Allies by Patrolman Mark Maloy.

Boris and David Mestelman, brother and nephew of the tailor, walked into the shop while the holdup was in progress. The robber, revolver in hand, ran out of the shop and fled with Boris and David Mestelman in pursuit. David seized the fleeing man, but was slugged with the butt end of his revolver, police said. The chase continued until Patrolman Maloy seized White.

White had an unloaded 32-caliber revolver in his possession when caught, according to police.

NEWSBOY ROBBED

Harry Creely, 16, of 835 Tobin street, a newsboy, was robbed of $1.50 by a thug in West Lacock street last night. Creely fought with the man but he escaped.

Thieves broke an outside show case valued at $125 to obtain two pairs of trousers, valued at $15, Albert Jaffe, owner of a clothing store at 333 East Eighth avenue, Homestead, reported to police.

Howard E. Young, cab driver of 951 Freeland street, reported to police that he had been robbed of $9 by a fare in Saw Mill Run boulevard. He told police he had picked up the passenger at the Seventh Avenue Hotel and upon reaching the 2200 block in Saw Mill Run boulevard, the passenger pointed a revolver at him and took his money.

BOGUS MONEY LAID TO FATHER

A young man testified in Morals Court today that his father had been manufacturing lead quarters in their home in Knoxville for three months.

The young man, Jerome Reptholz, 24, of Zara street, had been arrested with Walter Grebner, 18, of Fisher street, for passing the counterfeits.

Police testified that when they went to the home the father was missing and that only a melting pot and a piece of lead were found.

Reptholz testified his father gave him some counterfeits and told him to use them on slot machines and buy shoes with the profits.

Magistrate Thomas D. Jones turned the prisoners over to United States authorities.

WILL DESTROY 1926 BALLOTS

The William S. Vare-William B. Wilson senatorial contest, begun in 1926, was ended in Federal Court yesterday. Judge R. M. Gibson ordered the ballots, long impounded, to be destroyed and the mail bags containing them returned to the postmasters who loaned the sacks.

The court decision followed the requests of the postmasters, who said they needed the bags.

In 1927, when Wilson contested the election of Vare to the United States Senate, he had impounded the vote of a number of counties, including Allegheny. In retaliation, Vare forces obtained the impounding of the ballots from the counties outside Allegheny in Western Pennsylvania.

Grenet to Address 27th Ward Board

Representative Samuel J. Grenet, executive director of the Golden Rule Club of the Twenty-seventh Ward, will address members of the Twenty-seventh Ward Board of Trade at their meeting tonight at 3145 Brighton road. He will discuss the relief work carried on among needy families and unemployed by the club. New officers of the board of trade will be installed at the meeting.

Council to Hold Play Site Hearing

The hearing for citizens of the Thirty-first Ward on the Hays-Lincoln Place playground will be held before City Council at 2 p. m. tomorrow. Residents have asked Council in a petition to defer purchase of the 27-acre Miller property along the McKeesport road and consider buying smaller sites to serve both Lincoln place and Hays.

3 Children Share In Mother's Estate

BOROUGH HEADS HOLD BANQUET

Prediction that Arnold would join the consolidated borough of New Kensington was made by Burgess John Hunger of Arnold at the banquet given by the New Kensington Chamber of Commerce in celebration of the recent union of Parnassus and New Kensington. The dinner was attended by 300 leading citizens in the banquet hall of the United States Aluminum Company.

Arthur V. Snell of Pittsburgh, executive director of the Allied Boards of Trade of Allegheny County, was the principal speaker. Snell, in discussing the "New Kensington of Tomorrow," stressed the importance of consolidation and urged the guests to forget pessimism and become optimistic about the future.

Other speakers included District Attorney Victor Bouton, Judge Charles E. Whitten of Common Pleas Court, Judge D. J. Snyder of Orphans Court of Westmoreland County, Burgess Daniel Burns of New Kensington and W. S. Gabel, president of the New Kensington Chamber of Commerce. F. S. Moran, first vice president of the Chamber, was toastmaster. V. B. Ziegler, second vice president, was general chairman.

36 FACE SUNDAY DANCE CHARGE

Justice of the Peace Charles W. Linepensel, of Bethel Township, tonight will conduct hearings for 36 persons arrested for participation in a Sunday dance. The dancers are at liberty under $5 bail each, pending the hearing.

Constable Ben Smith made the arrests and declared today he intended to continue raiding establishments where dances are held on Sunday. The constable said the raid was not made under the ancient blue laws, but under a recent act governing operation of dance halls.

SUIT TO GET WIFE DELAYED

Judge James H. Gray, of Common Pleas Court, this morning allowed postponement till Friday in the habeas corpus case of Edward J. Hottinger, a Tech student, against his mother-in-law, Mrs. Maude A. Stifel, of 1034 Murrayhill avenue.

Hottinger charged that he married Marie Stifel on October 27 of last year. On January first, this year, Mrs. Stifel took his wife away when they were living at 1805 Ellsworth avenue.

Attorney O. K. Eaton, who represents Mrs. Stifel, made the request for the postponement, saying that there was a possibility of the case being settled. Mr. Eaton asked until Friday.

LARGER SUBWAY FUND SEEN AS NECESSARY

$6,000,000 Originally Voted Not Sufficient, City Council Will Be Told

Council will be told that the subway which Pittsburgh may have for the $6,000,000 originally voted will be a mistake and that at least $1,500,000 additional will be required for a properly located tube, according to developments in the subway planning.

In addition a second tube has been proposed for future construction under Penn avenue downtown to supplement the main subway and this is estimated to cost at least $2,000,000. The two plans which are finding favor with members of the Pittsburgh Transit Commission represent an outlay of nearly $10,000,000.

Approval by the city of both recommendations would mean that additional financing, probably in the form of bond issues to be voted by the people, would be necessary.

Commission members are reported to favor a subway, with one tube at the outset, which will geographically underlay the Golden Triangle and make all points downtown accessible. It would provide the logical base for future expansion.

The plan proposed for Penn avenue contemplates that all Penn avenue cars enter a subway about Eleventh street and run underground to the vicinity of the Point, having a double track for the return journey.

Woman Saves Baby From Fire in Home

A mother carried her infant son to safety this morning when fire drove two women and seven children into the cold.

Mrs. John McCloskey discovered fire in her rooms at 525 Curtain avenue shortly after 9 o'clock today. She roused her infant son, Jack, and succeeded in carrying him to safety. Mrs. Barbara Baldinger and her six children, who reside in the same house, also escaped without injury.

BUS FARE FIGHT LAID BEFORE COMMISSION

Briefs Declare Coach Line Throttles Competition, Fails in Duty as Carrier

Continuing their fight against the 25-cent bus fare charged by the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company, attorneys for the Allied Boards of Trade yesterday filed briefs with the Public Service Commission. The board's argument was outlined by Attorneys W. G. Negley and George P. Kountz and Harry Bastow, president of the boards.

In the briefs it was alleged the motor coach company has failed to do its duty as a common carrier, that its policy has been to throttle competition, that there is inadequate transportation facilities in Pittsburgh and that the motor coach company does not attempt to meet this need.

The Allied Boards has adopted a resolution asking that the present laws regarding taxation be amended to provide for direct notice by registered mail to owners of properties of any increase in assessments. The present law provides for posting such notices only on property affected by the assessment increase.

Copies of the resolution, signed by Albert O. Horner, chairman of the taxation committee, have been sent to state officials and local representatives in the Legislature.

AUTO HITS BOY; DRIVER HELD

Struck by an automobile at Hamilton and Lang avenues while on his way home from school yesterday, P. L. Milligan, Jr., 13, of 7307 Hamilton avenue, was in Columbia Hospital today with injuries of the head.

John Dasta, 22, of 671 Fifth avenue, Oakmont, alleged driver of the car, took the boy to the hospital. Dasta was arrested and released on a $1,000 bond pending the outcome of the boy's injuries.

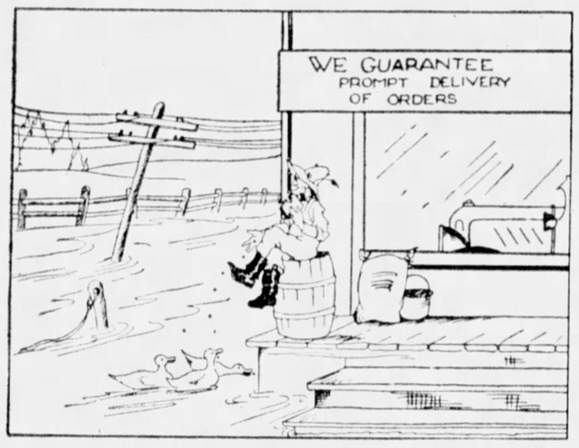
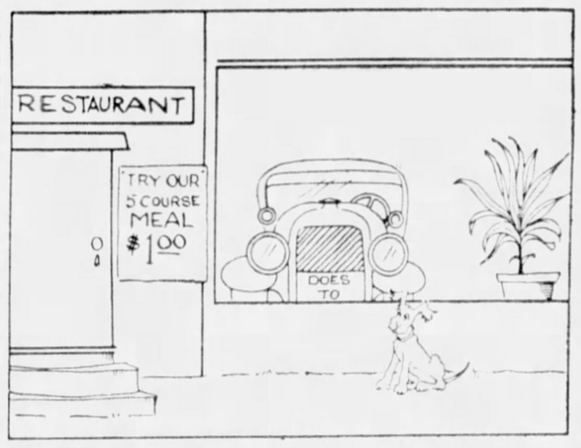
$300 CASH PRIZES — AUTO SHOW CONTEST — 200 SHOW Tickets



No. 20—What name of a car is indicated here?
Its name is there in plain view. Read the sign carefully and you will find it.
The artist has illustrated four things, the names of which begin and end with the same letters as the name of the car.
Try to name all four of these.



No. 21—The sign on the car is the clue to this puzzle. Rearrange its letters to form the name of a make of automobile.
There are some objects in the picture which have names beginning with the same letter as the name of the car. Some are illustrated; others are indicated. Find at least four.

(The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph co-operating with the Pittsburgh Automobile Dealers' Association, is donating these prizes for the best answers and slogans.)

Here is the Sun-Telegraph Automobile Puzzle Contest, based on passenger cars to be exhibited in the forthcoming annual Automobile Show to be held at Motor Square Garden, January 17 to 24, inclusive.

One or two puzzle pictures, in each of which will be concealed the name of an automobile and in each of which are hidden several words, will be published every day in the daily and Sunday Sun-Telegraph.

Readers of the Sun-Telegraph are invited to find the names of the automobiles and to name the hidden words in each puzzle and send them to the Auto Show Contest Editor, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, 612 Grant street, together with a good slogan, descriptive of the Automobile Show. YOU MUST SEND ALL YOUR ANSWERS AT THE SAME TIME IN ONE ENVELOPE AT THE COMPLETION OF THE CONTEST. ACCURACY, NEATNESS AND CLEVERNESS OF SLOGAN WILL BE CONSIDERED IN AWARDING THE PRIZES.

Prizes totaling $300 in gold and 200 show tickets are to be awarded the winners in the contest. Be sure to put your name and address with the slogan at the top of the first page. Your name should appear on each page you send in.

The final pictures will be published January 15. All answers must be in the hands of the Auto Show Contest Editor no later than noon, Saturday, January 17. The winners will be announced at the Automobile Show, Monday evening, January 19, and in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph January 20.

At various times during the contest, the names of passenger cars to be exhibited at the show will be printed. From this list contestants are to pick the names of the cars.

CONTESTANTS ARE NOT TO SEND IN ANSWERS UNTIL THE FINAL PUZZLE PICTURES HAVE BEEN PRINTED. THEN SEND THEM IN ALL TOGETHER AT THE SAME TIME. WRITE THE NAMES OF THE CARS ON SEPARATE SHEETS OF PAPER WITH THE HIDDEN WORDS OF EACH PICTURE IN THE ORDER IN WHICH THE PICTURES APPEARED.

Your slogan must accompany the answers. It may be either rhyme or prose and should be applicable to the Automobile Show. It must be short, snappy and clever. Remember, it is an important factor in deciding the winners.

Any person is eligible to enter this contest except employes of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph or members of their families.

The contest started December 28. If you have missed any of the puzzles you can get back copies of the Sun-Telegraph by addressing the circulation department. Send three cents for daily papers or 10 cents for Sunday's, or the equivalent in postage stamps.

LIST OF PRIZES

For the best list of correct auto names, discovered mistakes, and the cleverest slogan, the following prizes will be awarded:

FIRST PRIZE—$100 in gold.
SECOND PRIZE—$50 in gold.
THIRD PRIZE—$25 in gold.
FIVE PRIZES of $10 each, $50 in gold.

Fifteen prizes of $5 each, $75 in gold.

In case of ties, equal prizes will be awarded tying contestants.

BURNING ACID STOMACH A HUMAN BLIGHT

The acid stomach victim makes evident his vicious presence everywhere. Gastric belching, bad temper, pain after eating, dizziness, heartburn, tendency to catch cold easily, sleeplessness often result from acid stomach. Sufferers are personally uncomfortable and make others unhappy.

Doctors say, "End the acid condition that penetrates into the intestines causing gas, sogginess, inflammation and spreads acid poisons through the system." The best way to end this acid condition is the new prescription, ACIDINE.

Mrs. R. M. Converse, of Erie, Pa., says: "I was always tired out and constipated with a lot of gas. Every night I would be awfully sick. I got to burning stomach, belching, gas, nausea. ACIDINE and it did me rain, heartburn, dizziness, fullness, misery, sour, all gone. I am feeling fine, short breath vanish. Eat, drink all now. Tired feeling and gas and acid you want. Maker refunds money if all gone. I am a changed woman." Get delighted.

Almost everyone who takes ACIDINE raves about it. More than two million packages have been sold. Its absolutely amazing the way this new prescription succeeds when other known remedies fail.

ACIDINE is the only known remedy which contains Japtase that in laboratory tests, digests 800 times its weight of certain heavy, starchy foods which cause trouble. It neutralizes burning acids, soothes irritated stomach linings, stops gassy headaches, sleeplessness and nervousness. No other known remedy contains this combination to end acid stomach. ACIDINE also fortifies you against colds by reducing acidity.

GET ACIDINE today at your druggist. Watch how quick acid indigestion, burning stomach, belching, gas, nausea, ACIDINE and it did me rain, heartburn, dizziness, fullness, misery, sour, all gone. I am feeling fine, short breath vanish. Eat, drink all now. Tired feeling and gas and acid you want. Maker refunds money if all gone. I am a changed woman." Get delighted.

Women Hear Address by Churchill

Just how much in earnest is young Randolph Churchill and just how much is he talking with his tongue in his cheek seemed to remain the question with many of his audience after his appearance before the Sewickley Valley Woman's Club and a number of men guests yesterday.

Very, very young (but he apologized for that by saying time will look after it), about the best looking youngster that has ever come to these shores (a bit after the H. R. H. type), fascinatingly witty, cleverly sarcastic and with such a gift of eloquence as would do justice to a seasoned statesman and orator, this was Winston Spencer Churchill's son, who spoke yesterday on "The British Empire and World Progress."

It will be interesting to watch what life does to this handsome lad who talks so amusingly and so amazingly of "the present type of platitudinous politicians" and "the inconsiderable nincompoops who are at present placed on pinnacles of fame and power."

In a nutshell what Mr. Churchill had to say was that the peace of the world can come in this day of mergers only through the greatest merger it has ever known — the Empire of the English Speaking Peoples, not a merger of disarmed, weak nations, but a union of the richest and most powerful—Great Britain and the United States. For this reason, he says, the English navy, which has always exerted the greatest influence in maintaining peace, must not be reduced.

Mr. Churchill outlined his very original plan (on which he says, he strangely finds no one to concur with him) of increasing the consuming power of Asia. Russia would be made to behave by having an embargo placed on her wheat and timber; China's salvation would come through the presence of very large Anglo-American armies and navies with everything that goes with them. There would be no fighting—China would immediately see the senselessness of that. Less was said of India, but Mr. Churchill declared that Great Britain does not propose to be budged out of what belongs to her by gentlemen who go about wearing loincloths.

The League of Nations, the Kellogg Pact and disarmament, he pronounced, have in them many elements of benefit to the race, but no finality; no complete solution to the problem of world peace.

He arraigned the present day older politicians as those "who actively believe that 90 per cent of the world's problems can be settled by letting off a bad rehash of the Sermon on the Mount, which is of no advantage either to the sermon nor to politics."

It is the paramount duty of the rising generation, he declared, to see that there is increasing cooperation between Great Britain and the United States, not only because they have the same ideals and speak the same language, but because of their unique identity of interests, such as is enjoyed by no other two nations—that of having carved up for themselves all the best hunks and slices of the world.

PLAN TO STUDY RESCUE WORK

Forty members of the volunteer fire department and all members of the police department of Glassport will shortly become pupils in the art of artificial respiration. Borough Council having decided to provide a course of that nature at its meeting held last night. President James C. O'Brien presided.

Councilman Thomas Granger, chairman of the Finance Committee, read the annual report of Borough Treasurer W. S. Kearney, which showed a balance of $5,641 in the general fund. Council directed its clerk to notify Tax Collector Grover Delaney to make a special effort to collect borough taxes as members were informed payment by citizens was slower than in other years.

Police Chief Cobak has informed citizens to send all persons asking for food to the police station, where a kitchen has been established.

Pittsburgh Postal Receipts Decline

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—(AP)—Postal receipts in the two largest cities in Pennsylvania were lower last month than in December, 1929, while the business of Scranton, the third largest city, and Harrisburg increased.

The Philadelphia postoffice receipts last month were $1,998,977 compared with $2,161,777 in the same month in 1929, a drop of 7.53 per cent. Pittsburgh fared better with receipts falling from $854,748 to $835,303, a percentage decrease of 2.27.

Conway Tearle's Former Wife Dies

GLEN FALLS, N. Y., Jan. 13.—(AP)—Miss Josephine Park, of Hudson Falls, former wife of Conway Tearle, motion picture actor, died in a hospital here of uremic poisoning. She had been married twice since her divorce from Tearle.

VARYING FIGURES FAVORED BY THE SURPLICE FROCK

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Jan. 13.—There seems to be no surplus in the production of surplice-bodiced frocks. Dressmakers here find no difficulty in disposing of frocks in which this detail plays an important part. For the surplice closing is most becoming and suitable to every type of figure, as it gives a most flattering neckline as well as a most tailored note to the dress. Despite every other type of garment, the tailored model is still to the fore, albeit in a most tempered form. Even the most fragile fabric is made up with an absence of fluttery detail and neat handling is the watchword. Women like to appear trim and neat without appearing too severe and uncompromisingly tailored, and surely the frocks current just now express these characteristics in a most pleasant manner. Coats, too, share this predilection, for they also seek the tailored rather than the richly elaborate note.

* * *

THE COAT AND FROCK sketched might be used as examples in an object lesson on what the well-dressed woman is wearing. The exceedingly smart coat was observed at the Ritz during the luncheon hour and, although it combines the popular black broadcloth with black astrakan, it is by no means trite in its appeal. The coat is a belted model of black broadcloth, with diagonal pieces forming points in back. Black astrakan makes the collar and cuffs and also trims the pocket flaps and lower edge of the coat in back. With the coat was worn a toque, on unmistakably Reboux lines, of black jersey tweed with a coronet band of astrakan.

* * *

THE FROCK is a model by Maggy Rouff. It is of black double georgette and is tremendously interesting by virtue of its detail, line and cut. The neat surplice bodice is edged with turquoise blue velvet and there are double capelets over each shoulder. The close-fitting sleeves have wrist bands of blue velvet. Especially good is the detail of the skirt with a diagonal center panel and flanked with low-set flounces.

"BROKEN ILLUSIONS CAN NEVER BE MENDED"

SAYS DOROTHY DIX

[world-famous writer on women's problems]

. . . "Don't let a faded, shabby shoulder ribbon break charm's spell"

"YOU GIRLS AND WIVES who long to win love and hold it—live up to a man's IDEAL!

"It's a deep need of man's nature to idealize a woman—to think of her as more delicate, more exquisite than himself.

"SUCH a 'small' offense against daintiness as a faded shoulder ribbon peeping out . . . frayed lace edging visible when you lift up your arm . . . a silk slip not so color-fresh as it might be. Such things as these rob you of all illusion in 'his' eyes!

"And broken illusions can never be mended.

"I beg you all to do these two very simple things:

1. Buy the loveliest, most exquisite lingerie you can.
2. Keep it always color-fresh, beautiful.

"JUST knowing your underthings are lovely does something to you! It makes you FEEL feminine and charming. And when you feel so, you ARE!

"'But how can we keep delicate lingerie fresh and colorful?' girls often say to me. 'Frequent washing leaves it so faded and worn-looking.'

Such glimpses as this tell so quickly if you're feminine and exquisite!

"It is true that ordinary 'good' soaps take away the COLOR and the charming new look of a garment, but this is never the case with Lux. These wonderful flakes are especially made to preserve COLOR and NEWNESS.

"AND AT HOME: Your very SURROUNDINGS can help give you confidence of charm. Pretty curtains, cushions, colorful table linens, all form part of the magic spell if kept ever lovely with Lux."

It was a most charming and delightful talk that George Russell, famous Irish poet ("AE"), gave yesterday before the Twentieth Century Club. His subject was "Personalities of the Irish Literary Movement." He outlined the revival of Gaelic literature and embroidered his scholarly talk with one rich anecdote after another which in themselves were perfect drawings of Irish character. He recited several examples of Irish poetry, which his audience especially enjoyed and included some of his own.

Irene Castle Wars On Dog Collars

CHICAGO, Jan. 13. (AP.)—Some dogs are wearing collars unfit even for a dog, Mrs. Irene Castle McLaughlin said as she began a search among hardware dealers in an effort to stop sale of "objectionable" neckwear. The former famous dancer started her hunt for dealers selling them after she said that two dogs, brought to her animal shelter, "Orphans of the Storm," in Deerfield, had been found to be suffering from the effects of such collars.

CITES BENEFITS OF ELECTRICITY

Mr. Ripley.

Electricity is the emancipator of the American working man and woman, declared Charles M. Ripley, engineer and author, at a meeting of the Electric League of Pittsburgh at the Roosevelt Hotel yesterday.

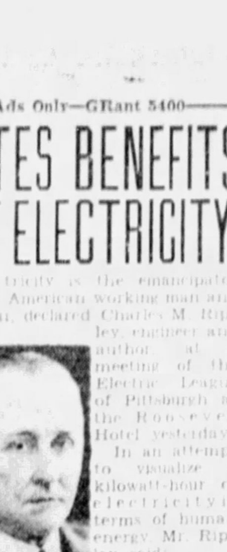
In an attempt to visualize a kilowatt-hour of electricity in terms of human energy, Mr. Ripley said:

"The average American family pays eight cents a day for all electricity used. They use electricity as freely as they do water, but don't realize it.

"The greatest immediate development will be in the electrification of farms and homes. Power and refrigeration are cheaper than light plus ice."

Mr. Ripley addressed a sales meeting at the Ochiltree Electric Company at 8:30 today.

Can't PLAY
Can't REST
—child needs Castoria



WHEN a child is fretful and irritable, seems distressed and uncomfortable, can't play, can't sleep, it is a pretty sure sign that something is wrong. Right here is where Castoria fits into a child's scheme—the very purpose for which it was formulated years ago! A few drops and the condition which caused the trouble is righted; comfort quickly brings restful sleep.

Nothing can take the place of Castoria for children; it's perfectly harmless, yet always effective. For the protection of your wee one—for your own peace of mind—keep this old reliable preparation always on hand. But don't keep it just for emergencies; let it be an every-day aid. Its gentle action will ease and soothe the infant who cannot sleep. In more liberal doses it will effectively help to regulate sluggish bowels in an older child.

All druggists have Castoria; it's genuine if you see Chas. H. Fletcher's signature and this name plate:

Sport Comment

By JAMES J. LONG

After Brother on Grid. In Father's Ring Steps.

PITT WILL MEET ANOTHER HARPSTER

IF PITT THOUGHT it was through playing football against the Harpsters when the Panthers concluded their game with all-America Howard and his Carnegie Tech eleven at the Stadium on that October Saturday afternoon in 1928, the Plaid star's final encounter with the Sutherland forces, the Blue and Gold was sadly mistaken. On September 26 next, in Pitt's opening game at the Stadium, the Panthers will play against another Harpster. This one is Ralph, Howard's kid brother, who is quarterback at Miami University, of Oxford, O., just booked for the 1931 curtain raiser in the Oakland bowl.

Ralph Harpster

Ralph Harpster prepped at Shady Side Academy while his famous brother was gridiron coach there in 1929, and last year he enrolled at Miami. It had been Howard's hope that Ralph would follow in his footsteps and matriculate at Carnegie Tech, but the younger brother had some boon companions in Akron who decided on Miami, and when they entered the Oxford school he went with them. Ralph, built much on the order of Howard, is said to be a fine passer and kicker and to have another great football brain.

THERE IS A GLAMOR around Notre Dame football that always strongly attracts young gridders, and many of them believe they could be no better than a college athlete if they be worn one of the Irish moleskin squad jerkins. Knute Rockne's reputation is at least one factor that leaned in that direction. He says he'd rather play or coach football anything that football, and that he has always got a bigger kick out of basketball and baseball, in particular.

"Football is too much of a drudge," says Johnny Colrick, former Irish end and now coaching in three sports at Georgetown. "The only fun I got out of the sport was in the scrimmage or in the games. The remainder of it was just a long, hard grind. But now, you take basketball—it's real fun even in practice. And baseball, too—why it always gives you a thrill to scoop one up or to knock the apple out of the lot, game or no game."

THE ROCKNE AND Warner systems are the most popular and the most widely followed in football. The University of Kansas now goes other colleges one better by adopting both of them. At least the signing of Moon Mullins as backfield coach for 1931 appears to amount to that.

For Mullins naturally will teach the Notre Dame system, while at the same college is Mike Getto, of Jeannette, former all-America tackle at Pitt, coaching the line and teaching Warner methods. And the head coach is H. W. Hargiss, who is not a graduate of either system, but comes from Emporia Teachers College. It will be rather a mixed sort of stuff that the Kansas players are asked to absorb.

SOME OF THE Red Sox contracts for 1931 call for salary increases and others contain the same figures as in 1930, but not a single player has been cut, President Bob Quinn announces. He says he does not believe in pay reductions, but thinks it is better to get rid of a player who must be cut if retained. The lazy player, or one who does not have the stuff, cannot be spurred to better performances by a raise, he contends, and, on the other hand one who is not worth what he has been getting from a club is not worth keeping at all.

Denny Southern

OUTFIELDER BENNY SOUTHERN, released by the Pittsburgh club in November to Baltimore, will return to the big show as a member of the Washington club of the International League makes peace with the majors on the draft question.

Why the Senators did not claim Southern when waivers were asked is not explained, but it is admitted that they are eager to get him now. The fact that the majors have broken off all business relations with non-draft leagues renders a deal impossible for the present, but if the International consents finally to accept the draft, negotiations for the ex-Pirate will be opened at once.

YOUNG BOB FITZSIMMONS, Al Delmont and other sons of former fistic stars have failed to scale the championship heights, but another is now trying to win the fame once held by his father. He is Billy Papke, Jr., son of the former middleweight champion.

Young Papke has a fight on hand for tonight that may shed some light on his possibilities. In a six-round preliminary to the Young Corbett-Pedro Walker bout in Los Angeles he is scheduled to meet Frank Rowley. If he gets away with this he will brighten his outlook, as Rowley is one of the newest coast sensations and has won nine of his last 11 fights by knockouts.

OF COURSE, NO one would accuse Jack Dempsey of having pulled a publicity act in staging that so-called rough-house scene with Billy Edwards, Kansas City wrestler, in Dallas the other night. It is well known that no wrestler could be hired to take one on the chin or anything like that. Besides, it is perfectly natural that the winner (Edwards won) rather than the loser of a contest should assault the referee, even if you can't figure out why.

ON TOP OF that perhaps it was only one of those opportune happenings that "the thing" did not take place until after the final fall in the wrestling feature when it could get the biggest play possible, with Dempsey in the main role without interfering with the show.

And, of course, nobody could foresee that such an occurrence would create an increased demand around the country for Dempsey's services as referee. So it is unjust to suspect that the act may have been suggested by the same press agent who once even put a bullet in a wall to give the right color to a yarn that robbers had invaded Dempsey's bedroom and tried to shoot him.

CHARLEY BERRY, Grove City football coach and Red Sox catcher, told President Bob Quinn last fall that he was considering giving up baseball in 1931, claiming to have received an offer to become a year-round college athletic director.

Berry evidently has decided to stick to baseball, however, as his signed contract for the coming season has just been received at the headquarters of the Boston club. Even if Muddy Ruel is retained, it is expected that Berry will do the greater part of the catching for the Red Sox, and Boston critics predict that he will rank with the best backstops in the majors.

Charley Berry

ONE OF THE veteran managers of the American League told Burt Whitman that Berry even now is one of the finest catchers in the country. "I picked Berry out early because he had courage," he said. "He had plenty of flaws and there were things he could have done to make him a much better receiver, yet nobody can be a good catcher for my money unless he has courage. All big leaguers must have more than the average amount of courage. And the catcher must have more than any other player on the team. It must be intelligent courage, too. I have seen Berry improving in the technique of his catching. He never need to improve on his courage. And the best thing about him is that he is thinking all the time and consequently is coming to have a higher team value as a catcher and as a batter. Only I'd like to see him he tries a little too hard to get the goats of certain batters. He'll learn after a time that his efforts only make them better hitters."

FORMER NAVY TUTOR GETS PRICE'S JOB

BERKELEY, Cal., Jan. 13 (AP)—William (Navy Bill) Ingram, former coach at the United States Naval Academy, yesterday was appointed head football coach at the University of California for a three-year term.

Ingram takes the place of C. M. (Nibs) Price, who resigned after last season. No salary terms were announced, but it was understood the new mentor will receive between $12,000 and $15,000 yearly.

W. W. Monohan, graduate manager, who signed Ingram during an extensive hunting trip throughout the Midwest and East, had instructions not to offer more than $15,000 a year for a coach.

REPORTS IN MARCH

Ingram notified the California authorities he would report here March 1 in time for spring training. He also stated he would keep on hand one and possibly two assistants.

Ingram was a star halfback and quarterback at Navy in 1917 and 1918. He was named all-America quarterback in 1918.

In 1919 Navy Bill returned to Annapolis as first assistant to Gil Dobie. He organized the Pacific fleet team in 1920 and 1921 while stationed in this section and acted as coach and player on fleet elevens.

But even from the Navy in 1922 (after business manager Ingram accepted a football call from William and Mary College of Williamsburg, Va., and took over the head coaching duties there in September of that year).

WON 32 GAMES

From 1923 to 1925, he coached at the University of Indiana and in 1926 came back to Annapolis as head coach. As head of the Navy squads, his teams won 32 games, lost 13 and tied 4 in the last five years.

His record:

1927—Won 6; lost 1; tied 0.
1928—Won 5; lost 3; tied 1.
1929—Won 6; lost 2; tied 2.
1930—Won 6; lost 2; tied 0.

Signing of Ingram culminated a long search for a successor to Price, who was retained for one year as basketball coach. Graduate Manager Monohan spent several weeks in the East interviewing candidates for the berth.

Price resigned following an unimpressive season that saw the Bears lose four conference and one non-conference games.

MAY ENGAGE MILLER

JEFFERSONVILLE, Ind., Jan. 13 (AP)—Possibility that the Navy coaching staff may lose more than Navy Bill Ingram, who has resigned to go to the University of California, was indicated last night when Ingram said E. E. Miller, Navy line coach, was being "highly considered" as his assistant at the Western institution.

Ingram, in notifying California authorities he will report there March 1, said he would recommend engaging one or two assistants.

Roy D. Schooley, president and manager of the local hockey club, and Charles Reid, coach of the Yellow Jackets, are confronted with something of a problem, but it's a puzzle over which they are pleased to ponder.

Mickey McGuire and Eddie Rodden are the boys who have sent the strategy chiefs into numerous huddles. Mickey, a center, has recovered from an attack of flu, and will be back in action when the Pittsburgh puckmen meet the Olympics in Detroit on Thursday. Eddie, also a center, has shown plenty of class as a Jacket since he was purchased from the New York Rangers a little more than a week ago and Schooley and Reid hesitate to lift him out of his present position to put McGuire back in his accustomed spot.

No manager would object to having McGuire and Rodden in the fold, but Schooley has two more very good pivot men in the persons of Wilkes Fields and Eddie Ouellette, and to pilot even a master-mind can't very well use four centers on three front lines.

FOUR GOOD CENTERS

Ouellette, McGuire, Rodden and Fields are centers of almost equal ability and all are good playmakers. Schooley says Reid will not make any hasty decision for EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY. THE PADLOCKED TREE—So zealously was the injunction method used in Northern California that the government actually succeeded in padlocking a tree. The tree was a redwood, 24 feet in diameter, situated six miles from the town of Dyerville. A hollow chamber in its base concealed a small still. The entrance was concealed by a strip of canvas painted to resemble bark. When the government had won its case in court, a placard which read: "Closed for One Year for Violation of the National Prohibition Act" was hung over the entrance. Accounts of this case were contained in newspaper dispatches of April 8, 1926.

DUDLEY COPS $10,000 OPEN

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 13—(AP)—Led by Bill Ed Dudley, Wilmington, Del., professional, a chosen hundred of the winter golfing army today took the rainbow trail to Agua Caliente seeking the $25,000 pot of gold which awaits tomorrow the winner of the world's richest tournament.

Coming almost out of nowhere yesterday with a 68, one under par, this former Georgian gambled with his shots and won a champion's place in the sixth annual Los Angeles open by posting a score of 285 to lead the field by two strokes.

Dudley, the Pennsylvania state open champion, dragged down $3,500 of the $10,000 purse. Al Espinosa and Eddie Loose tied for second place, one stroke behind, and Tommy Armour and Frank Walsh, both scored 288. Leo Diegel, Harry Cooper, Gene Sarazen and Walter Hagen were among the trailers.

WAYNESBURG INVADES FLOOR OF GROVERS

Geneva vs. Thiel at Greenville.
NON-CONFERENCE.
Waynesburg vs. Grove City at Grove City.
West Virginia Wesleyan vs. Fairmont at Fairmont.

By JESS CARVER.

With leaps and bounds, the college basketballers hop to it tonight to open another week of intensive scrambling and tussling. The boys had a night off last night, putting in the time, no doubt, in serious contemplation of their sins of omission and commission of last week. Those who committed no sins went to the movies.

Ken Loeffler

Tonight's schedule is not overly heavy, but it does not lack in attractiveness. Geneva and Thiel tie up in a conference clash at Greenville; Waynesburg invades the formidable precincts of Grove City, and West Virginia Wesleyan, tickled pink over the triumph Saturday night over West Virginia, plays Jasper Colebank's Fairmont State Teachers at Fairmont.

GENEVA SEEKS REVENGE

The game at Greenville is a return match and finds Ken Loeffler's Covenanters avidly anxious to secure revenge for the 22-21 defeat handed 'em on their own court last week by the Lutherans. A win for Geneva tonight will throw the Beaver Falls entry in a tie for the conference lead with the Lutherans, principally because these two teams are the only ones that have played conference games.

BAKER DUE BACK

Today or tomorrow, Eddie Baker, captain of Pitt's football team last fall, is due back from California, where he played in the annual East-West charity game a couple weeks or so ago. Capt. Baker, upon his return, will go into a huddle with the Pitt folks and nine chances out of 10, will report for basketball practice, despite Coach Carlson's edict, previous to Eddie's departure for the Coast, that he could not play basketball if he deserted the team for its early games.

STEW WILSON OUT

'Ole Lady Hard Luck has taken a backhand slap at big Stewie Wilson of Wash-Jeff, again. Stewie was all set to play center on the basketball team, after putting in a successful fall as fullback on the grid eleven, but the big feller splintered a bone in his ankle (right or left, either is tough enough) and has been ordered to remain off the floor for an indefinite period.

In his absence, Martin is being used at the tap-off position where he is doing quite nicely, thank you.

John Holohan and Chick Davies lead their Dukes out of town tonight, headed for Washington, D. C., where tomorrow the Bluffites will open a three-game stand. They meet Catholic University, American U. and Georgetown. Tomorrow they'll have their pictures taken with President Hoover.

SMITH BACK

Dr. H. C. Carlson, Pitt coach, didn't use Smith against New York University, although he was on the floor and ready to play, preferring to save him for the two important home games this week.

If Smith returns to the lineup against Fordham, it will release Willie Kowallis from guard duty, and he can resume his work at forward, which would give Pitt its original lineup of Kowallis and Lawry at forwards, Smith and Captain Arture at guards, and Albright, center.

MORGAN PREPS FINE EXHIBITS FOR SHAMROCK GOOD FORM

By TOM BIRKS

Manager Mangus got a break when the Dunlevy game was called off last Sunday. The teams walloped around in the heavy mud, which would not have helped Morgan.

It seems settled that Burnaby will play goal. The Morgan youngster is playing a great game, and Bobby Boyle is having trouble these days getting down for low shots.

This is the initial time a first-round game has been staged in this district for a few years. The Shamrocks, the most colorful club in Cleveland, should pack in the fans.

Manager Mangus has not announced his lineup, but it seems certain Dante Villani and Cyle will be the fullbacks, Mangus will be at center half, with Mitchell playing one of the wing halves. Fred Donnelli is likely to start at center, with Biff Donnelli and Charley Powell filling the inside positions. With the substitute rule in effect, Bill O'Donnell will also get in the game. The game will be called at 2:30. The Clevelanders are expected to arrive Saturday evening.

BARBOUR'S SON SIGNED

CHICAGO, Jan. 13 (AP.)—Lou Barbour, Jr., will travel under the eye of his father, Lou Barbour, traveling secretary of the White Sox next summer if he shows qualifications for a major league pitcher. Manager Lena Blackburne has signed the youngster, a southpaw, for a trial with the Sox.

Between Rounds

Andy Andrews, East End lightweight, boxes Mickey Burns, of Johnstown, at Johnstown, January 26.

K. O. Clemens, hard-hitting heavyweight of Cleveland, knocked Joe Monteleone into Mich., Thursday night, with Franklin Young, flashy Negro flyweight, of Detroit, engaging the Cuban Kid in the semi-final.

The card has been selected for the McKeesport show, Thursday night with the signing of Buddy McArthurs and Paul Rinaldo for the second bout and Jimmy Reilly and Jimmy Lloyd for the opener.

The Twenty-to-1 Republican Athletic Association will stage an all-star boxing show in Columbus Hall, North Side, Saturday night.

CAMPBELL TO SAIL

NEW YORK, Jan. 13 (AP.)—Regardless of the financial controversy between the American Automobile Association and officials of Daytona Beach, Capt. Malcolm Campbell, British speed king, will sail from England tomorrow in the hope of challenging time again for the world automobile speed record on the Florida sands.

BUCKY LAWLESS COPS

KAYOS FEATURE BATTLES AT GARDEN

Sports Editor.

The boxing fans at Motor Square Garden last night saw two knockouts of opposite types as Paul Pirrone, of Cleveland, belted Pal Silvers, of Brooklyn, into submission with a body attack that doubled him over the ropes after one minute of fighting in the seventh round of the main bout, causing the referee to intervene, and Jimmy Belmont knocked Allen Beatty, Negro, of McKeesport, "cold" with a left hook to the jaw after 1 minute 50 seconds of the fifth round.

Both jobs were high-class bits of workmanship. Pirrone's one of caving in the body after his opponent's jaw had proved capable of withstanding his hardest punches, and Belmont's an example of a clean one-punch knockout to the jaw. At that, Belmont's finishing blow was a follow-up proposition. He rushed in swinging a right for the head and missed, but nailed his foe with a left to the jaw that sent him down flat on his back for a count that might have been the proverbial million. Like Silvers, later, he had to be dragged to his corner and worked on heroically before he could leave the ring.

BOUTS ONE-SIDED

Both of these bouts were one-sided. Pirrone, who scaled 153 pounds against 154½ for Silvers, rushed and belted Silvers from pillar to post from the very start, except for a letdown in the fourth and fifth rounds, the latter of which was the only one credited to Silvers, when he kept in close and messed up Pirrone with short uppercuts. Paul began loading up his punches again in the sixth round and dropped Silvers momentarily, and, in the seventh, he went to work for the knockout.

A left hook to the body doubled up Silvers in pain and Pirrone crowded on top of him and belabored him with both fists until he wilted entirely and fumbled and slumped, facing the crowd, over the middle rope, half in and half out of the ring, in a neutral corner, whereupon Referee Red Robinson signaled to the knockdown timer not to count because he was stopping the bout. His action robbed Pirrone of a full-fledged knockout victory, giving him instead one of a technical order.

Silvers, who was subbing on less than 72 hours' notice for Johnny Indrisano, of Boston, also was down in the second round, from a right to the jaw, clutching at Pirrone's body and legs as he fell and pulling himself back up at the count of one. He put up a game fight as long as it lasted, but was outclassed.

BELMONT STOPS BEATTY

Belmont, making his second start under the direction of Frank Klaus, former world middleweight champion, abandoned his old boxing methods to adopt the fighting style dictated by his mentor and looked much better than he has in a long time in stopping Beatty, who had handily outboxed him at the Meyers Bowl last summer. He forced the fighting all of the way, never giving Beatty a chance to get into the running, and climaxed the job with that lethal punch in the fifth round. He scaled 150½ against Beatty's 148.

Billy Holt, Negro, of Homewood, 144½, had a slight margin on Larry Madge, of Cleveland, 144½, in the eight-round semi-final, but the judges agreed on a draw, which nullified Referee Al Grayber's vote for him. The bout was comparatively tame, due to the fact that both are counter-punchers, and they wasted a lot of time trying to guess whose turn it was to lead next. They hit hard when they landed, but seldom followed up advantages. Madge was particularly lax in this respect.

BORDELL SURPRISES REILLY

Young Bordell, of New Kensington, 130, put up a surprisingly aggressive bout against young Jimmy Reilly, of McKeesport, 133, in the six-round opener, the best bout of the night, and really won it, but the decision went unanimously to Reilly. Bordell boxes along the stalking lines of the straight-hitting Johnny Dunn, also of New Kensington, and Reilly was unable to get going in his best style. A rematch between this pair would go well.

Sport Vignettes

It has happened . . . . The last of the Zivic brothers has entered the ring . . . . He is Eddie, 20 years old . . . . That makes five members, all of the boys, of the Zivic family who have been drawn into the business of fist-flinging . . . First there was Pete, now 29 . . . And then Jack, now 27 . . . Both of these are virtually through as active combatants . . . Joe, now 23, was next, but he was so proficient at baseball that he gave up boxing to follow the national pastime for a career . . . Fritzie came next, and, at 17, he already has made his mark as an amateur, being one of the best in the local ranks . . . And now Eddie, who has held back longest, is in the swim . . . He is a 128-30-pounder and recently made his debut as a member of the Willow Club, that long-famous cradle of amateur boxing in Lawrenceville.

Eddie Zivic

I was talking yesterday with Jack Zivic, who, as a welterweight star, gave this old town some of its greatest thrills a half-dozen years ago . . . . One of his proudest boasts is that he was the only man who ever knocked out Lew Tendler . . . . He accomplished that feat in Motor Square Garden one night, with the walls bulging with cash customers . . . . Jack is back in town after his second period of living in New York, a bit unsettled as to his plans for the future, but with thoughts of becoming a manager . . . . He would like to steer the ships of his two younger brothers when, and if, they decide to turn professional.

Jack also would like to dig up for himself a good, sturdy heavyweight who can both punch and "take it" . . . . "That's all anybody has to have in the ring, in addition to a heart," the veteran said . . . . "And this is true particularly among the heavyweights . . . I think I could teach a young fellow a little about punching, and, if he has the two other ingredients I could make some money for him through the contacts I have made around the country."—HARRY KECK.

BUILDING UP BIG FIGHTS

By IKE DORGAN

CHAPTER II.

With Walter Fields, his court jester, Tex Rickard had been playing two rounds of golf on the fine Miami Beach course. Back in his new home he was shaking up a couple of cocktails, telling his laugh-maker to hurry into his dinner clothes as they were going stepping. Came the final attack and, with it, his oft-repeated decision not to go into the hands of the surgeons. He fell to the floor and still refused medical aid. Fields sent for three doctors. They came. The old soldier of fortune, used to the tough ups and downs of life, grinned through his pain.

Tex Rickard.

"You fellers have come to cut me. Well, you won't," he muttered. The doctors, knowing instantly that he was in a dangerous condition, urged an immediate operation. Fields, a brother of the famous juggler and Rickard's buddy for more than 30 years, joined the doctors in pleading for an operation. Tex, cool to the last, said finally:

"Boys, I've beat these attacks a great many times. This is a little worse than those that have come before. I want a little time to think it over. I don't like this bowie knife business. I never did. Come back in an hour and I'll make my decision."

HELPED BY DeFOREST

The doctors were back in half that time. Repeated convulsions had made it urgent to operate at once. Tex was brave enough about it in the end, but he lost the toss.

He would be alive today and probably gloating over the size and fortune of the giant Primo Carnera had he taken my advice eight years ago when the attack caught him in the midst of his first great extravaganza.

He must have had a hunch that he wasn't all okay when he set out for Miami on his final trip.

"Better git ready to come on down to Miami, Jimmy. That sore side is bothering me again. I'll need some more rubbing, maybe. I'll send for you if I git the pains again."

A GAME MAN

Tex never sent for him. He didn't have time. An operation eight years before would have been a laugh with this fellow, who, aside from a worked-up abhorrence for the surgeon's knife was one of the truly game men of all time.

There never can be any doubt of that. He was a leader from the beginning and he led in the toughest kind of sports. Jack Kearns has told us that few men in the world could have whipped Tex Rickard on a barroom floor. He was the quiet terror of the gold rushes in Alaska. Never a man to seek trouble, he met it with a cold eye when it came his way. Kearns was in the North when Frank Gotch was there and often had told the story of how Tex took the famous grappler in a cafe fight. I've been with him many a time when the situation looked desperate. Tex always went through, unafraid, cool, nervy, without the batting of an eye.

Tex always was a source of news for the scribes. Many of his big stories popped right from his lips and it wasn't necessary for me to send it out. The great news agency reporters didn't dare let a day go by without calling on Tex. If he didn't have a story he dug one up. This was easy for him, for in his quiet way he always was planning ahead. He was a born gambler and the fight racket was simply a big session at the wheel for him.

LUCKY WITH WEATHER

He was lucky, too. In all the years of his promoting he never insured a bout against rain that might spoil an outdoor bout. It rained on one of the Milk Fund shows, but that actually wasn't his attraction. He simply was handling the affair for outsiders. Having been brought up in the Jimmy Coffroth school of promoting myself, I used to urge Tex to insure against rain when he had a big open-air bout on his hands. He laughed at me.

"Why waste money like Coffroth used to waste it?" Tex would say. "Jimmy insured, paid the premiums and never saw the rain he had guarded against. That's why they called him Sunshine Jim. Ike and I ain't going to fall for that stuff."

Tex would foot up what he had saved in premiums in more than 25 years of promoting and the amount would stagger you.

STUDIED CHARTS

And don't think Tex wasn't an old fox about that insuring business. It isn't generally known but when he picked out say, September as the month for one of his big open-air fight periods, he used to go down to the weather bureau man's office and have him look back through the reports of 20 years or more and find out those days of September which were driest. If he hit on September 7, say, you could go out and bet the world that it wouldn't rain on that day unless a miracle happened. True, he was a gambler but Tex had his cunning way of cinching things.

The day that Benny Leonard and Lew Tendler fought for the lightweight title in the bowl at Jersey City, Tex bet a fellow $1,000 that rain wouldn't ditch his show. It had been raining all of the week before. But he had talked with the Jersey City weather man. Came the day of the fight, Benny and Lew weighed in at 2 o'clock. As they were getting on the scales, the bottom dropped out of the heavens. I never saw such a downpour. Two hours later, the sun was out hot and drying up his arena. That night you could have sworn that rain hadn't visited Jersey City in 50 years. Tex pocketed the $1,000 winning and didn't tell you that it was luck. He knew better. He was betting on what amounted to a cinch.

BEATS RAIN AT PHILLY

Rain threatened his Philadelphia fight the night that Dempsey fought Tunney and lost the title. It began to rain after five or six rounds had been fought. Tex was in his routine hours romping up and laughing by that time. That rain storm didn't count in Rickard's then perfect score.

Tex enjoyed the situation when the writers began to get nervous about his open-air shows. He let them prattle on but he never told them the secret of his cock-sureness. Tex liked the thrill of guessing on the weather, and when rain did come to spoil one of his shows, he laughed and said:

"Everybody's luck changes in the long run. I've had more than my share of luck with the weather. And, whether I won or lost, it always was a subject on which the boys harped. Paying a premium might have saved me $10,000 any open-air night. Talk about my luck with the weather before a big fight meant hundreds of thousands of dollars in free publicity, so I played the winning hand from the beginning. Let it rain. I don't care. They'll come the next night or the next or the next. It takes more than a little rain shower to wash out old Tex Rickard and one of his shows."

they enjoy this over-supply-of-talent situation. Because of injuries, lack of talent has been their problem heretofore.

ONE TOO MANY GOALIES

Furthermore, the club now is overstocked with goalies. Cox probably will be in the nets in Detroit on Thursday, or in Fort Erie on Saturday. The Buffalo Bisons league leaders are to provide the opposition in the week-end tonsil at the Fort. Fisher probably will be returned to the Niagara Falls club Schooley's farm.

The road trip which will be inaugurated when the Jackets leave tomorrow night will mark the first time this season that the local puckmen have been at full strength for an invasion of enemy territory.

Tilden, Mrs. Moody May Get Top Ranking

NEW YORK, Jan. 13 (AP.)—National tennis rankings in the future will be made on the basis of play abroad as well as at home under a new ruling approved by the United States Lawn Tennis Association.

The U. S. L. T. A.'s action was interpreted in some quarters as paving the way for the ranking of Bill Bill Tilden and Mrs. Helen Wills Moody as this country's No. 1 aces during the 1931 season.

The rankings will be submitted for approval at the annual meeting of the U. S. L. T. A. in February.

HOUSTON BUYS PAIR

HOUSTON, Tex., Jan. 13 (AP.)—Houston baseball fans will see Dizzy Dean, pitching ace of the Houston baseball club of the Texas League, in action this season. Dean has been obtained from Houston by the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Hyatts, first made famous by the incomparable Chipper Charley of Pitt fame, still are prominently identified with basketball in the Greater Pittsburgh district, judging from the manner in which the P. A. A. quintet is sweeping aside all opposition this season.

The Winged Headers coached by C. DeWitt Hyatt, father of Chipper Cholly, so far this season have scored 10 straight triumphs at the expense of the best light first-class teams in the section. Included in the P. A. A. lineup is Arthur Hyatt, a younger brother of the former Pitt forward. Arthur has been playing a sparkling game at center for the Oaklanders. Others standing out in the fine showing of the P. A. A. team is Clarence Ball, a forward, and Eddie Smith, a guard.

C. D. Hyatt

The Winged Headers have defeated the I. P. Burkes, 24-14; Emsworth Y, 39-9; Germara Evangelical Church, 37-17; Bellevue, 35-2; Shady Side Academy, 35-15; Koppels, 56-26; Cunegie Club, of Home team, 53-16; Crusaders, 43-15; Warrington Aces, 35-33; and Carnegie Club of Bradock, 25-29. Tonight the P. A. A. passer play Hill Top Y at home.

Two games are edged the followers of the County League tonight, the Lafayette entertaining the Jeannette Felders at Duquesne while Finley passers oppose Ellwood City at Columbus Temple.

In the West Penn League, the Schneiders, leading the way, meet an old rival in the Knickers at Foresters Hall while the Hoyles are the attraction of the North Side Bucks at the Situation Army gym. Ambridge plays at B. & O. in a Greater Pittsburgh League fray.

The Jeannette Felders made their debut as the second half of the County League opened last night by losing to the Charlerol Merchants, 26 to 22.

Shots and Passes

The Y. M. H. A. crusher Mingo Junction quintet will meet the Independents of that place tonight. Next Sunday the Y. M. H. A. outfit of the Cumberland Association of Commerce in Cumberland, Md., will be the visitors the same night.

Joey Drotar, former Duquesne, Saltzer and Lafayette star, continues his play a consistent brand of ball for the Crawford Merchants in the County League. Drotar stood out with the best players in the loop during the first half of the season.

Clairton to Banquet Gridders Tonight

Clairton will honor its high school gridders tonight with a banquet and entertainment in the school cafeteria.

Prof. H. D. Teal, superintendent of schools, T. W. Tingley, chairman of the athletic committee of the school board, and William H. Bryson, high school principal, have played leading roles in arranging the affair.

Charles J. (Chilly) Doyle, of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, will be among the speakers.

IF YOU ARE AILING DON'T GIVE UP.
I HAVE HELPED OTHERS. WHY NOT YOU?
If you are ailing, whether it is your Stomach—Heart—Liver, or some disorder you do not understand, you should have a thorough examination to find out the cause of your trouble. Most troubles can be benefited—even many cases now incurable might have been benefitted if properly treated in time—not neglected because thought lightly of when first noticed. So if you are not sure of your health DON'T DELAY, BUT HAVE AN EXAMINATION MADE TODAY.
IF YOU WANT TO BE ACTIVE—STRONG—ENERGETIC—SUCCESSFUL—HAPPY
Then take care of your health. Health is not a matter of luck—but a matter of care. It makes you fit for the emergency—the world gives its prizes to the physically fit. If you are ailing you should realize the high cost of being careless about your health. The right doctor will help and guide you and put back in your body the vital elements the poisons of your system have been trying to destroy.

MARKET DRIFTS OFF IN DULL SESSION

Traders Discouraged From Extending Recovery by Poor Earnings Reports

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—The stock market drifted lower on apathetic trading today in contamination of the trend at the start of the week.

The exposition of publication of more or cheerful earnings statements for the final quarter of 1930 during the next few weeks, together with talk of further reductions in coal prices, discourages traders from endeavoring to extend the recovery. On the other hand, stock was not pressed anxiously for sale, and the list appeared to lend momentarily resistance to the early afternoon.

Utilities, steels and rails were notably heavy.

With the publication of another annual report by the head of a leading Wall street bank—Charles E. Mitchell of the National City—it was notable that the first time such reports were in substantial agreement that the business depression had reached is approximate bottom. It was also notable that Mr. Mitchell, along with Albert H. Wiggin of the Chase National and Paul M. Warburg of the Manufacturers Trust Company, names no date at which business recovery may be expected and indicates that the process will be slow.

While stocks of both refined and blister copper in North and South America declined only slightly during December, the curtailment agreement reached by producers last autumn is evidently taking effect. Consumption was at an extremely low ebb, but the amount of copper in process at the end of the month was the lowest in several years, so that a seasonal upturn in consumption should immediately eat into the still large stocks of finished metal.

Credit rates still were on the downgrade, with bankers' acceptance rates for short terms quoted as low as 1½@1⅝ per cent, off ⅛, and another new low for this market. Call money held at 1½ per cent at the last desk, which is the lowest in new, race since 1915.

ROADS PROTEST 2-CENT FARE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—Three of the largest southwestern carriers today protested to the Interstate Commerce Commission the proposal of the St. Louis-San Francisco Railway to put into effect two-cent passenger rates over its system.

The roads asked suspension of rates, which are due to go into effect February 1 and an investigation.

The St. Louis Southwestern Railway Company, the Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railroad Company and the Missouri Pacific Railroad Company joined in the application.

The brief contended the reduction would require similar reductions in passenger rates between numerous and important commercial points on the lines of railroads operated by your protestants and ... require numerous reductions at points on the lines of your protestants which are local to such lines.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—Cotton opened steady today at a decline of 1 point on March contracts, 6 points on May, 7 on July to 10 on December, but the contracts were shaken by hedging and trade buying in the first hour of January notices, estimated at 10,000 bales, led to some liquidation in that position which was taken to start in earnest what seemed willing to buy January and sell March at about 25 points. Early offerings, selling off to 6.90c, and the latter month generally covered a good part of the initial setback with March selling around 6.95c and the first hour.

The market was quiet during the morning with prices fluctuating within a few points of yesterday's closing quotations. At midday March was selling around 10.05c, and May around 10.09c, or 2 points net lower.

Morgan Visit to Gibson Is Cheerful News

—By B. C. FORBES—

Mr. Forbes

J. P. MORGAN ... learn ... Mr. Gibson ... Manufacturers Trust Company's headquarters ... Mr. Morgan ... of that institution ... That event ... Wall street ... Mr. Gibson was a signal mark of friendship and approval. I don't believe Mr. Morgan has done such a thing half a dozen times in his life. I am told that when a Morgan partner, a personal friend, telephoned Mr. Gibson that Mr. Morgan was on his way the new president of the Manufacturers Trust responded: "Stop—you kidding of something to that effect."

The incident, apart from its sentimental side, has its relation to the building of labor harmony with the machine process. Mr. Morgan has gone through during recent years, notably since the death, in 1925, of his wife—from whom he was inseparable. The world's foremost banker has been a rather lonely human being since then. He has devoted less time to business and more time to the many other phases of life he finds rewarding—cultivating friendships, exhibiting his good philanthropy, his children and grandchildren, etc. His intimates confide that Jack never lets them call him a millionaire to his face, but that he studiously keeps the reminder as well as his philanthropy ... in the background.

My information is that neither the house of Morgan nor any member thereof is directly affiliated with the purchase of control of the Manufacturers Trust, but that the step was construed by the correct house as most helpful under the circumstances. Mr. Gibson's associates include several highly influential figures as well as men of wealth. It may be that they will not become directly identified with the fortunes of the board of directors at this time. That they are of the "right kind" can be accepted unquestionably.

Thus a situation which was causing uneasiness in high places because of the persistent withdrawal of deposits has been happily eliminated. This is one reason why things have gone somewhat better in Wall Street since the turn of the year.

"IN 50 YEARS," President F. Edson White of Armour & Co., pointed out to me, "the country has gone through 15 depressions. We not only recovered from every one of them, but we gained enough between times to make us the most powerful and prosperous people in the world.

"On the strength of the past we are warranted in looking forward hopefully now. It is true that unemployment is widespread, that industry is marking time and that price levels are remarkably low. But it is also true that the American people are normally great spenders, that inventories are getting very low, and that all we need to bring back prosperity is a resumption of normal buying.

"We should shun the blatant optimist and ignore the pessimist and proceed on the theory that what has happened in the past is the best indication of what will happen in the future."

ALBERT H. WIGGIN, head of the largest bank in the world, is among the first to say publicly what a good many other important men of affairs have been saying privately, namely, that the return of normal times would be hastened by a reduction in wages corresponding somewhat to the decline in the general price level and the cost of living. This is unpopular talk, but Mr. Wiggin has always been noted for his courage. Mr. Wiggin's point is that a great increase in the number of pay envelopes based on 1931 price level would prove more valuable than a much smaller number of pay envelopes based on the 1929 price level. Mr. Wiggin also shows his fearlessness by urging lower tariff rates and a reduction in what debts owed the United States.

It will be interesting to watch what happens.

SLUMS OFFER OPPORTUNITY FOR WORK

No Excuse of Idleness Seen While Obsolete Houses Crowd Cities

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER,
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—The counsel for the Multiple Dwelling Law Committee, in New York City, in presenting a plan for the elimination of slums, has helped to jar the public from the ridiculous assumption that our productive facilities are too large.

The depression has emphasized the extent to which production and consumption were out of balance. However the equilibrium need not be established by cutting down production. A more civilized policy would be to raise consumption to a higher level.

Mr. Rukeyser

There cannot not be real overproduction while people in Arkansas clamor for food. As for housing, there may be a temporary oversupply in a quantitative sense from the mere standpoint of buildings, but there is an appalling shortage of houses, from a qualitative sense.

SLUMS INEXCUSABLE

The slums in New York are the shame of a great metropolis. In other cities there are in the poorer neighborhoods all too many dwellings of an obsolete, indecent, insanitary character.

Harold Riegelman, counsel for the Multiple Dwelling Law Committee, makes the arresting constructive proposal that the city, the state and private capital should combine over a period of 10 years in eliminating slums, substituting model tenements and parks.

Irrespective of the immediate plan, the idea is stimulating, and points to the type of constructive project which can quicken the recoil of activity, now that the necessary deflation is already behind us. There are an infinite number of other jobs which need to be done, such as elimination of grade crossings and improvement of coast-to-coast highways. It is a pity to keep millions idle when, from a long-term standpoint, the woods are full of needful things which should be done.

BANK SHOWS GAIN

Wall street has approved of the new lineup at the Manufacturers Trust Company. Harvey D. Gibson, acting for a group of 150 supporters, acquired working control and became president of the institution. At the end of the first week of the new administration, there had been a net gain in deposits.

The persistent weakness in copper in face of the industry's stabilization plan, in part reflects the known fact that it is tempting to produce the metal and store it up. On the other hand, in the steel industry, production is based on specifications and there is no disposition to build up inventory except on order. Accordingly, the steel industry is in a healthier technical position than the copper industry.

M.-K. PIPE LINE SUIT RENEWED

CHICAGO, Jan. 13.—(INS.)—A few minutes after one suit for receivership and accounting against the Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line Company and its affiliated concern, the Frank P. Parish Company, had been dismissed by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson today, a second suit was filed against the companies with the technical objections removed.

The second suit listed John F. Williamson a resident of Chicago, as the plaintiff. He owns 200 shares of Missouri-Kansas stock for which he paid $7,000, according to the bill.

The original suit was dismissed by Judge Wilkerson on the ground that the plaintiffs, three Cincinnati stockholders, are residents of Ohio and should have started action in a Federal Court either in that state or in Delaware, where the concerns were incorporated.

O. K. on Refunding Asked by P. W. Va.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—The Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railroad today asked the Interstate Commerce Commission for authority to issue $2,200,000 of short term 4½ per cent promissory notes. The issue will be in renewal of a like amount of notes maturing on January 21 and February 28 next. The financing is in connection with the road's Connellsville and Dickerson extension.

Bonds Awarded to National City Group

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—National City Company syndicate has been awarded the $30,000,000 of 4½ per cent Ontario bonds due 1932-1970. The bid was 98.6699. Canadian funds.

Britain Reported Seeking Huge Loan

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Reports in Wall street state that the British government is seeking a large loan, part to be taken in the United States and part in France. The reports placed the amount as high as $500,000,000, and, according to the latest report, the financing will take the form of an issue of dollar bonds to be sold to the public. Several weeks ago reports concerning British financing said it would take the form of a private credit of $500,000,000 from a group of American bankers.

Radiator Standard Net For Year Estimated Higher

In the current year American Radiator and Standard Sanitary likely to derive the benefits of economies in manufacturing and marketing which normally result about two years after such a merger company has been operating. This fact has resulted in predictions of increased earnings this year. Even if there is a slight falling off in the gross volume of business, estimates are that earnings last year will be shown to have equaled about 75 cents a share on the stock. This would compare with $2.02 on the average number of shares in 1929 and $2.27 a share shown by American Radiator and Standard Sanitary companies prior to the merger in 1928. Interests in the company appear confident that the current $1 a share dividend can be covered this year.

Analysis of last week's trading records reveals the fact that activity was once more very largely concentrated in a small group of stocks. A study of the figures shows that approximately one-third of the entire week's turnover of 11,413,000 shares was accounted for by dealings in the 20 most active stocks. The turnover in eight low-priced issues, namely Warner Brothers, the most active; United Corporation, United Aircraft, Vanadium, Radio, Chrysler, Standard Brands and Radio-Keith, aggregated 1,784,600 shares. Six other stocks ruling in moderately higher priced brackets accounted for 1,076,000 shares, while trading in six popular industrial leaders, namely Steel common, Westinghouse Electric, American Can and Case Threshing Machine, aggregated 640,000 shares.

Opinion among several of the street's keenest market observers seems to be that something in the way of distribution was accomplished during the last few days of the advance. The momentary shift of bullish activities into the rails in that interval was viewed as indicative of such an attempt on the part of those who have been fostering the recovery movement. But with public interest in the proceedings extremely light at the moment, it is doubted that much in the way of important distribution had been accomplished. Yet it was evident during yesterday's session that the market, temporarily at any rate, was again being left to shift for itself. Outside of scale-down support which appeared in the leaders there was little or no indication of further attempt by constructive forces to carry the recovery ahead.

Weakness in Westinghouse Electric which yielded to a new low for the bear movement under persistent and heavy pressure was among the discouraging developments of yesterday. The decline in that stock followed the appearance of estimates indicating that the company fell short of its dividend requirements for last year, due to greater contraction than had been anticipated in final quarter profits. Recent forecasts had indicated that net for the full year would run to the equivalent of about $5.20 a share on the combined preferred and common stocks, but current estimates place last quarter net results around the equivalent of 55 cents a share on the combined stock capitalization, which would bring total net for the year 1930 to around $1.80 a share on the preferred and common issues.

Wall street is greatly interested in just how stocks will move in the current week, in view of the numerous differences of opinion existent in usually well-informed circles. This is a time when anyone can express a view upon the future course of prices and readily find a source of high repute to back him up.

As an example, we find one highly regarded brokerage house releasing a statement to the effect that the public instead of getting into the market when it should, is still getting out, while on the other hand, the big interests, which have been out of the market for some time, are now getting in. It points out that if this were not so, stocks would not be going up, and brokers' loans would not be going down, and reiterates its bullish stand that quotations are bound to work higher.

today you must decide for tomorrow

The decisions you make in the conduct of your business today often determine the measure of its future success. One of the most important decisions every young business man must make is where he shall do his banking. A good banking connection is essential to any growing business, and the more it grows, the greater the need for sound banking counsel. Mutual confidence is the basis of negotiations between bank and customer. You cannot begin too early to lay the foundation for such confidence. The Mellon National Bank is always glad to discuss financial problems with young business firms. The size of the firm's account doesn't matter. Many of the Bank's present large accounts had a small beginning.

THE DISAPPEARANCE OF PAPPY APPLEBY HAS GIVEN THE TOWN NO END OF CHANCE FOR GOSSIP AND IT SEEMS TO BE THE GENERAL OPINION THAT AMBROSE POTTS KNOWS MORE ABOUT HIS DISAPPEARANCE THAN HE IS WILLING TO ADMIT
THERE'S SOMETHING MIGHTY FUNNY BOUT OLD APPLEBY— TH' WORLD DIDN'T GET OPEN UP AND SWALLER HIM
HELL TURN UP— I OWE HIM TWO DOLLARS FOR A LOAD OF PEAT LITER AND I NEVER HAD ANY LUCK
THIS FELLAH POTTS AND OLD APPLEBY DIDN'T GET ALONG SO GOOD— I AIN'T SAYIN ANYTHIN BUT I GOT MY HANDCUFFS ALL OILED UP
I SAW HIM I BET IT WASN'T A DAY BEFORE HE DISAPPEARED AND HE WAS THE SAME OLD GABBY APPLEBY SAYIN TEN WORDS WHERE ONE WOULD DO.
THEY'RE LOOKIN EVERYPLACE BUT HIS CELLAR— PERHAPS THEY BETTER START DIGGIN UP HIS FARM —HE'S NEVER BEEN MOREN 20 MILES AWAY FROM HOME IN OVER 10 YEARS
WE THOUGHT WE'D COME OVER AND CHEER YOU UP SYLVY— THERE AIN'T NO USE OF YOU TAKIN ON SO
YES YOU KNOW EVERYTHING IS FOR THE BEST— AND YOUR PAPPY IS ALONG IN YEARS— YOU'VE HAD HIM FOR OVER 40 YEARS— THAT'S MOREN SOME PEOPLE HAVE THEIR PAPPIES AND THEN AGAIN HE MIGHT TURN UP SAFE AND SOUND —HAS ANYBODY LOOKED IN THE SOUTH CREEK YET?

Connie Is Humiliated at Suspicion of Love

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Connie Calvert, rich society girl, shares her home and fortune with her newly found half-sister, Kitty, whom she discovers living in poverty. Kitty falls in love with Jim Tracy, Connie's former fiance with whom she had broken her engagement when she learned he was a fortune hunter. She now fears for Kitty and calls upon Duke Garson, Kitty's underworld friend, to use his influence. Duke refuses to interfere. He tells Connie he is interested in her. Connie, fascinated by Duke, is disappointed to learn he is an adviser to the underworld. She sees him talking to Higgins, the butler. Later, Duke explains that Higgins informed him of her mother's carelessness with her pearls. Connie realizes she loves Duke.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXXII.

Connie's realization that she had fallen under Duke Garson's spell came upon her so suddenly that, for a moment, she was almost dizzy. It was as though a virus had entered her blood and produced a queer feverish viewpoint that robbed her of her cool intelligence.

Her eyes fell upon Jim Tracy, and it occurred to her, poignantly, that he had never made her feel like this.

"My God, what's wrong with you, Connie?" said Kitty looking quickly at her sister's strained, startled face. "You look like you've seen a ghost or something."

Connie Impatient

Kitty [illegible] her impatience, her gradually [illegible] antipathy, struck [illegible] pen. Connie a shattering [illegible] of intelligence [illegible] like [illegible]. The girl at that moment seemed [illegible] amiable [illegible] of understanding [illegible] even [illegible] Tracy standing there with a half-smile was an obsession. Connie no more important than a clothes-line dummy. Nothing they said or did would reach Connie [illegible] she possessed [illegible] accident or assault of a significance too incomprehensible to be shared with anyone. To herself, even, it was no more than a vague, alarming sense, yet it was potent enough to reduce all else to insignificance.

There was in Kitty's swift recognition of her distraction a [illegible] was unbearable. They meant to be friendly, but each word they uttered carried a sting.

"Oh, you're both silly," she said, sharply impatient. "My head swam for a moment, that's all. Excuse me a minute."

She went into the house seeking Garson. In the hallway she met him coming from the dining room. When she looked at him her vision was fogged and she saw him blurred like an image reflected in water.

"I had a talk with Higgins and I think I made a believer out of him," Garson told her crisply. "He won't touch a thing in the house, not a spoon. His fear is stronger than his dishonesty, and he'll behave absolutely."

There was no chance in Garson's manner and Connie was conscious of a great relief. Despite all of his insight he did not [illegible] believe me, it's one grand and glorious feeling." Of course, I was a lot crazier about him a day or two ago, but I didn't know I felt that way about him—and he didn't know I felt that way about him."

Jim Tracy glanced quickly at Connie, a bit uncertain, then, half playfully, he put an arm around Kitty's waist and drew her against him.

"Don't think we are crazy, Mr. Garson," he smiled, with a trace of apology. "It's just one of those things, I guess. You know, I was engaged to marry Connie until she gave me the air. It makes me feel like a polygamist or a bigamist, or something—but Kitty came along and caught me on the first balance. You see, I thought so much of Connie that I wanted to stay in the family, somehow, and Kitty and I started clicking with each other right off the bat."

"And how!" Kitty chimed in. "I guess we'll be a king for everybody's blessings before long," Jim concluded.

"Well, I've known Kitty for a long time and she's a great girl," Garson said, quietly. "I never knew her to fall so hard for anybody before. You're a lucky man, Mr. Tracy."

Puzzling Sensation

In the back part of her mind Connie still disapproved definitely of this hasty affair; she still kept her unaltered opinion that Jim Tracy was a fortune hunter, but overshadowing all [illegible] Pride rose in her, a resentment, an impatience with herself that made her strained and unnatural, for fear of revealing her feelings she grew more distant to Garson. It seemed as though the little group would never break up and give her the chance to be alone.

"I'll just leave you two alone—I expect you've been wanting to get rid of me and Jim all evening," she said, with a laugh.

"Don't please don't!" Connie cried, suddenly, unexpectedly.

Men Introduced

She saw Kitty [illegible] of self-consciousness [illegible] and kiss Garson [illegible] that meant nothing [illegible] Connie [illegible] with a [illegible] between the men. In Connie's eyes Garson was the center of the group; his every movement reacted upon her subtly, with diminutive tremors.

"But Connie tell you the news," Kitty demanded gayly.

"What news," he asked, smiling at her.

"Jim and I have just found out today that we are both crazy about each other!" Kitty declared, enthusiastically. "Believe me, it's one grand and glorious feeling." Of course, I was a lot crazier about him a day or two ago, but I didn't know I felt that way about him—and he didn't know I felt that way about him."

DAILY TRUE STORY — Miracle!

Tourists stopped their cars. Exclamations of delighted "Ohs" and "Ahs" and "Just smell" were to be heard many times daily.

This was in that section of Southern France where seeming miles of flowers are grown and where long rows upon long rows of thin trays could be seen, filled with flower petals.

Anton Valdin did not exclaim with delight. But then Anton was a native. He had picked flower petals until his back ached, almost since he could remember.

Anton did not hate the flowers, but he knew that old Purtois underpaid him. He knew that he was overworked and that so long as he was able to pick the petals he would be out there doing that, or caring for the cultivation of the great beds before blossoming time.

Anton liked to play the violin. He was no great genius at it, yet he was good.

The many workmen loved to hear him play after working hours. He used to play for the dances, but of late he played mostly the sad and sentimental things, sitting out in front of old Morin's cottage where he had lived since his uncle went to America.

Anton had been quite happy before his uncle went away. Not only because he had lived happily with his uncle, but because Marie, daughter of his uncle's second wife by a previous marriage, also lived there.

Anton planned to marry Marie all in good time. She was only 15 then, but in a few years they would marry.

Then it was that he played the gay music on his violin.

But his uncle fell heir to a little money. To him it was a fortune. And so the uncle packed up and went to Southern California. He had a friend there who had been home and told him about the country.

Letter From Uncle

"I can grow flowers there and prepare the essences," the uncle told Anton, "and I can make much money for myself all in good time. Here, I slave for old Purtois all my days and get nowhere."

Anton knew that this was true.

"Save your money, Anton, and come along later. If all goes well, I cannot afford to take you now. It will be a long time before I start to make a profit," the uncle had said.

Anton realized this. The uncle had already reared him since childhood and had done enough.

Anton had promised Marie that he would, in a year or so, join her in that wonderful Southern California part of America.

It had taken the uncle longer than he expected. But after three years he had written to Anton. He explained that by next season he would be taking in money. Already he had a market for his perfume essences in the raw. His samples had been good, very good. If Anton would come to America now and help him on his leased acres, they would struggle along and next year begin to get rich—as the uncle viewed riches.

When Anton saw this he wanted to hurry. Marie was 18 now—and beautiful—and the moment Anton got over there they would marry, for Marie had promised.

He learned what the passage would cost and decided that he could make it. But to his dismay he also learned that there was a railroad journey of nearly three thousand miles after he had landed in the great America. It amazed him and discouraged him.

The railroad journey would cost him more than the fare across in the ship.

He was too proud to write to the uncle and explain that it would take almost two more years of work before he could save enough money, at his small wage, and he was too proud to ask the uncle for the money.

Starts for America

It was Paul Gamache who had the brilliant idea. Paul was Anton's close friend and worked beside him gathering the eternal flower petals.

"Look, Anton, you play well the violin. Why not go to America and play? There is no language to music. You play well by note, and in the big New York there is always the chance for the good violinist, hein?"

If he went steerage he would have some money left. He would have enough to live on for a month. In that time he could find a job with an orchestra. They paid big money there, more for a week of violin playing than he could earn in three whole months where he was with old Purtois.

In America he found a very modest place to stay with some French people only newly arrived themselves.

"Tell him," the man ordered a brother musician.

"It is the rule the gangsters, they smash your instrument if you do not pay a dollar a night to them for protection," Anton was told.

Anton paid.

The place where he played was raided. More trouble and worry and loafing.

Things got worse. Southern California seemed to be 10,000 miles away instead of three. What would Marie think? Some rich young man would see her—to see her would be to want her. Marie wouldn't wait.

Anton was never so unhappy, or hungry, for that matter.

Well, there were other things to do. He could wash dishes, that would give him food and pay for the tiny room he occupied.

Meanwhile he had to eat—that couldn't be delayed.

Anton decided. It hurt him, but he had to do it. He would put his violin in the shop of one of those men, they called them "uncles;" there were three golden balls over the doors. He would get a ticket and money, the money would buy food.

It was late and very dark. Anton was hungry, rather weak from hunger, as he went down the dark street. Some of these places were open very late. He must find one, he couldn't wait until morning.

Two men came up to him suddenly.

"You're late," one said to him, opening the car door and starting to pick up Anton's violin and case.

"Non!" Anton said, trying to hold his case.

"Aw, here it is," said the other.

Given Money

"The boss says for you to [illegible]," he told Anton and the car moved away and disappeared around a corner.

Anton went to the nearest light and examined what had been thrust into his hands.

Anton arrived at his uncle's place in Southern California. He had bought himself nice clothes, and as soon as he had hugged and kissed Marie he explained to his uncle.

"It was a miracle, mon Uncle," Anton said. "Some men knew my troubles, they took my violin and they gave me money, five thousand of American dollars—the violin was worth no more than a hundred francs. I tell you it was one miracle!"

In Skag Malone's back room, for a long time, some of the crowd discussed what a sap someone had made of Whitey Piazzata and Jack Aarons.

"Can you imagine slick guys like them thinkin' they was gettin' a fiddle case full of dope and payin' a guy grand for it?" Skag would say, then he would laugh. "Instead of th' coke, there was nothin' but a fiddle in it."

Must Uncle Sam Pay?

European Nations Still Seeking to Get United States To Make Up for German Indemnity.

Time and again during the last three years the Hearst newspapers have warned the American people that the "one increasing purpose" of European nations and American international bankers was to make the United States pay the German indemnity to France.

In editorial after editorial it has been pointed out that if the trick could not be turned in one way it would be turned in another.

The original method was to pay France by selling the German indemnity bonds "to the investing public, principally the American investing public."

A new bank—called the Bank of International Settlement—was set up to issue these bonds. Controlling it are the same European nations that run the League of Nations and dominate the League Court.

These nations could not get the United States to become a direct member of the new bank. So they got a group of American international bankers to subscribe America's share in the bank and one of these bankers was put at the head of the bank.

When France had obtained her money, through the sale of these indemnity bonds, principally in the United States, the United States would be left holding the bag of German indemnity bonds.

Then when Germany found herself unable to pay these vast sums France would say to the United States:

"That is a matter for you to settle with Germany. We got our money when these bonds were sold to you sap Americans."

Under this scheme we would have lost our good American money and also incurred Germany's hatred if we tried to collect it. In other words, Germany's resentment against the European nations that conducted this scheme would have been shifted to the United States that fell for it.

Under this scheme France would have committed the offense of levying an unreasonable indemnity—one far beyond the capacity of Germany to pay. The American international bankers would have reaped their reward in the form of fat commissions for selling these securities. And we would have experienced the usual fate of a meddler and intermediary in a quarrel not his own.

We would have gotten no praise from France for having paid her racketeer demands upon Germany, but we would get the whole blame from Germany when we tried to collect the extortionate indemnity bonds.

Now, in the face of this new situation, the foreign nations and the American international bankers devise another scheme to make the United States pay the indemnity that France demands from Germany.

Under this new scheme the United States is to be called on to forgive France her debts to us so that France can reduce Germany's indemnity without losing any blood money.

In other words, France is going to levy an assessment on the American people to make up for the money she cannot collect from Germany.

So you see, as the Hearst newspapers have pointed out time and again, Uncle Sam is always cast for the part of Uncle Easy Mark, although these foreign nations still call him Uncle Shylock.

Shylock, however, was a money lender; but Uncle Sam is always asked to be a money-giver, a sort of "Coal Oil Johnny," scattering his money with both hands until he is broke, while European nations and American international bankers pick up the money and laugh at him.

Let us ask ourselves before the new year is any older—does Uncle Sam really deserve to be considered such a financial idiot as these foreign nations evidently think he is?

Certainly not as far as the American people are concerned. It is the American politicians and the American international bankers, who own a lot of politicians, who are to blame for the false impression about Uncle Sam that evidently exists abroad today. They are the ones who have tried to make our good Uncle Sam an international "come on" for Europe and the laughing stock of the rest of the world.

It is about time that the plain people of the United States showed the gold-brick bankers and the green-goods politicians that Uncle Sam is not a come-on to be robbed by foreign nations and their expatriate American fiscal agents.

A Pittsburgh Product

Steadily Increasing Use of Aluminum Is Beneficial to a Big Local Industry.

The National Geographic Society issued today a bulletin on the increasing use of aluminum. It sets forth that the metal, formerly so scarce and expensive that it was called "silver of clay," is now invading the field of substances that were in use before the birth of Christ.

It is rapidly becoming impossible to dodge aluminum, the society tells us, and presents a long list of commodities in the manufacture of which it is used—things like razor blades, and tobacco pipes, and cold-cream jars. From 50 to 100 tons of aluminum are utilized in a single office building.

The development of new uses for aluminum is of particular interest to Pittsburgh, for sentimental and business reasons. The process of manufacturing aluminum cheaply was invented here, and the aluminum industry centers in Pittsburgh.

Unemployment Census

Publication of Figures Should Be Expedited, to Make the Survey of the Greatest Usefulness.

The federal government is about to take a census of the unemployed in Pittsburgh and certain other cities.

The move is a praiseworthy one. It will do away with guesswork and furnish the welfare organizations and the City Council definite information for their guidance in coping with the unemployment situation.

That the survey may be of the greatest possible usefulness, the work should be rushed and the figures published without a day's delay.

He Can't Last Long With This Treatment.

1931—ALIVE AND KICKING.

Not quite two weeks old but going strong, the lusty youngster, 1931, administers a couple of well-aimed kicks at the bogey of depression.

As this cartoon shows, the newcomer may be an infant, but he wears man's size boots and knows what to do with them.

Depression, you observe, does not think much of him. And he, as you also note, thinks even less of depression.

Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe's 1931 budget sets aside $13,800,000 for improvements.

Canadian National Railways have ordered 500 general service cars and 500 gondolas from the Eastern Car Company at Trenton, N. J. New automobiles in the hands of distributors and dealers are 30 per cent less than at the close of 1929. That is true also, in greater or less degree, of the stocks of other commodities and manufactured articles.

And so it goes down the list of this industry and that industry. Nobody makes big claims. Nobody, however, would swap the prospects today for those of a year ago, and that is probably the healthiest sign yet manifested.

Young 1931 has made a fine beginning. He has jumped on depression with both feet. A few months more of that treatment and depression will get the idea that it is not wanted.

Marry-Go-Round

And Yet They Love Us—

There probably isn't a divorcee living who doesn't feel that she would have made an ideal wife if she had married almost any other man.

* * *

A man proves his love by the things he is willing to DO for a woman's sake; a woman proves hers by the things she is willing to do WITHOUT for a man's sake.

If alimony were abolished, more men would be anxious to brave the sea of matrimony and fewer women would be rushing for the lifeboats.

The old fashioned girl started the boys dreaming of "love in a bungalow," by showing them what she could do with a cook book and a chafing dish; the modern girl starts them wondering about the price of a kitchenette-apartment by showing them what she can do with a cocktail shaker.

When the genial G. K. Chesterton asserts that it was probably the cave-woman who carried the club, and that the cave-man was the first authentic edition of "Mr. Jiggs," he little knows how many young feminine illusions he shatters.

No matter what kind of face a girl is born with these days, by the time she finishes putting on the modern improvements it is something that Nature never dreamed of.

The "Bachelor Girls' Exhibition" in London features a Chamber of Horrors, which include a ducking-stool, a scold's bridle, boned collars, steel-ribbed corsets and forcible feeding.

It is not disclosed whether or not this priceless exhibit contains eyebrow-tweezers, invisible stockings, face-peelers, spike-heeled shoes, Summer furs, backless evening gowns, sleeping pajamas, face-lifting instruments, permanent waving machines and reducing diets including spinach—all the instruments of torture with which women starve, freeze, parboil and mangle themselves today.

THE AIM OF EDUCATION

By Archibald Henderson

One of the most immediate and pressing problems in America is the formulation of correct modes of approach in the acquisition of knowledge. American universities are coming in nowadays for some very hard knocks. Our high school system is in a chaotic and unsatisfactory condition. The equipment is greatly superior, in cost and completeness, to that found in educational institutions in any other country. The development and progress of education in recent years, judged by increase in numbers, is astounding. During the past three decades, the number of high school students in the United States has increased 800 per cent! During the same period the number of students in our higher institutions of learning has quadrupled.

The basic aims of education are now receiving close and intensive study. Science is gaining, if it has not already gained, a predominant place in our everyday thinking. The American desires efficiency; he wishes to see the results of study. Science fulfills this desideratum in fullest measure, by demonstrating that the knowledge acquired through scientific study is significant knowledge.

There was a time when education was thought of as a sponge-like process. The student allowed knowledge to seep in as a sponge soaks up water. When the saturation point was reached, the student was educated. It was a static ideal; the orderly accumulation of information for its own sake, as a formal knowledge necessary for the "culture" of the individual. It has been largely through the development of the scientific spirit that education has taken on a dynamic character. As McPherson puts it: Knowledge is to be sought in order that it may be used to invent, to create, to control . . . The past is our storehouse of experience and the foundation under our feet, and is of value just in so far as it is of service in guiding us into larger knowledge and into those uses and applications that contribute to right living.

America is fortunate in having philosophers who are imbued with the spirit of dynamic education. Conspicuous among them are Dewey and Whitehead, both of whom regard education as a force for developing creative and constructive power in the individual. Education, says Whitehead, is the art of utilization of knowledge. The only use of knowledge of the past is to equip us for the present . . . . We must beware of inert ideas, that is to say, ideas that are received into the mind without being utilized, or tested, or thrown into fresh combination.

The scientific habit of mind, in all branches of study, is the great need in modern education. As Wolfe has so well pointed out, the scientific mind is objective, impersonal, soundly rational; observant, critical, and reflective; constructively imaginative, fearless in facing facts and courageous in defending its convictions. The scientific mind seeks to discover the underlying, hidden laws of nature; and to use them for man's betterment.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

A couple of youngsters came to visit me. Nice, lovable young scallywags, the boy 19, the girl a year younger. Holiday vacation—I wanted to give them a treat. So I bought tickets for a musical comedy at one of our "good houses." Didn't know anything about it, but I thought it would be lively and colorful. Legs? Oh, of course. And maybe a so-n'-so joke. But I'm no prude. And young people aren't wrapped in cotton wool any more. So off we went, all set for gay events.

Before I had been in that seat 15 minutes, I would have given 10 times the admission price not to have come!

The girl was scarlet. The boy was squirmy. All the careless young delight had gone from their faces—smeared out. They looked furtive and fumbly and old. And I, trying my best not to see them, felt like a professional contributor to the delinquency of youth. For that show was dirt. And nothing but!

It wasn't clever. It wasn't funny. It was crude and stupid—vulgar. IT WAS A VULGAR WORD. DONE IN SPANGLES AND ELECTRICITY, LASTING TWO HOURS.

And thousands of people, decent, healthy, sensible American people . . . respectable fathers and mothers . . . gentlemen, ladies and sweet, fine youngsters . . . paid from $3 up admission to see and hear that word and roar with laughter over it.

When we were 10, we had our mouths swabbed out for saying words like that. And now it's our national amusement!

Doesn't it make you wonder? Doesn't it shock you? Maybe not. "It's too childish to be shocking," you say. "And it really can't do any harm. Modern young people know all about those things anyway—"

Of course they know them. But what of it? Is that any reason for making a show of them? If we're going to make a show of everything we know, where'll we stop? Why bother with civilization at all? Why not rip off our collars, yank down the window shades and go native entirely?

And if you don't like it—and it does shock you—and make you mad—what then? Who supports these shows? Who demands them? WHOSE FAULT ARE THEY, ANYWAY?

Wise Words

History is a distillation of rumor.—Carlyle.

For though with judgment we on all things reflect,
Our will determines, not our intellect.
—Waller.

Men of age object too much, consult too long, adventure too little, repent too soon, and seldom drive business home to the full period, but content themselves with mediocrity of success—Bacon.

Talk not of wasted affection, affection never was wasted.
If it enrich not the heart of another, its waters, returning
That which the fountain sends forth returns again to the fountain.—Longfellow.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Face to Face

Today I met a woman face to face,
Who at first glance seemed wholly strange to me,
Yet in that instant's all-revealing space
Her inmost being I could clearly see;
I held the keys to every dream and deed,
Knew well the motive back of every act,
I solved the riddles she could never read,
Mine were the answers that her life had lacked.
She seemed a stranger, yet some kinship bound
My heart to hers and held our souls in thrall;
With that rare gift of insight so profound
And when I scanned her face, it was my own,
She was the self whom I had never known!

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—In active hours Times Square is a gushing fountain of scandal, intrigue and human pettiness. It is in perpetual boil, but at 4 a. m. in its first lap of sleep there is the icy indifference and the sullen languor of the ashen gray sky.

In an all-night sandwich parlor I just left, only a sprinkling remained. A few nodded at tables, food half eaten. A tipsy, sobbing girl, whose face was smudged with mascara, moaned: "A sweet jam you got me into. If I go home he'll kill me." One of those sure guys reading a racing form.

Outdoors scarcely a dozen in sight. The only noise—the slim chime of far-away bells. A newsie, eyes heavy with sleep, uncurls in a hallway, stretches and shuffles toward a subway kiosk for his supply of morning papers. A careening mail wagon screams across town. A lone diner sits in Lindy's.

Several stragglers drag out of an all-night movie, coat collars up and caps pulled far down. They stand hesitatingly at gutters in the bracing air, shrug and move off nowhere. Stool and counter places have a customer or so hunched over thick coffee cups, dunking half-heartedly.

Suddenly Broadway stiffens. Floodgates are unloosed. There is the confusion of honking taxis, sirening trucks and a scurrying foam of faces. Save in the shady hotels where patrons sleep until dusk, all is vulgar display—the exhuberance of Sodom.

A new publicity man was sent to a dock to meet an incoming Russian actor, cast for a brawny role in the movies. He was told to send his description to newspapers and sent this: "He weighs 237 pounds, stands 6 feet 3 in bare feet, neck 18 inches around, and smells like a wolf."

* * *

The most distinguishing mark of gentlemen's evening dress is the set of the white bow tie. To aid this fashionable foible comes the new evening wing collar with the tabs cut out semi-circularly to make room for the knot. A sartorial "center door fancy," as it were.

* * *

Witty wights of Park avenue flapperdom now cry "Wood alcohol!" when saying farewell. Buckwheat snappers were chirping that in Gallipolis yaws and yaws ago.

* * *

She is one of those exotic beautiful flowers blooming in the Broadway muck. Her lovers have come from dignified mansions eastward, from the labyrinthine channels of Wall Street, from ducal palaces in the old world and where not with a precise but licentious unity. (All of which is very fancy and I can recite On the Road of Mandalay, too.) But a few months ago she crossed with an Argentine—a gigolo. He paid no attention to her on shipboard or in Paris. Instead of the usual intriguing little person, to him she became a pest. Her ardor was so purblind that she literally threw herself at his feet. But to no avail. The crowning insult came when in one of her tearful entreaties he sneered: "You are too easily won. Even a gigolo likes resistance!"

* * *

I wonder if others, too, like to poke around those garishly lit delicatessen shops in New York. To me there is something fascinating about the odors—like the dry smell of musk or the perfume of mouldering spices in the East India Dock warehouses. Incidentally Lafcadio Hearn is the only writer I know who has written entertainingly of the psychological drama of smells.

Text for Today

For our light affliction, which is but for a moment, worketh for us a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory; while we look not at the things which are seen, but at the things which are not seen: for the things which are seen are temporal; but the things which are not seen are eternal.—II Corinthians, iv:17, 18.
